Halford Mackinder:

Halford Mackinder Brian W. Blouet, 1987 Chapter Four Founding Reading University Geopolitics, Geography and Strategy Colin S. Gray, Geoffrey Sloan, 2014-01-14 Geopolitical conditions influence all strategic behaviour even when cooperation among different kinds of military power is expected as the norm action has to be planned and executed in specific physical environments The geographical world cannot be avoided and it happens to be organized into land sea air and space and possibly the electromagnetic spectrum including cyberspace Although the meaning of geography for strategy is a perpetual historical theme explicit theory on the subject is only one hundred years old Ideas about the implication of geographical especially spatial relationships for political power which is to say geopolitics flourished early in the twentieth century Divided into theory and practice sections this volume covers the big names such as Mackinder Mahan and Haushofer as well as looking back at the vital influence of weather and geography on naval power in the long age of sail sixteenth to nineteenth centuries It also looks forward to the consequences of the revival of geopolitics in post Soviet Russia and the new space based field of astropolitics Geographers T. W. Freeman, 2016-01-28 An annual collection of studies of individuals who have made major contributions to the development of geography and geographical thought Subjects are drawn from all periods and from all parts of the world and include famous names as well as those less well known explorers independent thinkers and scholars Each paper describes the geographer's education life and work and discusses their influence and spread of academic ideas Each study includes a select bibliography and brief chronology The work includes a general index and a cumulative index of geographers listed in volumes published to date Global Geostrategy Brian Blouet, 2013-05-13 This is a new examination of Halford Mackinder's seminal global geostrategic work from the perspective of geography diplomatic history political science international relations imperial history and the space age Mackinder was a man ahead of his time He foresaw many of the key strategic issues that came to dominate the twentieth century Until the disintegration of the Soviet Union western defence strategists feared that one power or alliance might come to dominate Eurasia Admiral Mahan discussed this issue in The Problem of Asia 1900 but Mackinder made the most authoritative statement in The Geographical Pivot of History 1904 He argued that in the closed Heart Land of Euroasia was a strategically placed region with great resources that if controlled by one force could be the basis of a World Empire James Kurth in Foreign Affairs has commented that it has taken two World Wars and the Cold War to prevent Mackinder's prophecy becoming reality In World War I and World War II Germany achieved huge territorial gains at the expense of the Russian empire and the Soviet Union In the former conflict the Russian empire was defeated by Germany but the western powers insisted that the territorial gains made by Germany at the treaty of Brest Litovsk be given up In World War II Britain and the US gave material support to Stalin's totalitarian regime to prevent Nazi Germany gaining control of the territory and resources that might have been a basis for world domination The west highly conscious of Mackinder's dictum 1919 that Who rules East Europe commands the

Heartland quickly adopted policies to contain the Soviet Union History has therefore proved Mackinder's work to be of vital importance to generations of strategic thinking and he remains a key influence in the new millennium This book will be of great interest to all students and scholars of strategic studies and military history and of geopolitics in particular Scope and Methods of Geography Halford John Mackinder, 2020-02 Is geography one or is it several subjects More precisely are physical and political geography two stages of one investigation or are they separate subjects to be studied by different methods the one an appendix of geology the other of history Halford Mackinder in The Scope and Methods of Geography 1887 The Scope and Methods of Geography was published by Halford Mackinder in 1887 in the New Monthly Series of the Royal Geographical Society It was a manifesto for the New Geography in which he viewed physical geography and human geography as a single discipline This publication represented the beginning of an illustrious career as an English geographer and academic

The Geographical Pivot of History Sir Halford John Mackinder, 2020-02-17 In this paper Mackinder advanced his so called Heartland Theory whereby the interior Asia and eastern Europe the Heartland had become the strategic center of the world as a result of the relative decline of sea power against land power and of the economic and industrial development of southern Siberia Democratic Ideals and Reality Halford John Mackinder, 1919

