Heart Of Long Term Care:

The Heart of Long Term Care Rosalie A. Kane, Robert L. Kane, Richard C. Ladd, 1998 Long term care in the United States has taken the nursing home as its benchmark but the monetary social and psychological costs of nursing home care are all too high This book challenges the current dominance of nursing homes as the principal institution of long term care It offers a series of alternative models where both services and housing can be provided in a way that allows long term consumers to enjoy dignified normal lifestyles It addresses the political and economic consequences of making this decision The authors start with the premise that long term care is designed to assist people who lack the capacity to function fully independently They argue that no disabled person of any age should be required to forsake his her humanity in exchange for care The book rejects the artificial dichotomy between social and medical care asserting that both play important roles in psychological and physical well being of long term care patients The authors consider the need for competent and compassionate medicine and discuss the methods for improving both its coordination of care and its effectiveness The book redefines the meaning of safety and protection in long term care and how this goal can be accomplished without sacrificing quality of living As the new millennium and the aging of baby boomers approaches more creative approaches to providing better long term care are required This volume outlines a useful framework for the provision of effective and humane community based programs that are both feasible and affordable It will be an invaluable guide for geriatricians public health professionals family physicians nurses and others who care for elderly patients Social Innovation in Long-Term Care Through Digitalization Massimo Conti, Simone Orcioni, 2022-09-30 This book gathers extended contributions to the workshop on Long Term Digital Care LTC 2021 organized by the Universit Politecnica delle Marche UNIVPM Ancona Italy and the Hochschule Konstanz HTWG Germany in November 2021 and funded by the DAAD Joint Mobility Program It covers innovative practice oriented approaches that are expected to foster digital health care with a special focus on improving internationalization and accessibility The book which bridges between technological and social disciplines reports on selected studies with the main goals of establishing a comparison of Long Term Digital Care approaches with focus on exchange and networking processes defining practical roadmaps for digital social innovation establishing concepts and methods for process evaluation and sustainability It offers a timely snapshot on technologies for patient monitoring and assistant systems medical data analysis and image processing digital platforms and advanced diagnostics techniques and discusses important concepts relating to traceable process evaluation networking and accessibility It aims at informing yet it is also intended to inspire and foster a stronger collaboration across disciplines countries as well as academic and professional institutions Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine Peter Winn, Pamela A. Nursing Home Wisdom Mark E Williams, M D, 2024-05-04

The Problem Our current healthcare system is increasingly incompatible with the needs of our population particularly with regard to chronic illness and long term care LTC Despite widespread dissatisfaction major reforms are not in sight Why is this the case The reluctance to confront the realities goes beyond simple denial it is not even considered a topic worthy of discussion The central symbol of LTC is the Nursing Home the unfortunate marriage of the hospital and homeless shelter The mistaken stereotype is nursing homes are smelly unattractive and filled with frail weird and half dead people Current attitudes reflect the belief that nothing can be done and the clinical situation is hopeless As a society we will not invest in LTC until we believe it is worth it The Challenge and the Key to a Solution The basic challenge is to humanize the people in LTC and show they benefit from care Until LTC has a better image few will advocate for more innovation and the image is unlikely to change The paradox is that care in nursing homes is generally high quality in spite of a fragmented understaffed dysfunctional health care system Long term care is a necessary aspect of life for many individuals yet it is a relatively unexplored topic in storytelling Through this book I aim to challenge societal myths stereotypes and misconceptions about long term care and the value of elderly and disabled individuals who live there I hope to offer insights and understanding into the world of long term care The stories in this book reflect the intimate and personal nature of nursing home care as well as the unique dilemmas and social boundaries that are encountered in this field They showcase the spectrum of human life that LTC encompasses with patients from all walks of life and a wide range of experiences emotions and challenges I have learned many valuable life lessons from the people and through the experiences I have encountered in nursing home care My goal is to share these lessons with readers through this book The stories in this book also highlight the importance of compassion empathy and understanding in the care of elderly and disabled individuals They emphasize the positive impact that simple compassionate interventions can have on personal well being I believe that stories have the power to serve as messengers of deep teaching Each story offers a valuable lesson or insight Whether you are a healthcare professional a family member of someone in long term care or simply interested in learning more about the world of long term care this book has something useful to offer
