The Conference for E Democracy and Open Government CeDEM brings together experts from academia public authorities developers and practitioners The CeDEM proceedings present the essence of academic and practical knowledge on e democracy and open government The peer reviewed academic papers the reflections the workshops and the PhD summaries found in these proceedings reveal the newest developments trends tools and procedures and show the many ways that these impact society and democracy The Oxford Handbook of Cyberpsychology Alison Attrill-Smith, Chris Fullwood, Melanie Keep, Daria J. Kuss, 2019-05-16 The internet is so central to everyday life that it is impossible to contemplate life without it From finding romance to conducting business receiving health advice shopping banking and gaming the internet opens up a world of possibilities to people across the globe Yet for all its positive attributes it is also an environment where we witness the very worst of human behaviour cybercrime election interference fake news and trolling being just a few examples What is it about this unique environment that can make people behave in ways they wouldn't contemplate in real life Understanding the psychological processes underlying and influencing the thinking interpretation and behaviour associated with this online interconnectivity is the core premise of Cyberpsychology The Oxford Handbook of Cyberpsychology explores a wide range of cyberpsychological processes and activities through the research and writings of some of the world's leading cyberpsychology experts. The book is divided into eight sections covering topics as varied as online research methods, self-presentation and impression management technology across the lifespan, interaction and interactivity online groups and communities, social media health and technology, video gaming and cybercrime and cybersecurity. The Oxford Handbook of Cyberpsychology will be important reading for those who have only recently discovered the discipline as well as more seasoned cyberpsychology researchers and teachers.

DIY Music and the Politics of Social Media Ellis

Jones, 2020-12-10. The emergence of social media in the early 21st century promised to facilitate new DIY cultural approaches emphasizing participation and democratization. However, in recent years, these platforms have been criticized as domineering and exploitative. For DIY musicians in scenes with lengthy histories of cultural resistance, is social media a powerful emancipatory and democratizing tool or a new corporate antagonist to be resisted? DIY Music explores the significant challenges faced by artists navigating this fraught cultural landscape. How do anti-commercial musicians operate in the competitive attention-seeking world of social media? How do they deal with a new abundance of data and metrics? How do they present their activity as cultural resistance? This book shows that a platform-enabled DIY approach is now the norm for a wide array of cultural practitioners; this DIY as default landscape threatens to depoliticize the call to do it yourself.

The Routledge Companion to Global Internet Histories Gerard Goggin, Mark McLelland, 2017-02-17. The Routledge Companion to Global Internet Histories brings together research on the diverse Internet histories that have evolved in different regions, language cultures and social contexts across the globe. While the Internet is now in its fifth decade, the understanding and formulation of its histories outside of an anglophone framework is still very much in its infancy. From Tunisia to Taiwan, this volume emphasizes the importance of understanding and formulating Internet histories outside of the anglophone case studies and theoretical paradigms that have thus far dominated academic scholarship on Internet history. Interdisciplinary in scope, the collection offers a variety of historical lenses on the development of the Internet as a new communication technology seen in the context of older technologies as a new form of sociality read alongside previous technologically mediated means of relating and as a new media vehicle for the communication of content.

Globalized E-Learning Cultural Challenges Edmundson, Andrea, 2006-07-31. This book's purpose is to inform educators and instructional designers of issues and cultural misunderstandings that could hinder the effective transfer of knowledge when e-learning is exported to other cultures. Addressing these cultural challenges will enhance the effectiveness of e-learning, thereby supporting the societal benefits of increased access to education at a global level. Provided by publisher.

