Hafiz, Master of Persian Poetry Parvin Loloi, 2003 Within the pantheon of world literature the Persian poet Hafiz born in around 1320 in the city of Shiraz occupies an exalted position and his poems have long been translated and studied in the West However the degree of the English language s interaction with the work of Hafiz has often been underestimated Parvin Loloi s contribution has been to collect and analyse the entire body of translations of Hafiz in English and to identify the specific problems which his writing presents to translators together with varying strategies adopted by translators to surmount these difficulties Her book includes a comprehensive first line index of English translations of individual poems of Hafiz a rich resource for students of comparative literature or translation studies which demonstrates widespread and long established interest in one of the major poets of Persia It points to cultural encounters which the debate on Orientalism has largely ignored and highlights a significant influence on English poets of the 19th century including Byron and Tennyson

Lewisohn, 2010-06-02 I B Tauris in association with the Iran Heritage Foundation Hafiz and His Contemporaries Dominic Parviz Brookshaw, 2019-02-28 Despite his towering presence in premodern Persian letters Shams al Din Muhammad Hafiz of Shiraz d 1390 remains an elusive and opaque character for many In order to look behind the hyperbole that surrounds Hafiz s poetry and penetrate the quasi hagiographical film that obscures the poet himself this book attempts a contextualisation of Hafiz that is at once socio political historical and literary Here Hafiz s ghazals short monorhyme broadly amorous lyric poems are read comparatively against similar texts composed by his less studied rivals in the hyper competitive imitative and profoundly intertextual environment of fourteenth century Shiraz By bringing Hafiz s lyric poetry into productive detailed dialogue with that of the counterhegemonic satirist Ubayd Zakani d 1371 and the marginalised Jahan Malik Khatun d after 1391 the most prolific female poet of premodern Iran our received understanding of this most iconic of stages in the development of the Persian ghazal is disrupted and new avenues for literary exploration open up Looking beyond the particular milieu of Shiraz this study re assesses Hafiz's place in the Persian poetic canon through reading his poems alongside those produced by professional poets in other major centres of Persian literary activity who enjoyed comparable fame in the fourteenth century Recognising the aesthetic achievements of his contemporaries does not diminish the splendour of Hafiz's rather it forces us to accept that Hafiz was but one member of a band of poets who jostled for the limelight in competing often intersecting patronage and reception networks that facilitated intense cultural exchange between the cities of post Mongol Iran and Iraq Hafiz's ghazals characterised as they are by conscious and deliberate hybridity ambiguity and polysemy are products of a creative mind bent on experimenting with genre While in no way seeking to deny the mystical stratum of the Persian ghazal in its fourteenth century manifestation this study emphasises the courtly and profane dimensions of the form and regards Hafiz through a sober lens with keen attention to his dynamic role at the heart of a vibrant poetic community that was at once both fiercely local and boldly cosmopolitan

Sufism and American Literary Masters Mehdi Aminrazavi, 2014-10-15 Explores the influence of Sufism on nineteenth and early twentieth century writers This book reveals the rich but generally unknown influence of Sufism on nineteenth and early twentieth century American literature The translation of Persian poets such as Hafiz and Sa'di into English and the ongoing popularity of Omar Khayyam offered intriguing new spiritual perspectives to some of the major American literary figures As editor Mehdi Aminrazavi notes these Sufi influences have often been subsumed into a notion of Eastern chiefly Indian thought and not acknowledged as having Islamic roots This work pays considerable attention to two giants of American literature Ralph Waldo Emerson and Walt Whitman who found much inspiration from the Sufi ideas they encountered Other canonical figures are also discussed including Mark Twain Herman Melville Henry David Thoreau and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow along with literary contemporaries who are lesser known today such as Paschal Beverly Randolph Thomas Lake Harris and Lawrence Oliphant

Literature of the Early Twentieth Century: From the Constitutional Period to Reza Shah A. A. Seyed-Gohrab, 2015-07-22 The eleventh volume in this ground breaking series pays special attention to politically engaged poetry written during a turbulent period which saw the Constitutional Revolution in Iran as well as the rise to power of Reza Shah and his attempts to implement reform Throughout this time poets began to turn their attention towards the country's ordinary people rather than concentrate on its elites This volume also examines the prose fiction of the period which saw the rise of the novel and short story Additionally Persian satire began to grow in importance especially with the increased popularity of poets and novelists such as Iraj Mirza and Sadeq Hedayat This wide ranging volume is an invaluable companion for anyone who wants to understand how the Persian literary scene changed at the beginning of the twentieth century reflecting the social and political contexts in which this literature was created

