Luker, Jean Orr, Gretl A. McHugh, 2011-11-14 This timely and relevant new edition of an established and well regarded text is essential reading for those training to become health visitors and those who are practitioners working with and in the community Health Visiting A Rediscovery has been thoroughly revised and updated to reflect the many new developments in health policy public health priorities and health visiting practice The focus of the book however remains the same placing the health visitor at the forefront of supporting and working with children and families ensuring the child has the best possible start in life The increasing importance of working with communities and reaffirming the public health role of the health visitor are discussed and debated The new edition takes into account the challenges and increasing need for health visitors to engage with research evidence and to evaluate their practice Key features Incorporates the practice of public health and working with communities Includes a brand new chapter on the importance of safeguarding children and the enhanced child protection role of the health visitor Timely and topical Essential reading for all nurses working in the community those training as Specialist Community Public Health Nurses and undergraduate students undertaking public health primary and community care course units Features case studies and learning activities The Ageing Population N.E.J. Wells, Charles Freer, 1988-03-01 Social and Medical Problems of the Elderly Kenneth Hazell, 2024-05-10 In the 1960s and 1970s doctors were increasingly trained to apply science to the eradication of disease the accent being on the treatment of disease rather than the true welfare of the patient This is not the same as dealing with illness and its attendant problems Originally published in 1976 this book highlights the modern approach to the care of the elderly at the time and emphasises the individual contributions of doctor nurse social worker and paramedical members of the team It also stresses the important role of voluntary associations relatives and neighbours Much of the book is concerned with the particular medical problems which occur in the elderly and would have been of great help to the physician practising geriatric medicine at the time This new fourth edition of the standard textbook had been fully revised and includes additional chapters on such important and practical matters as Pensionable Retirement Housing Home Help Services and the scope of the Hospital Advisory Service

The Law and Elderly People Aled Griffiths, Dr Gwyneth Roberts, Gwyneth Roberts, 2005-06-28 Although the number of elderly people in Britain is increasing steadily the law in relation to their particular needs is a relatively neglected field The Law and Elderly People was the first text to provide easily accessible information for those involved in advice giving and service provision in this rapidly developing field This second edition has been fully revised and completely updated to reflect the major legal and social changes which have recently occurred Concerned for the independence and autonomy of both young elderly and the old elderly the book covers employment and income accommodation and housing community and residential care health provision and delivery and family relationships thus providing an important guide to the most important legal issues The Law and Elderly People will be of practical help to all those concerned with the welfare of the elderly and to undergraduates and lecturers in social work law and gerontology

Exemplary Research For Nursing And Midwifery Anne Marie Rafferty, Michael Traynor, 2002-09-11 This Reader reproduces fifteen classic and influential accounts of nursing research selected by a panel of senior nurse researchers and teachers It provides accompanying commentary explaining why the research is good how it relates to the research tradition and the influence and impact of the piece of research Introductory and concluding chapters review the literature on the evaluation of research and the position of nursing research in relation to that conducted in medicine generally Exemplary Research for Nursing and Midwifery is an invaluable reference for any nurse or midwife embarking on the research process

Community Nursing G. Baker, J. M. Bevan, L. McDonnell, B. Wall, 2025-09-17 Originally published in 1987 this book is based on material generated by the former Department of Health and Social Security DHSS research project into development in community nursing since the 1974 reorganisation of the National Health Service in the UK The community nursing staff involved comprised health visitors district nurses and practice nurses A wide range of issues which have enduring relevance today include staffing levels education health service priorities government policies changing professional roles and innovations in professional practice The authors consider evaluative research undertaken to assess the pros and cons of developments

Intermediate Care of Older People Siân Wade, 2006-02-22 Intermediate care has become a buzzword within health and social care over the last few years Seen as the panacea for a number of woes particularly for older people intermediate care has been held up as a way forward within contemporary health and social care This text explores in detail what is understood by the concept of intermediate care and in particular ways in which the needs of older people can be best met by this new range of services Initial discussion centres on the concept of intermediate care and the motives for its development This is followed by a summary of the range of intermediate care services that have been developed with a discussion of some of the confusion that surrounds the concept The debate then moves on to centre on older people discussing first why older people have come to be perceived as one of the main client groups that may benefit from intermediate care and then how intermediate care could be developed to better serve their needs An overview of ageing and the uniqueness of older people is then provided followed by an exploration of some of the challenges faced by older people within society and how this has extended into the delivery of health and social care

Family Care of Older People in Europe Ian Philp, 2001 Developing appropriate responses to an ageing population is recognized by policy makers throughout the developed world as a top priority as is the vital contribution made by family caregivers However cultural demographic and organizational differences between countries have encouraged diverse patterns of response to this common challenge This book provides a systematic cross cultural analysis of contemporary patterns and future trends in all major countries of the European Union Additional interest is provided by including Poland emerging from the post Communist block as the country at the forefront for joining the European Union The book should be useful to European policy makers and academics involved in studying the health and social care needs of older people and the capacity contribution and needs of family caregivers who provide care to older people The book is also relevant for policy makers and researchers in other countries mostly in North America and Australia who wish to study European approaches to supporting older people and family caregivers

