Economics Of Trade Protection:

The Economics of Trade Protection Neil Vousden, 1990-08-31 Over the past two decades there has been a gradual but fundamental change in the nature of trade protection. Even as international negotiation has succeeded in reducing tariffs to low levels, national governments have resorted to a range of increasingly intricate policies to protect their domestic industries from foreign competition. Direct quantitative restrictions on international trade have become particularly widespread. Such nontariff barriers often have very different effects from tariffs and require careful analysis in their own right. This book presents a systematic overview of the modern theory of trade protection. The material in the book divides naturally into four sections: The first section covers trade restrictions in competitive markets; the second, trade restrictions and imperfect competition; the third, the political economy of trade protection; and the fourth, the theory of policy reform. The presentation makes extensive use of diagrams, with the more difficult mathematics included in six appendixes. The Political Economy of Trade Protection Anne O. Krueger, 2007-12-01 This clear, concise summary of the in-depth analyses presented in The Political Economy of American Trade Policy examines the level, form, and evolution of American trade protection. In case studies of trade barriers imposed during the 1980s to help the steel, semiconductor, automobile, lumber, wheat, and textile and apparel industries, the contributors trace the evolution of efforts to obtain protectionist measures and their results. A chapter assessing the common themes that emerge from the studies concludes that the focus of current trade law is exclusively on the individual protection-seeking industries, with little regard for indirect effects on using industries or for consumers. Reform could usefully take these effects into account. This volume will interest policymakers, business executives, and anyone interested in trade policy formulation and practice. Gary Clyde Hufbauer, Diane T. Berliner, Kimberly Ann Elliott, 1986 International Trade and Trade Policy Elhanan Helpman, Assaf Razin, 1991 Centering on questions of the potential optimality of some trade protection, these original contributions present research at the frontier of international trade and trade policy. They expand and test the new trade theory that has developed during the last decade, incorporating elements of industrial organization and political economy into the study of trade structure and the formation of trade policy. Essays in the first two parts take up trade policy, addressing issues such as the formation of trading blocks, strategic trade policy, the political economy of protection, growth-oriented trade policies, and including empirical studies of the welfare effects of quality upgrading, voluntary export restrictions, and import quotas. Essays in the third part discuss various structural issues such as trade in services, intersectoral adjustments, and the advantage of early entry. Elhanan Helpman and Assaf Razin are Professors of Economics at Tel Aviv University and NBER Research Associates. Contents: Trade Policy Theory; Is Bilateralism Bad? Paul R. Krugman; Strategic Trade Policy and Direct Foreign Investment: When Are Tariffs and Quotas Equivalent? James A. Levinsohn; Making Altruism Pay in Auction Quotas: Kala Krishna; On the Ineffectiveness of Made-to-Measure Protectionist Programs: Aaron Tornell; Export Subsidies and Price