DiPadova-Stocks,2008-06-01 This edited collection the first of its kind marries the two fastest growing movements in higher education service learning and eLearning While these two innovative pedagogies are widely assumed to be incompatible this collection highlights their complementary approaches as a new teaching method for 21st Century learners The collection offers a new pedagogical model service service eLearning defined as an integrative pedagogy that engages learners through technology in civic inquiry service reflection and action Service learning is an academically rigorous instructional method that incorporates meaningful community service into the curriculum Focusing on critical reflective thinking and civic responsibility servicelearning involves students in organized community service that addresses local needs while developing their academic skills respect for others and commitment to the common good DiPadova Stocks 2006 At the same time distance education has grown from paper based correspondence courses to highly interactive and dynamic pedagogies that incorporate online technologies to ensure rapid and meaningful interaction between geographically dispersed faculty and students The goal of this edited collection is to consider how these two educational innovations have and can combine to further encourage civic engagement while meeting the demands of an increasingly global competitive and diverse educational marketplace This edited collection the first of its kind defines and addresses the emergent blending of service learning and eLearning to create a new integrated pedagogical model service eLearning Service eLearning Educating for Citizenship starts a conversation about the marriage of two powerful educational innovations While readers of this collection may be familiar with existing work on service learning and technology use this book demonstrates the potential of a new model which acknowledges eLearning as a pedagogy within its own right The new model presented here blends eLearning pedagogy with existing approaches to service learning The result is an integrated pedagogical approach Service eLearning As the work presented herein highlights service eLearning responds to the challenges of today s rapidly changing technology mediated reality Navigating New Media Networks Bree

McEwan,2015-08-13 Navigating New Media Networks examines the changes introduced into society through the increasing use of communication technology The development of a networked society has allowed individuals to acquire the social resources and support needed to thrive in the modern world but it has also placed great pressure on the individual to conduct the communication work needed to form and maintain relationships McEwan explores this issue by delving into topics like identity privacy communication competence online communities online social support mediated relational maintenance and mobile communication This work will be of interest to scholars of sociology psychology and communication

Post-Ethical Society Douglas V. Porpora,Alexander G. Nikolaev,Julia Hagemann May,Alexander Jenkins,2013-09-07 We've all seen the images from Abu Ghraib stress positions US soldiers kneeling on the heads of prisoners and dehumanizing pyramids formed from black hooded bodies We have watched officials elected to our highest offices defend enhanced interrogation in terms of efficacy and justify drone strikes in terms of retribution and deterrence But the mainstream secular media rarely addresses the morality of these choices leaving us to ask individually Is this right In this singular examination of the American discourse over war and torture Douglas V Porpora Alexander Nikolaev Julia Hagemann May and Alexander Jenkins investigate the opinion pages of American newspapers television commentary and online discussion groups to offer the first empirical study of the national conversation about the 2003 invasion of Iraq and the revelations of prisoner abuse at Abu Ghraib a year later Post Ethical Society is not just another shot fired in the ongoing culture war between conservatives and liberals but a pensive and ethically engaged reflection of America's feelings about itself and our actions as a nation And while many writers and commentators have opined about our moral place in the world the vast amount of empirical data amassed in Post Ethical Society sets it apart and makes its findings that much more damning Humanizing the Web H. Oinas-Kukkonen,2013-02-06 Offers a vivid description of the ongoing transformation of the web into something that is widely recognized and that will have an enormous impact on how people work and live their lives in the future Presents concepts that will help readers understand why the web evolved as it did what is going on right now and what will happen next

Letters, Postcards, Email Esther Milne,2012-02-27 In this original study Milne moves between close readings of letters postcards and emails and investigations of the material technological infrastructures of these forms to answer the question How does presence function as an aesthetic and rhetorical strategy within networked communication practices As her work reveals the relation between old and new communication systems is more complex than allowed in much contemporary media theory Although the correspondents of letters postcards and emails are not usually present to one another as they write and read their exchanges this does not necessarily inhibit affective communication Indeed this study demonstrates how physical absence may in some instances provide correspondents with intense intimacy and a spiritual almost telepathic sense of the other's presence While corresponding by letter postcard or email readers construe an imaginary incorporeal body for their correspondents that in turn reworks their interlocutor's self presentation In this regard the fantasy of presence reveals a key paradox of cultural communication namely that material signifiers can be used to produce the experience of incorporeal presence
