Hearing God's Voice Richard Shelley Taylor, 2000      Christian Faith as Religion Paul E. Capetz, 2011-05-26 Christian Faith as Religion investigates the theologies of John Calvin and Friedrich Schleiermacher with respect to the questions What is Religion and What is Christian Religion The author argues that the classical and liberal exemplars of Protestant theology are best compared when these two questions are thoroughly examined and calls into question the contention of neo orthodox theologians Karl Barth and Emil Brunner that Schleiermacher's theological use of the category religion signifies a departure from the tradition of the Reformation He offers a revised comparative framework that discloses the material and formal similarities between Calvin and Schleiermacher with respect to their employment of the categories religion and revelation and allows the historical theologian to delineate the trajectory that accounts for both continuity and discontinuity in the transition from classical to modern Protestant theology This allows the systematic hermeneutical question of a contemporary Protestant theology informed by the historical and philosophical study of religion to be taken up anew      God, Revelation and Authority: God Who Speaks and Shows (Vol. 4) Carl F. ### Pictures at a Theological Exhibition Kevin J.

Holy Scripture John Webster,2003-10-23 May we speak in the present age of holy scripture And what validation of that claim can be offered robust enough to hold good for both religious practice and intellectual enquiry John Webster argues that while any understanding of scripture must subject it to proper textual and historical interrogation it is necessary at the same time to acknowledge the special character of scriptural writing His 2003 book is an exercise in Christian dogmatics a loud reaffirmation of the triune God at the heart of a scripture based Christianity But it is written with intellectual rigour by a theologian who understands the currents of modern secular thought and is able to work from them towards a constructive position on biblical authority It will resonate with anyone who has wondered or worried about the grounds on which we may validly regard the Bible as God's direct communication with humanity
