Eyes Toward Zion Vol 3 Western Societies And The Holy Land:

America and Zion Moshe Davis, 2002 Moshe Davis was a preeminent scholar of contemporary Jewish history and the rounding head of the Institute of Contemporary Jewry at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem A recognized leader in the field of bicultural American Jewish studies he was a mentor to educators and academics in both Israel and North America and an active colleague of American Christian scholars involved in interfaith study and dialogue These wide ranging essays many of them presented at a colloquium that Professor Davis had planned but did not live to attend honor him by exploring the theme of Zion as an integral part of American spiritual history and as a site of interfaith discourse Not only do these essays stress the role of individuals in history but they also incorporate views outside those of mainstream religions American attitudes toward the land of the Bible reflect both Jewish values that arose from their abiding attachment to Zion and the uniquely American Christian vision of a utopian pre industrial pre urban pre secularized world Whereas American Christians expected to be lifted out of their ordinary lives when they visited the Holy Land Jews saw in their affinity for Zion a strong link to their American environment Jews viewed America s biblical heritage as a source of practical values such as fair play and equality social vision and political covenant In inviting such comparisons these essays illuminate the relationship of Judaism to America and the richness of American religious experience overall

Visualising Britain's Holy Land in the Nineteenth Century Amanda M. Burritt, 2020-04-11 This book demonstrates the complexity of nineteenth century Britain s engagement with Palestine and its surrounds through the conceptual framing of the region as the Holy Land British engagement with the region of the Near East in the nineteenth century was multi faceted and part of its complexity was exemplified in the powerful relationship between developing and diverse Protestant theologies visual culture and imperial identity Britain s Holy Land was visualised through pictorial representation which helped Christians to imagine the land in which familiar Bible stories took place This book explores ways in which the geopolitical Holy Land was understood as embodying biblical land biblical history and biblical typology Through case studies of three British artists David Roberts David Wilkie and William Holman Hunt this book provides a nuanced interpretation of some of the motivations religious perspectives attitudes and behaviours of British Protestants in their relationship with the Near East at the time

The Zionist Masquerade J. Renton, 2007-10-17 This book offers a new interpretation of a critical chapter in the history of the Zionist Palestine conflict and the British Empire in the Middle East It contends that the Balfour Declaration was one of many British propaganda policies during the World War I that were underpinned by misconceived notions of ethnicity ethnic power and nationalism

British Mission to the Jews in Nineteenth-century Palestine Yaron Perry, Elizabeth Yodim, 2004-08-02 Yaron Perry s account reveals without bias or partiality the story of the London Society for Promoting Christianity Amongst the Jews and its unique contribution to the restoration of the Holy Land This Protestant organization were the first to take root in the Holy Land from 1820 onwards reform tradition known as the Stone Campbell movement came into being on the American frontier in the early decades of the nineteenth century. Named for its two principal founders Barton W Stone and Alexander Campbell, its purpose was twofold: to restore the church to the practice and teaching of the New Testament and by this means to find a basis for reuniting all Christians. Today there are three major branches of the Stone Campbell tradition: the Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, Churches of Christ, and Christian Churches. Churches of Christ. This volume brings together twenty-six essays drawn from the significant scholarship on the Stone Campbell Movement that has flourished over the past twenty years. Reprinted from diverse scholarly journals and concentrating on historiographic issues, the essays consider such topics as the movement's origins, its influence on the presidency, its presence in Britain, and its multicultural aspects. In their introduction, Casey and Foster reveal the connections between this scholarship and larger issues of American history, religion, and culture. They note that David Edwin Harrell Jr. and Richard T. Hughes, both of whom are represented in the collection, have provided competing paradigms of the social and intellectual history of the movement. While Harrell defends the legitimacy of the sectarian, non-institutional Churches of Christ, Hughes legitimizes the current progressive movement found in Churches of Christ. Casey and Foster propose six additional historiographic constructs as alternatives to those of Harrell and Hughes and assess each paradigm's implications for the scholarship of the movement. The first major survey of research on the Stone Campbell movement in a quarter of a century, this book will also serve as an invaluable resource for scholars of American religious movements in general.

American Consuls in the Holy Land, 1832-1914
 Ruth Kark, 1994. This volume provides new insights into the role of U.S. consuls in the Ottoman Middle East in the special context of the Holy Land. The motivations and functioning of the American consuls in Jerusalem and of the consular agents in Jaffa and Haifa are analyzed as part of the U.S. diplomatic and consular activity throughout the world and of Western involvement in the Ottoman Empire and in Palestine during the century preceding World War I. The processes of cultural, demographic, economic, environmental, and settlement change and the contribution of the U.S. consuls and American settlers to development of and modernization of Palestine are discussed. Based on primary archival sources, such facets as the role of consuls regarding the use of extraterritorial privileges Western religious and cultural penetration control of land and land purchase non Muslim settlement judicial systems and technological innovations are considered from American Ottoman and local viewpoints With Eyes Toward Zion - III International Center for University Teaching of Jewish Civilization.

New Faith in Ancient Lands Heleen Murre-van den Berg, 2007-03-31 Over the centuries the Middle East has held an important place in the religious consciousness of many Christians in West and East In the nineteenth century these interests culminated in extensive missionary work of Protestant and Roman Catholic organisations among Eastern Christians Muslims and Jews The present volume in articles written by an international group of scholars discusses themes like the historical background of Christian geopiety among Roman Catholics and Protestants and the internal tensions and conflicting aims of missions and missionaries such as between nationalist and internationalist interests between various rival organisations and between conversionalist and civilizational aims of missions in the Ottoman Empire In a synthetic overview and a comprehensive bibliography an up to date introduction into this field is provided