Przyblyski, 2004 The nineteenth century is central to contemporary discussions of visual culture This reader brings together key writings on the period exploring such topics as photographs exhibitions and advertising Raising Cartographic Consciousness Mark Polelle, 1999-01-01 In this book Mark R Polelle presents an overview of the evolution of geopolitical thought in three national contexts the United States Britain and Germany from 1870 to the present Polelle examines in particular the rise of the defense intellectual and shows how the measurement of national power has changed Geopolitics early in the century assumed the centrality of space and territory but we close the century with despatialized concerns over geo economic conflicts e g that between Japan and the United States Polelle explains this shift by putting it into historical context His use of both historical and geographical methods makes Raising Cartographic Consciousness a valuable book for historians geographers and political scientists

Oceans Rise Empires Fall Gerard Toal, 2024 A powerful explanation of why geopolitical competition makes implementing effective climate change policies so difficult As the Russia Ukraine war has shown great power competition drives states to prioritize fossil fuel acquisition over working toward a zero carbon future In the last few years it has become abundantly clear that the effects of accelerating climate change will be catastrophic from rising seas to more violent storms to desertification Yet why do nation states find it so difficult to implement transnational policies that can reduce carbon output and slow global warming In Oceans Rise Empires Fall Gerard Toal identifies geopolitics as the culprit States would prefer to reduce emissions in the abstract but in the great global competition for geopolitical power states always prioritize access to carbon based fuels necessary for generating the sort of economic growth that helps them compete with rival states Despite what we now know about the long term impacts of climate change

geopolitical contests continue to sideline attempts to halt or slow down the process The Ukraine conflict in particular exposes our priorities To escape reliance on Russia's vast oil and gas reserves states have expanded fossil fuel production that necessarily increases the amount of carbon in the atmosphere The territorial control imperatives of great powers preclude collaborative behavior to address common challenges Competitive territorial resource and technological dramas across the geopolitical chessboard currently obscure the deterioration of the planet's life support systems In the contest between geopolitics and sustainable climate policies the former takes precedence especially when competition shifts to outright conflict In this book Toal interrogates that relationship and its stakes for the ongoing acceleration of climate change The Ashgate Research Companion to Critical Geopolitics Merje Kuus, 2016-04-01 Since the late 1980s critical geopolitics has gone from being a radical critical perspective on the disciplines of political geography and international relations theory to becoming a recognised area of research in its own right Influenced by poststructuralist concerns with the politics of representation critical geopolitics considers the ways in which the use of particular discourses shape political practices Initially critical geopolitics analysed the practical geopolitical language of the elites and intellectuals of statecraft Subsequent iterations have considered the role that popular representations of the international political world play As critical geopolitics has become a more established part of political geography it has attracted ever more critique from feminists for its apparent blindness to the embodied effects of geopolitical praxis and from those who have been uncomfortable about its textual focus while others have challenged critical geopolitics to address alternative resistant forms of geopolitical practice Again critical geopolitics has been reworked to incorporate these challenges and the latest iterations have encompassed normative agendas non representational theory emotional geographies and affect It is against the vibrant backdrop of this intellectual development of critical geopolitics as a subdiscipline that this Companion is set Bringing together leading researchers associated with the different forms of critical geopolitics this volume produces an overview of its achievements limitations and areas of new and potential future development The Companion is designed to serve as a key resource for an interdisciplinary group of scholars and practitioners interested in the spatiality of politics United Nations Naval Peace Operations in the Territorial Sea Rob McLaughlin, 2009-10-23 This book examines UN naval peace operations addressing the construction and assessment of authority with respect to a range of acts essential to the conduct of such operations The focus is particularly upon operations as they relate to and impact upon the Territorial Sea Within a conceptual approach emphasising the interaction of power and legitimation in the construction of authority naval peace operations issues such as Innocent Passage interdiction operations and transitional administration are considered The book concludes by proposing a conceptually and operationally sensitive approach to constructing authority for the conduct of UN naval peace operations in the Territorial Sea A History of the World in 12 Maps Jerry Brotton, 2014-10-28 A New York Times Bestseller Maps allow the armchair traveler to roam the world the diplomat to argue his points the ruler to administer his country the warrior to plan his campaigns and the propagandist to boost his cause rich and beautiful Wall Street Journal Throughout history maps have been fundamental in shaping our view of the world and our place in it But far from being purely scientific objects maps of the world are unavoidably ideological and subjective intimately bound up with the systems of power and authority of particular times and places Mapmakers do not simply represent the world they construct it out of the ideas of their age In this scintillating book Jerry Brotton examines the significance of 12 maps from the almost mystical representations of ancient history to the satellite derived imagery of today He vividly recreates the environments and circumstances in which each of the maps was made showing how each conveys a highly individual view of the world Brotton shows how each of his maps both influenced and reflected contemporary events and how by considering it in all its nuances and omissions we can better understand the world that produced it Although the way we map our surroundings is more precise than ever before Brotton argues that maps today are no more definitive or objective than they have ever been Readers of this beautifully illustrated and masterfully argued book will never look at a map in quite the same way again A fascinating and panoramic new history of the cartographer s art The Guardian The intellectual background to these images is conveyed with beguiling erudition There is nothing more subversive than a map The Spectator A mesmerizing and beautifully illustrated book The Telegraph

