Bernard Knapp, Peter van Dommelen, 2015-01-12 The Cambridge Prehistory of the Bronze and Iron Age Mediterranean offers new insights into the material and social practices of many different Mediterranean peoples during the Bronze and Iron Ages presenting in particular those features that both connect and distinguish them Contributors discuss in depth a range of topics that motivate and structure Mediterranean archaeology today including insularity and connectivity mobility migration and colonization hybridization and cultural encounters materiality memory and identity community and household life and death and ritual and ideology The volume s broad coverage of different approaches and contemporary archaeological practices will help practitioners of Mediterranean archaeology to move the subject forward in new and dynamic ways Together the essays in this volume shed new light on the people ideas and materials that make up the world of Mediterranean archaeology today beyond the borders that separate Europe Africa and the Middle East Mortuary Ritual and Society in Bronze Age Cyprus Priscilla Keswani, 2004 A ground breaking investigation of burial practices and social transformations in the era when Cypriot agricultural communities moved from village to urban life and became major players in the eastern Mediterranean copper trade The author develops an innovative theoretical and methodological approach that enables her to define and elucidate the shifting spatial relationships between tombs and habitation areas the elaboration of rituals involving secondary treatment and collective burial and changing patterns of mortuary expenditure and symbolism throughout the Bronze Age Keswani proposes that during the Early Middle Bronze periods the growing elaboration of mortuary festivities and their crucial importance in negotiating status hierarchies contributed to the intensification of Cypriot copper production and the expansion of interregional exchange relations Subsequent changes in mortuary practice suggest that the importance of collective burial rites and traditional modes of ritual display diminished over the course of the Late Bronze Age as urban institutions multiplied and the bases of social prestige were transformed Nomads of the Mediterranean: Trade and Contact in the Bronze and Iron Ages Ayelet Gilboa, Assaf Yasur-Landau, 2020-09-07 Three millennia of cross Mediterranean bonds are revealed by the 18 expert summaries in this book from the dawn of the Bronze Age to the budding of Hellenization An international team of acclaimed specialists in their fields archaeologists historians geomorphologists and metallurgists shed light on a plethora of aspects associated with travelling this age old sea and its periphery environmental factors the formation of harbors gateways commodities the crucial role of metals cultural impact and the way to interpret the agents on the finds from that site and further demonstrate Sy s willingness to mentor and to share the publication of the site s rich our knowledge base of the southern Levant and shows that Material Culture Matters The Philistines and Other Sea Peoples in Text and Archaeology Ann E. Killebrew,2013-04-21 The search for the biblical Philistines one of ancient Israel s with other related groups of Sea Peoples played a transformative role in the development of new ethnic groups and polities
