Marx and the Earth John Bellamy Foster, Paul Burkett, 2016-01-12 A decade and a half ago John Bellamy Foster and Paul Burkett introduced a new revolutionary understanding of the ecological foundations of Marx's thought demonstrating that Marx's concepts of the universal metabolism of nature social metabolism and metabolic rift prefigured much of modern systems ecology Ecological relations were shown to be central to Marx's critique of capitalism including his value analysis Now in Marx and the Earth Foster and Burkett expand on this analysis in the process of responding to recent ecosocialist criticisms of Marx The result is a full fledged anti critique pointing to the crucial roles that dialectics open system thermodynamics intrinsic value and aesthetic understandings played in the original Marxian critique holding out the possibility of a new red green synthesis

Marx and Nature P. Burkett, 1999-02-14 With Marx and Nature Paul Burkett reconstructs Marx's approach to nature society and environmental crisis While recognizing that production is structured by historically developed relations among producers Marx also insists that production as a social and material process is shaped and constrained by natural conditions including the natural condition of human bodily existence Marx's value analysis places him squarely in the camp of the growing number of ecological theorists questioning the ability of monetary and market based calculations to adequately represent the natural conditions of human production and development

Approaches to History Sabyasachi

Bhattacharya, 2011 History as a social science is arguably more self reflective than associated disciplines in that family Other social scientists seem to see little reason to look beyond the paradigm they are developing in the present times Historians on the other hand tend to depend on the cumulative process of the development of their craft and the fund of accumulated knowledge Yet while this is acknowledged in the practice of research Historiography in itself as a subject of study has rarely found its place in the syllabi of Indian universities Knowledge of Historiography is taken for granted when a scholar plunges into research In an attempt to address this lacuna the Indian Council of Historical Research ICHR has planned a series of volumes on Historiography comprising articles by subject specialists commissioned by the ICHR The first volume in the series Approaches to History Essays in Indian Historiography brings to the readers the first fruits of that endeavour While the essays encompass areas of research presently at the frontiers of new research scholars will also find the bibliographies accompanying the essays of significant appeal

The Dialectics of Ecology John Bellamy Foster, 2024-04 Today the fate of the earth as a home for humanity is in question and yet contends John Bellamy Foster the reunification of humanity and the earth remains possible if we are prepared to make revolutionary changes As with his prior books The Dialectics of Ecology is grounded in the contention that we are now faced with a concrete choice between ecological socialism and capitalist exterminism and rooted in insights drawn from the classical historical materialist tradition In this latest work Foster explores the complex theoretical debates that have arisen historically with respect to the dialectics of nature and society He then goes on to examine the current