The Geopolitics Of Super Power Colin S. Gray, 2014-10-17 What is Soviet American competition all about Is the Soviet Union a security problem that the United States must solve Or is it an insecurity condition with which the U S must learn to live and if so on what terms What kind of a player is the United States in the great game of power politics In The Geopolitics of Super Power one of our most respected strategic theorists answers these and other questions In geopolitical terms Colin Gray sees the Soviet American antagonism as an enduring contest between a continental empire and a maritime coalition each with its distinctive character and purposes Gray explores the roots of the American style in foreign policy and strategy and how that style relates to defense options He identifies four broad alternatives for U S national security policy passive and active means of containment disengagement from foreign security commitments and the rollback of the Soviet empire Gray argues vigorously for active containment for the systematic deemphasis of nuclear weapons and for the intelligent use for deterrence and defense purposes of the West s great competitive strengths in the political economic and technological spheres

The Power of Projections Arthur Jay Klinghoffer, 2006-04-30 Why is Europe at the top half of maps and Africa at the bottom Although we are accustomed to that convention it is in fact a politically motivated almost entirely subjective way of depicting a ball spinning in space As The Power of Projections teaches us maps do not portray reality only interpretations of it To begin with they are two dimensional projections of a three dimensional spherical Earth Add to that the fact that every map is made for a purpose and its design tends to reflect that purpose Finally a map is often a psychological projection of the historical political and cultural values of the cartographer or of the nation person or organization for which the map was created In this fascinating book Klinghoffer examines the world perceptions of various civilizations and the ways in which maps have been formulated to serve the agendas of cartographers and their patrons He analyzes the recent decline of sovereignty the spread of globalization the reassertion of ethnic identity and how these trends affect contemporary mapmaking Geopolitics Francis P. Sempa, 2011-12-31 Writers observers and practitioners of international politics frequently invoke the term geopolitics to describe explain or analyze specific foreign policy issues and problems Such generalized usage ignores the fact that geopolitics as a method of understanding international relations has a history that includes a common vocabulary well established if sometimes conflicting concepts an extensive body of thought and a recognized group of theorists and scholars In Geopolitics Francis P Sempa presents a history of geopolitical thought and applies its classical analyses to Cold War and post Cold War international relations While mindful of the impact of such concepts as globalization and the information revolution on our understanding of contemporary events Sempa emphasizes traditional geopolitical theories in explaining the outcome of the Cold War He shows that the struggle between the Western allies and the Soviet empire was unique in its ideological component and nuclear standoff the Cold War fits into a recurring geopolitical pattern It can be seen as a consequence of competition between land powers and sea powers and between a potential Eurasian hegemonic power and a coalition of states opposed to that would be hegemony The collapse of the Soviet empire ended the most recent threat to global stability Acting as a successor to the British Empire the United States organized funded and led a grand coalition that successfully countered the Soviet quest for domination No power or alliance posed an immediate threat to the global balance of power Indeed the end of the Cold War generated hopes for a new world order and predictions that economics would replace geopolitics as the driving force in international politics Russian instability the nuclear dimension of the India Pakistan conflict and Chinese bids for dominance have turned the Asia Pacific region into what Mahan called debatable and debated ground Russia Turkey Iran India Pakistan China Japan the Koreas and the United States all have interests that collide in one or more of the areas of this region
