

An impressionist painting depicting a woman and a young child sitting on a checkered blanket on a grassy bank next to a river. The woman, on the left, wears a white dress and a wide-brimmed straw hat, and is adorned with a green beaded necklace. The child, on the right, wears a light blue dress and a matching hat. They are both smiling towards the viewer. The river flows past them, with a small bridge visible in the background. The foreground features a large, colorful checkered blanket. The background is filled with lush greenery and trees, rendered with visible brushstrokes characteristic of Impressionism. The overall mood is peaceful and idyllic.

Clancy, 2003 Defining an artistic era or movement is often a difficult task as one tries to group individualistic expressions and artwork under one broad brush Such is the case with impressionism which culls together the art of a multitude of painters in the mid 19th century including Monet Cézanne Renoir Degas and van Gogh Basically impressionism involved the shedding of traditional painting methods The subjects of art were taken from everyday life as opposed to the pages of mythology and history In addition each artist painted to express feelings of the moment instead of hewing to time honoured standards This description of impressionism obviously is quite broad and can apply to a wide array of styles Nonetheless it remains a very important school in the annals of art Any current or budding art aficionado should become familiar with the impressionist movement and its impact on the art world This book presents a sweeping study of this artistic period from its origins to its manifestations in the works of some of art history's most revered painters Following this overview is a substantial and selective bibliography featuring access through author title and subject indexes G.K.
