From Post Maoism To Post Marxism The Erosion Of Official Ideology In Dengs China:

From Post-Maoism to Post-Marxism Kalpana Misra,1998 From Post Maoism to Post Marxism chronicles Deng Xiaoping s failure to produce a new internally consistent and persuasive ideology to support the post Mao regime In the end China has been unable to find a sustainable middle ground between socialism and capitalism From Post-Maoism to Post-Marxism Kalpana Misra,1998 This text chronicles Deng Xiaoping s institution of far reaching and practical economic reforms that seem at odds with Communist theory and its emphasis on ideology In fact while Deng often turned to Mao for ideological justification of his reforms those very reforms seemed to wear away to official ideology Ultimately even though the post Mao government has fostered economic growth improved standards of living and intellectual pluralism these changes have resulted in a decline on the perceived legitimacy of the regime The Transformation of Chinese

Socialism Chun Lin,2006 A significant contribution to both political theory and China studies this volume provides a critical assessment of the past and future Chinese socialism China's Transformations Lionel M. Jensen,Timothy B.

Weston,2006-12-21 This successor volume to China beyond the Headlines takes the reader even farther beyond the front stage to explore a China few Westerners have seen The contributors argue that the great gap between what specialists understand and the general public believes has led to distorted and potentially dangerous misunderstandings of the most powerful emerging player on the global stage Seeking to bridge that gap a group of prominent scholars journalists and activists challenge readers to move past the typical images of China presented by the media and to think about the common problems shared by China and the United States In an entirely new set of essays they explore such critical issues as environmental degradation nationalism unemployment film and literature news reporting the Internet sex tourism and the costs of the economic boom to vividly portray the complexity of life in contemporary China and how surprisingly often it speaks to the American experience Contributions by Bei Dao Susan D Blum Timothy Cheek Martin Fackler John Gittings Howard Goldblatt Peter Hays Gries Sandra Teresa Hyde Lionel M Jensen Tong Lam Sylvia Li chun Lin Jonathan Noble Tim Oakes David Ownby Judith Shapiro Timothy B Weston and Xiao Qiang Online Chinese Nationalism and China's

Bilateral Relations Simon Shen,Shaun Breslin,2010-03-18 Since the Chinese were officially plugged into the virtual community in 1994 the usage of the internet in the country has developed at an incredible rate By the end of 2008 there were approximately 298 million netizens in China a number which surpasses that of the U S and ranks China the highest user in the world The rapid development of the online Chinese community has not only boosted the information flow among citizens across the territory but has also created a new form of social interaction between the state the media various professionals and intellectuals as well as China s ordinary citizens Although the subject of this book is online Chinese nationalism which to a certain extent is seen as a pro regime phenomenon the emergence of an online civil society in China intrinsically provides some form of supervision of state power perhaps even a check on it The fact that the party state has made use of this social interaction while at the same time remaining worried about the negative impact of the same netizens is a fundamental characteristic of the nature of the relationship between the state and the internet community Many questions arise when considering the internet and Chinese nationalism Which are the most important internet sites carrying online discussion of nationalism related to the author's particular area of study What are the differences between online nationalism and the conventional form of nationalism and why do these differences exist Has nationalist online expression influenced actual foreign policy making Has nationalist online expression influenced discourse in the mainstream mass media in China Have there been any counter reactions towards online nationalism Where do they come from Online Chinese Nationalism and China's Bilateral Relations seeks to address these questions

Children of Marx and Coca-Cola Xiaoping Lin, 2009-11-02

Children of Marx and Coca Cola affords a deep study of Chinese avant garde art and independent cinema from the mid 1990s to the beginning of the twenty first century Informed by the author's experience in Beijing and New York global cities with extensive access to an emergent transnational Chinese visual culture this work situates selected artworks and films in the context of Chinese nationalism and post socialism and against the background of the capitalist globalization that has so radically affected contemporary China It juxtaposes and compares artists and independent filmmakers from a number of intertwined perspectives particularly in their shared avant garde postures and perceptions Xiaoping Lin provides illuminating close readings of a variety of visual texts and artistic practices including installation performance painting photography video and film Throughout he sustains a theoretical discussion of representative artworks and films and succeeds in delineating a variegated postsocialist cultural landscape saturated by market forces confused values and lost faith This refreshing approach is due to Lin's ability to tackle both Chinese art and cinema rigorously within a shared discursive space He for example aptly conceptualizes a central thematic concern in both genres as postsocialist trauma aggravated by capitalist globalization By thus focusing exclusively on the two parallel and often intersecting movements or phenomena in the visual arts his work brings about a fruitful dialogue between the narrow field of traditional art history and visual studies more generally Children of Marx and Coca Cola will be a major contribution to China studies art history film studies and cultural studies Multiple audiences specialists teachers and students in these disciplines as well as general readers with an interest in contemporary Chinese society and culture will find that this work fulfills an urgent need for sophisticated analysis of China's cultural production as it assumes a key role in capitalist globalization

