El Niño/southern Oscillation and Physical Processes of the Tropical Oceans Janet M. Witte, 1986 Tropical Marine Ecology Daniel M. Alongi, 2021-12-13 No realm on Earth elicits thoughts of paradise more than the tropics The tropical marine realm is special in myriad ways and for many reasons from seas of higher latitude in housing iconic habitats such as coral reefs snow white beaches crystal clear waters mangrove forests extensive and rich seagrass meadows and expansive river deltas such as the exemplar the Amazon But the tropics also has an even more complex side tropical waters give rise to cyclones hurricanes and typhoons and unique oceanographic phenomena including the El Niño Southern Oscillation which affects global climate patterns Tropical Marine Ecology documents the structure and function of tropical marine populations communities and ecosystems in relation to environmental factors including climate patterns and climate change and patterns of oceanographic phenomena such as tides and currents and major oceanographic features as well as chemical and geological drivers The book focuses on estuarine coastal continental shelf and open ocean ecosystems The first part of the book deals with the climate physics geology and chemistry of the tropical marine environment The second section focuses on the origins diversity biogeography and the structure and distribution of tropical biota The third part explores the rates and patterns of primary and secondary production and their drivers and the characteristics of pelagic and benthic food webs The fourth part examines how humans are altering tropical ecosystems via unsustainable fisheries the decline and loss of habitat and fragmentation Further pollution is altering an earth already in the throes of climate change Tropical Marine Ecology is an authoritative and comprehensive introduction to tropical marine ecology for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students It is also a rich resource and reference work for researchers and professional managers in marine science

Mangrove Ecosystems Volker Linneweber, 2013-06-29 Protection of the environment has nowadays become a major challenge and a condition for survival of future human generations and life on Earth in general Yet it is still far too much of a dream or hope rather than a reality in the policy of our societies Presently we are experiencing an unprecedented exponential growth of demography combined with a race for profit resulting in excessive consumption particularly of energy and a serious impact on the world ecosystems Various types of pollutants and emerging new diseases not only disrupt the normal course of life but also above this some of the atmospheric pollutants are most likely involved in the changing climate We fear and literally shiver at the thought that the changing climate would ultimately disrupt the fragile thermodynamic equilibrium between the atmosphere and the oceans Are we insensitive to these facts to the point of pushing our descendants some generations ahead into a new glacial period after a first period of warming up at least in northern Europe like the one that took place 13 to 14 millennia ago Surely the planet's nature is not prepared to be dominated by man and will go its way whether humanity will be alive or dead

Climatic Variation in Earth History Eric J. Barron, 1996 This module presents two case studies from Earth history the first examines the contrasts between major episodes of warm apparently ice free climates and times of major glaciation the second considers the rhythms within the most recent period of glacial climate
