Health For Pacific Healthy Living:

Essential Concepts for Healthy Living Update Sandra Alters, Wendy Schiff, 2011-01-28 Health Wellness Health at a Glance: Asia/Pacific 2024 OECD, World Health Organization, 2024-11-28 This eighth edition of Health at a Glance Asia Pacific presents a set of key indicators of health status the determinants of health health care resources and utilisation health care expenditure and financing and quality of care across 27 Asia Pacific countries and territories It also provides a series of dashboards to compare performance across countries and territories and a thematic analysis on the burden of mental health and neurological conditions in the Asia Pacific region Drawing on a wide range of data sources it gives readers a clear understanding of the factors that affect the health of populations and the performance of health systems in these countries and territories Each of the indicators is presented in a user friendly format consisting of charts illustrating variations across countries and territories and over time brief descriptive analyses highlighting the major findings conveyed by the data and a methodological box on the definition of the indicators and any limitations in data comparability An annex provides additional information on the demographic and economic context in which health systems operate Food consumption in the Marshall Islands Troubat, N., Sharp, M.K., 2021-11-22 This report presents the main results derived from the analysis of the food data collected in the 2019 20 HIES to inform current patterns on food and nutrient consumption in Marshall Islands The analysis of the food insecurity experience scale data collected in the 2019 20 HIES reveals that more than one household in three is experiencing moderate or severe levels of food insecurity which means they are lacking money or other resources to access foods in enough quantity or of good quality The further analysis of the food data collected in the same survey finds that for around 5 percent of Marshallese their dietary intake is lower than their basic dietary needs to maintain a normal active and healthy life Whenever possible indicators are given at national level and for sub groups of the population Pacific Health Journal ,1903 Health Transitions and the Double Disease Burden in Asia and the Pacific Milton James Lewis, Kerrie L. Macpherson, 2013 With in depth analysis of more than fifteen countries this volume examines the impact of the double disease burden on health care regimes resource allocation strategies for prevention and control on the wealthiest nations in the region as well as the smallest Pacific islands Milton Lewis University of Sydney Live Long and Prosper World Bank, 2015-12-10 Aging is a challenge which countries in East Asia and Pacific EAP regions are grappling with or will soon confront It raises many questions for policymakers ranging from potential macroeconomic impacts to fiscal challenges of supporting pension health and long term care systems and labor market implications as countries seek to promote productive aging The urgency of the aging challenge varies across the region but it will confront all EAP countries in time and early preparation is essential to avoid the missteps of other regions Live Long and Prosper discusses the societal and public policy challenges and reform options for EAP countries as they address aging It aims to strike a balance between aging optimists and pessimists On the one hand the impacts of aging on growth labor markets and public spending are not the unavoidable catastrophe often feared. However, minimizing the downside risks of aging and ensuring healthy and productive aging will require proactive public policy, political leadership, and new mindsets across society. The report reviews the evidence on demographic transition in EAP and its potential macroeconomic impact. It addresses the current policy environment, including pensions and social security, health and long-term care, and labor markets, to assess the risks of business as usual. It also suggests policy directions to promote healthy and productive aging in EAP and emphasizes that aging is not just about older people but requires policy and behavioral change across the life cycle.

Antioxidant Nutraceuticals Chuanhai Cao, Sarvadaman Pathak, Kiran Patil, 2018-03-13. This book addresses various clinical and sub-clinical applications of antioxidant nutraceuticals with a primary focus on preventive use for general wellness, common ailments, and such chronic illnesses as cancer and neurological applications. This unique book captures the applications of natural antioxidants which have been used for thousands of years in Traditional Chinese Medicine and Ayurvedic Medicine, as well as modern nutraceutical formulations. It covers antioxidant applications in clinical scenarios, including the historical perspective, basic antioxidant properties and applications, anti-inflammatory properties, and antioxidant applications in a variety of clinical conditions.

Ageing Asia and the Pacific in Changing Times Subas Dhakal, Alan Nankervis, John Burgess, 2022-01-31. This book demonstrates that there are wide-ranging potential challenges in addressing issues associated with ageing populations in both developed and developing countries of the region. This book brings together local, national, and regional perspectives on the ageing population and sustainable development nexus in selected countries in the Asia Pacific region. The countries selected in this book include a mix of developed and developing economies that all reflect strong trade, investment, and migration linkages. While the Asia Pacific region is forecast to enjoy high growth in the coming decade, a recurring common policy challenge is addressing the demographic time bomb posed by ageing populations and workforces.

Montague et al. 2017. Consequently, this book focuses on strategic policies and practices of multiple stakeholders, primarily governments, industry, and education systems, together with the range of aged care services providers, in more effectively addressing these key socio-economic challenges associated with the ageing population for sustainable development.

An overview of food security and nutrition in the Pacific 2022 FAO; IFAD; UNICEF; WFP; WHO; SPC, 2024-10-23. This publication marks the first collaborative effort between the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the World Health Organization (WHO), the World Food Programme (WFP), and the Pacific Community (SPC) to address food security and nutrition in the Pacific Islands, as well as in Maldives and Timor-Leste. The Pacific Island countries, classified as Small Island Developing States (SIDS) by the United Nations, share common characteristics and challenges with SIDS in other regions, such as the Caribbean and the Indian Ocean. These nations are geographically isolated, with relatively small land areas and vast ocean territories within their exclusive economic zones. Their populations are often dispersed across numerous small islands and transportation within and between countries is physically demanding and costly posing difficulties for both domestic logistics and import export activities Many individuals in these countries rely heavily on terrestrial and marine ecosystems for sustenance and livelihoods However these ecosystems are fragile and highly susceptible to natural hazards including earthquakes tsunamis extreme weather events and the impacts of climate change Both agriculture and fisheries sectors face significant challenges as populations increase and urbanization takes place Additionally the shift from small scale subsistence farming and fishing to commercial approaches further complicates the situation Conversely migration to urban centres or emigration overseas is leading to the decline of populations in many outer island communities Understanding and addressing these complex issues is crucial to improving food security and nutrition in the Pacific Island countries as well as in Maldives and Timor Leste This collaborative report highlights the specific challenges faced by these nations and presents opportunities for sustainable development and resilience building in the face of evolving socioeconomic and environmental circumstances By promoting comprehensive strategies and cooperation among stakeholders this partnership aims to support the well being and livelihoods of the populations in the region
