

FACTS ABOUT HAZARDOUS WASTE

Hazardous waste presents a danger to the environment and to human health. It is therefore essential to minimise the impact of hazardous waste by disposing of it correctly.

SCALE OF THE PROBLEM

The World produces 400 million tons of hazardous waste every year.

INCREASING NUMBERS

In just a single generation the production of man-made chemicals has risen by 40,000%

LONG TERM IMPACT

If hazardous waste is dumped, or disposed of incorrectly, it can damage the environment for decades.

Warning
Hazardous waste

WHAT IS IT?

Industrial hazardous waste is a byproduct of manufacturing, farming, construction and various other industries.

However, even household items can be classified as hazardous waste, such as batteries, cosmetics and cleaning products.

EXAMPLES:

- Pesticides
- Heavy metals
- Chemicals
- Radiation

RISKS

If hazardous waste is dumped or sent to regular landfill sites, it can be damaging to the environment, to wildlife and to people. Chemicals can seep into the soil and contaminate the food and water supply. This leakage may affect the growth of plants, and the health of humans and animals.

HAZARDOUS WASTE DISPOSAL

To avoid the disposal fees, some companies choose to dump their hazardous waste in pits, rivers, oceans and rural areas.

This is a particular problem in third world countries.

Correct and safe disposal involves utilising the services of a waste disposal service/facility. The hazardous waste may be destroyed by burning, sometimes being burned as an energy source. It may also be recycled into new products. If this isn't a possibility, then it will be sent to designated landfill site.
