The Lost El Dorado

My Fifty Years in the
Guyanese Wilds

Matthew French Young

The jungle gives a bushman a different outlook. You know things will constantly go wrong that you have no control over. You don't give in, but accept the fact that you have to work around things to come to terms with the land. Living this way involves a full commitment to getting right down to basics. You have to rely on yourself, not on other people, so you develop a very honest relationship with yourself.

I thank God, or whatever or whomever it is, for my being alive and for the earth and the beauty it contains and for the things I experience. We need to get back to the idea that we are all responsible for our own actions, not somebody or something else.
