Head, Heart and Hands Dennis P. Touch, Sexuality, and Hands in British Literature, 1740-1901 Kimberly Cox, 2021-09-05 From Robert Lovelace's uninvited hand grasps in Samuel Richardson's Clarissa to Basil Hallward's first encounter with Dorian Gray literary depictions of touching hands in British literature from the 1740s to the 1890s communicate emotional dimensions of sexual experience that reflect shifting cultural norms associated with gender roles sexuality and sexual expression But what is the relationship between hands tactility and sexuality in Victorian literature And how do we best interpret what those touches communicate between characters This volume addresses these questions by asserting a connection between the prevalence of violent sexually charged touches in eighteenth century novels such as those by Eliza Haywood Samuel Richardson and Frances Burney and growing public concern over handshake etiquette in the nineteenth century evident in works by Jane Austen the Brontës George Eliot Elizabeth Gaskell Thomas Hardy Oscar Wilde and Flora Annie Steel This book takes an interdisciplinary approach that combines literary analysis with close analyses of paintings musical compositions and nonfictional texts such as etiquette books and scientific treatises to make a case for the significance of tactility to eighteenth and nineteenth century perceptions of selfhood and sexuality In doing so it draws attention to the communicative nature of skin to skin contact as represented in literature and traces a trajectory of meaning from the forceful grips that violate female characters in eighteenth century novels to the consensual embraces common in Victorian and neo Victorian literature

The Feeling Heart in Medieval and Early Modern Europe Katie

Barclay, Bronwyn Reddan, 2019-12-02 The heart is an iconic symbol in the medieval and early modern European world. In addition to being a physical organ, it is a key conceptual device related to emotions, cognition, the self, and identity and the body. The heart is read as a metaphor for human desire and will and situated in opposition to or alongside reason and cognition. In medieval and early modern Europe, the feeling heart, the heart as the site of emotion and emotional practices, informed a broad range of art, literature, music, heraldry, medical texts, and devotional and ritual practices. This multidisciplinary collection brings together art historians, literary scholars, historians, theologians, and musicologists to highlight the range of meanings attached to the symbol of the heart, the relationship between physical and metaphorical representations of the heart, and the uses of the heart in the production of identities and communities in medieval and early modern Europe.

Talk to My Hands Marian Olivia Heath Griffin, 2020-09-23 Even though the concept of a black soldier actually being allowed to be a real soldier and go into combat, his accomplishments are still often ignored. His her achievements are still overlooked unless he dies in combat or accomplishes something extremely unusual. The black soldier still suffers adversity and animosity both in wars and in his private life. Our documents are erased or viciously omitted. Yet African American soldiers continually dare to dream of a better life as they fight for justice and equality at home and abroad.
