The World of Chief Seattle Warren Jefferson, 2001 This text includes the original speech given by Chief Seattle in 1854 during treaty negotiations with the US government concerning the forced resettlement of the Native people of Washington onto reservations. The speech is put into context with a brief history of the region and its tribes.

Seattle Mark Sundquist, 2010 The Puget Sound region was inhabited by Native Americans for thousands of years before settlers arrived. After initially landing at Alki Beach in West Seattle, the Denny Party established a settlement on the eastern shores of Elliott Bay in 1852. For years, the cultural and commercial life centered around Yesler's Wharf and Sawmill. The city grew rapidly following the 1870s after the discovery of coal in the Cascade foothills. The entire commercial district was incinerated in the Great Seattle Fire of 1889, but it was quickly rebuilt out of enduring brick and stone. The city stumbled economically following the Panic of 1893, but it recovered after the Klondike Gold Rush began in 1897. By the 1909 Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition, Seattle was the undisputed leader in the Pacific Northwest.

Home Lands Virginia Scharff, Carolyn Brucken, 2010-05-18 The storybook history of the American West is a male-dominated narrative of drifters, dreamers, hucksters, and heroes, a tale that relegates women, assuming they appear at all, to the distant background. Home Lands: How Women Made the West upends this view to remember the West as a place of homes and habitations brought into being by the women who lived there. Virginia Scharff and Carolyn Brucken consider history's long span as they explore the ways in which women encountered and transformed three different archetypal Western landscapes: the Rio Arriba of northern

New Mexico the Front Range of Colorado and the Puget Sound waterscape This beautiful book companion volume to the Autry National Center's pathbreaking exhibit is a brilliant aggregate of women's history the history of the American West and studies in material culture While linking each of these places peoples to one another over hundreds even thousands of years Home Lands vividly reimagines the West as a setting in which home has been created out of differing notions of dwelling and family and differing concepts of property community and history Copub Autry National Center of the American West

Answering Chief Seattle Albert Furtwangler, 2011-10-01 Over the years Chief Seattle's famous speech has been embellished popularized and carved into many a monument but its origins have remained inadequately explained Understood as a symbolic encounter between indigenous America represented by Chief Seattle and industrialized or imperialist America represented by Isaac L Stevens the first governor of Washington Territory it was first published in a Seattle newspaper in 1887 by a pioneer who claimed he had heard Seattle or Sealth deliver it in the 1850s No other record of the speech has been found and Isaac Stevens's writings do not mention it Yet it has long been taken seriously as evidence of a voice crying out of the wilderness of the American past Answering Chief Seattle presents the full and accurate text of the 1887 version and traces the distortions of later versions in order to explain the many layers of its mystery This book also asks how the speech could be heard and answered by reviewing its many contexts Mid century ideas about land newcomers ancestors and future generations informed the ways Stevens and his contemporaries understood Chief Seattle and recreated him as a legendary figure

Environmentalism in Popular Culture Noël Sturgeon, 2022-04-12 In this thoughtful and highly readable book, Noël Sturgeon illustrates the myriad and insidious ways in which American popular culture depicts social inequities as natural and how our images of nature interfere with creating solutions to environmental problems that are just and fair for all. Why is it she wonders that environmentalist messages in popular culture so often naturalize themes of heroic male violence, suburban nuclear family structures, and U.S. dominance in the world? And what do these patterns of thought mean for how we envision environmental solutions like green businesses, recycling programs, and the protection of threatened species? Although there are other books that examine questions of culture and environment, this is the first book to employ a global feminist environmental justice analysis to focus on how racial inequality, gendered patterns of work, and heteronormative ideas about the family relate to environmental questions. Beginning in the late 1980s and moving to the present day, Sturgeon unpacks a variety of cultural tropes, including ideas about Mother Nature, the purity of the natural, and the allegedly close relationships of indigenous people with the natural world. She investigates the persistence of the myth of the frontier and its extension to the frontier of space exploration. She ponders the popularity and occasional controversy of penguins and penguin family values and questions assumptions about human warfare as natural. The book is intended to provoke debates among college students and graduate students, among their professors, among environmental activists, and among all citizens who are concerned with issues of environmental quality and social equality.
