Foundations Of Modern Church History American University Studies Series Vii Theology And Religion Vol 115:

Foundations of Modern Church History Frank Kaufmann, 1992 The split between Liberal Protestants and Evangelicals began to crystallize within one generation of the theological revolution spawned by Hegel and Schleiermacher In the academy this was first reflected in the fledgling discipline Church history Ferdinand Christian Baur and August Neander generated early expressions of this split in their towering Church historical writings They treated identical subjects yet produced radically different results Dr Kaufmann uses structural semiotic analysis to uncover the divergent patterns of convictions in their works which continue to divide liberal Protestants and Evangelicals today Foundations provides a penetrating analysis of these pivotal figures in Church historiography and in doing so identifies issues which define a major contemporary ecumenical challenge Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 1995-02 American Book Publishing Record, 2000 Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1997 Books in Series, 1876-1949 R.R. Pilcher, 2012-10-16 Food matters not only as a subject of study in its own right but also as a medium for conveying critical messages about capitalism the environment and social inequality to diverse audiences Recent scholarship on the subject draws from both a pathbreaking body of secondary literature and an inexhaustible wealth of primary sources from ancient Chinese philosophical tracts to McDonald s menus contributing new perspectives to the historical study of food culture and society and challenging the limits of history itself The Oxford Handbook of Food History places existing works in historiographical context crossing disciplinary chronological and geographic boundaries while also suggesting new routes for future research The twenty seven essays in this book are organized into five sections historiography disciplinary approaches production circulation and consumption of food The first two sections examine the foundations of food history not only in relation to key developments in the discipline of history itself such as the French Annales school and the cultural turn but also in anthropology sociology geography pedagogy and the emerging Critical Nutrition Studies The following three sections sketch various trajectories of food as it travels from farm to table factory to eatery nature to society Each section balances material cultural and intellectual concerns whether juxtaposing questions of agriculture and the environment with the notion of cookbooks as historical documents early human migrations with modern culinary tourism or religious customs with social activism In its vast interdisciplinary scope this handbook brings students and scholars an authoritative guide to a field with fresh insights into one of the most fundamental human concerns