Ferdowsi, the Mongols and the History of Iran Robert Hillenbrand,A.C.S. Peacock,Firuz Abdullaeva,2013-11-18 I B Tauris in association with the Iran Heritage Foundation Iran s rich cultural heritage has been shaped over many centuries by its rich and eventful history This impressive book which assembles contributions by some of the world s most eminent historians art historians and other scholars of the Iranian world explores the history of the country through the prism of Persian literature art and culture The result is a seminal work which illuminates important yet largely neglected aspects of Medieval and Early Modern Iran and the Middle East Its scope from the era of Ferdowsi Iran s national epic poet and the author of the Shahnameh to the period of the Mongols Timurids Safavids Zands and Qajars examines the interaction between mythology history historiography poetry painting and craftwork in the long narrative of the Persianate experience As such Ferdowsi the Mongols and the History of Iran is essential reading and a reference point for students and scholars of Iranian history Persian literature and the arts of the Islamic World The Oxford History of Literary Translation in English: Peter

France, Kenneth Haynes, 2006-02-23 In the one hundred and ten years covered by volume four of The Oxford History of Literary Translation in English what characterized translation was above all the move to encompass what Goethe called world literature This occurred paradoxically at a time when English literature is often seen as increasingly self sufficient In Europe the culture of Germany was a new source of inspiration as were the medieval literatures and the popular ballads of many lands from Spain to Serbia From the mid century the other literatures of the North both ancient and modern were extensively translated and the last third of the century saw the beginning of the Russian vogue Meanwhile as the British presence in the East was consolidated translation helped readers to take possession of exotic non European cultures from Persian and Arabic to Sanskrit and Chinese The thirty five contributors bring an enormous range of expertise to the exploration of these new developments and of the fascinating debates which reopened old questions about the translator's task as the new literalism whether scholarly or experimental vied with established modes of translation The complex story unfolds in Britain and its empire but also in the United States involving not just translators publishers and readers but also institutions such as the universities and the periodical press Nineteenth century English literature emerges as more open to the foreign than has been recognized before with far reaching effects on its orientation FitzGerald's Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám Adrian Poole, Christine van Ruymbeke, William H. Martin, Sandra Mason, 2013-11-15 Edward FitzGerald's Rubaiyat loosely based on verses attributed to the eleventh century Persian writer Omar Khayyam has become one of the most widely known poems in the world republished virtually every year from 1879 to the present day and translated into over eighty different languages And yet it has been largely ignored or at best patronized by the academic establishment This volume sets out to explore the reasons for both the popularity and the neglect Archaeology of Babel Siraj Ahmed, 2017-12-12 For more than three decades preeminent scholars in comparative literature and postcolonial studies have called for a return to philology as the indispensable basis of critical method in the humanities Against such calls this book argues that the privilege philology has always enjoyed within the modern humanities silently reinforces a colonial hierarchy In fact each of philology's foundational innovations originally served British rule in India Tracing an unacknowledged history that extends from British Orientalist Sir William Jones to Palestinian American intellectual Edward Said and beyond Archaeology of Babel excavates the epistemic transformation that was engendered on a global scale by the colonial reconstruction of native languages literatures and law In the process it reveals the extent to which even postcolonial studies and European philosophy not to mention discourses as disparate as Islamic fundamentalism Hindu nationalism and global environmentalism are the progeny of colonial rule Going further it unearths the alternate concepts of language and literature that were lost along the way and issues its own call for humanists to reckon with the politics of the philological practices to which they now return Asian Classics on the Victorian Bookshelf Alexander Bubb, 2023-03-14 The interest among Victorian readers in classical literature from Asia has been greatly underestimated The popularity of the Arabian Nights and The Rubaiyat of Omar

Khayyam is well documented Yet this was also an era in which freethinkers consulted the Quran in which schoolchildren were given abridgements of the Ramayana to read in which names like Kalidasa and Firdusi were carved on the facades of public libraries and in which women's book clubs discussed Japanese poetry But for the most part such readers were not consulting the specialist publications of scholarly orientalists What then were the translations that catalysed these intercultural encounters Based on a unique methodology marrying translation theory with empirical techniques developed by historians of reading this book shines light for the first time on the numerous amateur translators or popularizers who were responsible for making these texts accessible and disseminating them to the Victorian general readership Asian Classics on the Victorian Bookshelf explains the process whereby popular translations were written published distributed to bookshops and libraries and ultimately consumed by readers It uses the working papers and correspondence of popularizers to demonstrate their techniques and motivations while the responses of contemporary readers are traced through the pencil marginalia they left behind in dozens of original copies In spite of their typically limited knowledge of source languages Asian Classics argues that popularizers produced versions more respectful of the complexity cultural difference and fundamental untranslatability of Asian texts than the professional orientalists whose work they were often adapting The responses of their readers likewise frequently deviated from interpretive norms and it is proposed that this combination of eccentric translators and unorthodox readers triggered flights of translation whereby historical individuals can be seen to escape the hegemony of orientalist forms of knowledge