The New Entrepreneurs of Europe and Asia Victoria E. Bonnell, Thomas B. Gold, 2015-05-20 While attention has been focused on high level struggles over control of giant enterprises in China and the former Soviet bloc a remarkable but underreported revolution has been occurring at the grass roots level This volume examines the profiles of entrepreneurs and the patterns of business development in the post socialist countries Bringing together the perspectives of all the social science disciplines from anthropology through economics and political science to sociology the contributors identify the criteria for survival and success of independent businesses in different environments Their findings shed light not only on the transition from socialism at the micro level but also on the conditioning effects of different economic historical legal and social conditions on the conduct of independent economic initiatives

From Ah Q to Lei Feng Wendy Larson, 2008-10-16 When Freudian sexual theory hit China in the early 20th century it ran up against competing models of the mind from both Chinese tradition and the new revolutionary culture Chinese theorists of the mind both traditional intellectuals and revolutionary psychologists steadily put forward the anti Freud a mind shaped not by deep interiority that must be excavated by professionals but shaped instead by social and cultural interactions Chinese novelists and film directors understood this focus and its relationship to Mao's revolutionary ethos and much of the literature of twentieth century China reflects the spiritual qualities of the revolutionary mind From Ah Q to Lei Feng investigates the continual clash of these contrasting models of the mind provided by Freud and revolutionary Chinese culture and explores how writers and filmmakers negotiated with the implications of each model Against the Law Ching Kwan Lee, 2007-06-07 This powerful study opens a critical perspective on the slow death of socialism and the rebirth of capitalism in the world's most dynamic and populous country Based on remarkable fieldwork and extensive interviews in Chinese textile apparel machinery and household appliance factories Against the Law dissects the world of Chinese workers today and finds a rising tide of labor unrest mostly hidden from the world's attention Intense working class agitation is being spurred by massive unemployment of Mao's socialist proletariat in the northern rustbelt and by the exploitation of millions of young workers in the southern sunbelt Providing a broad comparative political and economic analysis of the vast mosaic of this labor struggle together with unprecedented fine grained ethnographic detail the book portrays the multi faceted humanity of the Chinese working class as their stories unfold in bankrupt state factories and global sweatshops in crowded dormitories and remote villages at heroic moments of street protests as well as in quiet disenchantment with the corrupt officialdom and the fledgling legal system

Categories and Contexts Simon Szreter, Hania Sholkamy, A. Dharmalingam, 2004-03-18 Throughout its history as a social science demography has been associated with an exclusively quantitative orientation for studying social problems As a result demographers tend to analyse population issues scientifically through sets of fixed social categories that are divorced from dynamic relationships and local contexts and processes This volume questions these fixed categories in two ways First it examines the historical and political circumstances in which such categories had their provenance and second it reassesses their uncritical applications over space and time in a diverse range of empirical case studies encouraging throughout a constructive interdisciplinary dialogue involving anthropologists demographers historians and sociologists This volume seeks to examine the political complexities that lie at the heart of population studies by focusing on category formation category use and category critique It shows that this takes the form of a dialectic between the needs for clarity of scientific and administrative analysis and the recalcitrant diversity of the social contexts and human processes that generate population change The critical reflections of each chapter are enriched by meticulous ethnographic fieldwork and historical research drawn from every continent This volume therefore exemplifies a new methodology for research in population studies one that does not simply accept and re use the established categories of population science but seeks critically and reflexively to explore test and re evaluate their meanings in diverse contexts It shows that for demography to realise its full potential it must urgently re examine and contextualize the social categories used today in population research

Competing Economic Paradigms in China Steven Mark Cohn, 2017-09-05 When the Chinese economic reforms began in 1978 Marxist economics infused all the institutions of economic theory in China from academic departments and economics journals to government departments and economic think tanks By the year 2000 neoclassical economics dominated these institutions and organized most economic discussion This book explains how and why neoclassical economic theory replaced Marxist economic theory as the dominant economics paradigm in China It rejects the idea that the rise of neoclassical theory was a triumph of reason over ideology and instead using a sociology of knowledge approach links the rise of neoclassical economics to broad ideological currents and to the political economic projects that key social groups inside and outside China wanted to enable The book concludes with a discussion of the nature of economic theory and economics education in China today

Just One Child Susan Greenhalgh,2008 Population politics are a major issue in China Susan Greenhalgh explores the origins and development of the one child policy from the late 1970s to the present day showing how sociopolitical life in China has been subject to scientization and statisticalization

Gender in Motion Bryna Goodman,Wendy Larson,2005-05-05 Governing notions of the social order and interrelated constructions of gender changed radically in the modern era initially with the questioning of the imperial dynastic order and the creation of a Chinese republic in the early twentieth century later with the creation of a Communist government and most recently with China s political and cultural transformations in the post Mao era As ideas and practices of gender have changed the persistence of older rhetorical signs in the interstices of new political visions has complicated the social projects and understandings of modernity especially in terms of the creation of new public spaces new concepts of work and virtue and new configurations of gender
