Hal Hartley:

The Cinema of Hal Hartley Steven Rybin, 2016-12-27 Over the course of nearly thirty years Hal Hartley has cultivated a reputation as one of America's most steadfastly independent film directors. From his breakthrough films The Unbelievable Truth 1989, Trust 1990, and Simple Men 1992 to his recently completed Henry Fool trilogy, Hartley has honed a rigorous deadpan and instantly recognizable film style informed by both European modernism and playful revisions of Classical Hollywood genres. Featuring new essays on this important director and his films, this collection explores Hartley's work from a variety of aesthetic, cultural, and economic contexts while also looking closely at his collaborations with actors, the contexts of his authorial reputation, his reworking of the romantic comedy and other genres, and the shifting economics of his filmmaking. This book, up to date through Hartley's latest film Ned Rifle 2014, includes new scholarship on the director's early work as well as reflections on his cinema in connection with new theories and approaches to independent filmmaking. Covering the entire trajectory of his career, including both his features and short films, the book also includes new readings of several of Hartley's seminal films, including Amateur 1994, Flirt 1995, and Henry Fool 1997.

Performance in the Cinema of Hal Hartley, Hal Hartley Mark L. Berrettini, 2011-01-05 Since the late 1980s, Hal Hartley has challenged standards of realist narrative cinema with daring narrative constructions, character development, and the creation of an unconventional visual world. In this pioneering critical overview of his work and its cultural/historical context, Mark L. Berrettini discusses seven of Hartley's feature films, including The Unbelievable Truth, Simple Men, Amateur, Henry Fool, Fay Grim, and The Book of Life. Drawing on journalism, theories of representation, narrative, and genre, and cinema history, Berrettini discusses the absurdist/comedic representation of serious themes in Hartley's films: impossible love, coincidence, and human relations; extreme isolation; and the restrictions posed by gender norms. He looks at the films' consistently absurd tone and notes how these themes reappear within framing narratives that shift from the seemingly mundane in Hartley's earliest works to the vibrantly creative and fantastic in his later films. Employing close analysis and theories related to cinematic narrative and to realism, the book's critical appraisal of Hartley's films considers aspects of American independent cinema and postwar European cinema, antirealism, and minimalism. The volume concludes with a pair of in-depth interviews with the director from two distinct points in his career.

The Cinema of Hal Hartley Sebastian Manley, 2013-07-18 One of the most significant contributors to the American independent cinema that developed over the late 1980s and 1990s, Hal Hartley has throughout his career created films that defy convention and capture the stranger realities of modern American life. The Cinema of Hal Hartley looks at all of Hartley's film releases, from cult classics such as The Unbelievable Truth and Trust to oddball genre experiments such as No Such Thing and Fay Grim to short films such as Opera No. 1 and Accomplice, and makes a case for seeing Hartley as an important and successful American auteur despite the director's decline in status in the later stages of his career. Employing both industrial and close textual analysis, the book considers aspects of Hartley's work such as genre gender and form as well as dimensions far less frequently discussed in studies of indie directors such as place and cultural identity offering a broad and innovative study of a productive filmmaker who continues to show a singular disregard for the expectations of both the mainstream and the indie cinema industries True Fiction Pictures and Possible Films Hal Hartley, 2008-10-07 Hal Hartley's comedies and explorations of mismatched love and misplaced trust have been provocative must sees for the past two decades with critics and audiences alike Given the range and depth of his interests along with the decidedly rigorous pursuit of a deeply felt aesthetic his films are as difficult to classify as they are easy to recognize and they have been widely recognized as a singular achievement in American filmmaking In this book of interviews conducted by professor and film writer Kenneth C Kaleta Hartley reflects on the evolution of his filmmaking elaborating on the forces that help shape it and the ways in which his aspirations develop as time goes on revealing a good deal of what it is to be an independent creative artist in a relentlessly commercial culture Exquisitely designed with numerous full color photographs and a complete illustrated filmography True Fiction Pictures and Possible Films is an invaluable resource for anyone interested in Hartley's filmmaking in particular and motion pictures in general Roger Ebert's Movie Yearbook 2005

Roger Ebert, 2004 Containing reviews written from January 2002 to mid June 2004 including the films Seabiscuit The Passion of the Christ and Finding Nemo the best and the worst films of this period undergo Ebert's trademark scrutiny It also contains the year's interviews and essays as well as highlights from Ebert's film festival coverage from Cannes Polaroids Lillian Necakov, 1997 Although firmly rooted in the real Lillian Necakov's evocations of movie magic prove irresistible in these forty poems and five collages Ranging across dozens of films from Wim Wender's Wings of Desire and Jim Jarmusch's Down By Law to Hitchcock's Rope and Hawks's To Have and Have Not Lillian Necakov's language steeped in the comic of the banal has absurdity for breakfast Amateur and Flirt Hal Hartley, 2022-01-07 The third volume of the collected screenplays of Hal Hartley brings together two scripts that are essential to Hartley's dynamic evolution in the mid 1990s
