Educating the Global Workforce for Public Health Sanjay P. Zodpey, Roger A. Harrison, Michal Grivna, John R. Finnegan, Connie J. Evashwick, 2018-03-16 Good quality management of the health system demands a critical mass of health professionals with sound technical knowledge The education that produces a workforce of appropriate size and skills is often a challenge in the delivery of quality health services Incidentally health professionals education has not kept pace with the new emerging challenges Recent globalization of health has further led to international migration of health professionals thereby leading to cross border recognition of health workers with an appropriate skill mix knowledge and competence The Lancet Commission Report of 2010 highlighted the need to develop a common strategy at a global level for postgraduate medical nursing and public health education that reaches beyond the confines of national borders and the silos of individual professions This vision would require a series of instructional and institutional reforms which should be guided by two proposed outcomes transformative learning and interdependence in education The purpose of this Research Topic is to increase the shared understanding of the current status of the education of the health workforce around the globe particularly those working in the public health sector With this foundation further research and evaluation studies can then be done with a perspective that addresses global workforce issues impacting access prevention and care

Context Sensitive Health Informatics: Redesigning Healthcare Work Craig E. Kuziemy, Zoie Shui-Yee Wong, 2017-08-15 Health informatics applications will be a cornerstone of the next generation healthcare delivery system These applications will support the delivery of safe patient centered care and collaborative care delivery The complexity of modern healthcare is delivered by many different specialties to many different patients with complex diseases and comorbidity A one size fits all approach is not adequate to reach the triple aim of improving the patient experience of care improving the health of populations and reducing the per capita cost of healthcare Health informatics applications must rather be built to be adaptable and sensitive to the complex contexts where they will be used The health informatics community has long been interested in the role that context plays in the design implementation and evaluation of Health IT We have come to realize that context is not just a passive characteristic that impacts Health IT usage but rather is embedded in the core of the users processes and outcomes that Health IT interacts with Therefore we need better approaches to study and understand its impact on Health IT usage in different healthcare settings This book contains the conference papers from CSHI 2017 Delivering 21st Century Healthcare Building a Quality and Efficiency Driven System It contains papers on a variety of topics that are divided into four sections Theoretical approaches to investigate context sensitive health informatics to generate robust evidence Redesigning healthcare work practices Patient participation in healthcare design and redesign and Human factors and usability The 2017 CSHI conference continues our efforts to develop robust scientific evidence on context and Health IT