Community Care and Older People Christina R. Victor, 1997 Providing a concise review of the demographic context underpinning the development of community care for older people and a critical review of community care in post war Britain this textbook discuss the current data and research regarding service provision and the costs and effectiveness of such services The author integrates available data about the use of different types of service and considers the implications of the 1993 policy and demographic change on the provision of community care in the future comparing data relating to Britain with that of other developed countries especially in Europe

Social Gerontology Silvana di Gregorio, 2024-05-10 Originally published in 1987 Social Gerontology presents papers from the British Society of Gerontology annual conference held at the University of Glasgow in September 1986 It shows much of the most innovative research and thinking in social gerontology and will interest a wide range of academics and professionals in the social and health sciences and services interested in gerontology and the welfare of elderly people

Primary Care Trust Workforce Keith Hurst, 2008-04-30 Even though primary and community care managers face the same challenges as their hospital counterparts they've never had an equivalent range of methods for evaluating workforce size and mix So this book aims to set the record straight by explaining community demand and supply side workforce planning and development Eight chapters set out the main variables from dependency and workload activity and performance staff education recruitment and retention before the most recent data are synthesised into a set of software supported algorithms that managers can easily adopt The book and software enable readers to not only compare their organisations with those in the same socio economic group but also against best practice staffing and performance Both help managers determine if their stock of workers is equitable efficient and effective Finally a large annotated bibliography helps users locate relevant publications and readers should look out for workshops in 2006 designed take them through the book's methods

Drugs, Ageing and Society Bruce Burns, Chris Phillipson, 2024-05-10 During the 1970s and 1980s prescription and over the counter drugs had come to play a major role in the health care of older people Originally published in 1986 this book reviews the historical background to this development and explores its social and pharmacological implications The main aim of the study was to provide a critical perspective on drug use together with a framework for developing effective prescribing policies The authors do not in developing their arguments reject the enormous value of drugs in the treatment of many illnesses affecting older people they do however criticise excessive as well as inappropriate prescribing The intention was to provide some practical illustrations of how the harmful effects of drug use can be curtailed This book was aimed in particular at workers in the health services for example doctors health visitors district nurses pharmacists the professions allied to medicine However it should also be of interest to other groups such as social workers carers support groups and older people themselves

Parliamentary Debates (Hansard). Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 1955 Contains the 4th session of the 28th Parliament through the session of the Parliament

Aging, 1982

The Dying Patient E. Wilkes, 2012-12-06 The main purpose of this book is to bring together some description of the skills and attitudes of those working in the hospice units specializing in terminal care with those rather different but overlapping skills used daily in the palliation of chronic or incurable disease. This varied collection of papers does not pretend to be exhaustive. Among the omissions for example are two major causes of death: chronic respiratory disease and stroke. This is because the treatment of the end state of these conditions and they are not alone in this lies more in the gentle withdrawal of measures no longer appropriate rather than in any positive regime within the gift of the physician. This may lead on occasion to an unjustifiable diminution of interest but this is less likely in cases of cardiac or malignant disease. Ischaemic heart disease remains the main killer of the western world. We may see important changes in our approach over the next decade as we document slowly and painstakingly the comparative ineffectiveness of our therapy but in cases of progressive cardiac disease no matter how we may argue as to management or prevention we are agreed that we must lighten the dreary burden of illness as effectively as possible.

Community Care of Older People David Beales, 2018-05-08. This comprehensive book gives an up to date profile of all aspects of the care of older people in the community with particular emphasis on the importance of maintaining function and independence as well as health. In a uniquely broad approach the book is edited by two family doctors with a particular interest in the elderly and a consultant geriatrician and the varied subjects are each presented by experts in their field. This accessible book enables primary care teams to produce optimal standards of care in old age and is helpful in the organization of preventive care programmes. Emphasizing the need for joint working the book draws together practical knowledge and skills to produce an essential source of reference and advice for all those involved in delivering a co-ordinated service. It is essential reading for all doctors in general practice and in public health, medical students and all other professionals whose work brings them into contact with elderly people. It is particularly useful for general practice teams, allied professionals such as nurses and physiotherapists as well as patients and carers seeking an understanding of good practice. It also contains much practical information vital to the work of voluntary agencies, social service departments and specialists in geriatric medicine.

Old Age in Modern Society Christina R. Victor, 2013-11-11. Old age is a part of the lifecycle about which there are numerous myths and stereotypes. To present an overstatement of commonly held beliefs the old are portrayed as dependent individuals characterized by a lack of social autonomy, unloved and neglected by both their immediate family and friends and posing a threat to the living standards of younger age groups by being a burden that consumes without producing. Older people are perceived as a single homogeneous group and the experience of ageing characterized as being the same for all individuals irrespective of the diversity of their circumstances before the onset of old age. In this book detailed statistical material is used to portray the circumstances of older people in modern society in an attempt to evaluate the appropriateness or otherwise of the major stereotypes of later life. This volume does not address ageing from a psychological or micro-social perspective. In particular we do not explore major issues relating to old age. Rather we feel that from the extensive collection of surveys concerned with the elderly we can provide a context within which individual elderly people can be studied from more anthropological or biographical perspectives BMJ, 2001
