Doyle, Nicholas Sambanis, 2011-04-22 Making War and Building Peace examines how well United Nations peacekeeping missions work after civil war Statistically analyzing all civil wars since 1945 the book compares peace processes that had UN involvement to those that didn't Michael Doyle and Nicholas Sambanis argue that each mission must be designed to fit the conflict with the right authority and adequate resources UN missions can be effective by supporting new actors committed to the peace building governing institutions and monitoring and policing implementation of peace settlements But the UN is not good at intervening in ongoing wars If the conflict is controlled by spoilers or if the parties are not ready to make peace the UN cannot play an effective enforcement role It can however offer its technical expertise in multidimensional peacekeeping operations that follow enforcement missions undertaken by states or regional organizations such as NATO Finding that UN missions are most effective in the first few years after the end of war and that economic development is the best way to decrease the risk of new fighting in the long run the authors also argue that the UN's role in launching development projects after civil war should be expanded Peacebuilding, Conflict and Community Development John Eversley, Sinéad Gormally, Avila Kilmurray, 2022-11-28 How do local communities effectively build peace and reconciliation before during and after open violence This trailblazing book gives practical examples from the Global North the former Soviet bloc and Global South on communities addressing conflict in divided and contested societies The book draws on a range of critical perspectives and practitioner analyses The diverse case studies demonstrate the considerable knowledge skills commitment courage and relationships within local communities that a critical community development approach can support and encourage Concluding with activists perspectives on working with the challenges of violence the book offers insights for both an understanding of the root causes of conflict and for bottom up peacebuilding Re-envisioning Peacekeeping François Debrix, 1999 Kritisk gennemgang af de seneste FN interventioner i Irak Somalia og Bosnien hvor man let var at skabe international orden Den Nye Verdensorden under indtryk af fredelig intervention og humanitær bistand Conflict Prevention and Peace-building in Post-War Societies T.
