Stem Cells and Progenitor Cells in Ischemic Stroke - Fashion or Future? Thorsten R. Doeppner,Dirk M.

Hermann,2016-01-15 Stroke remains one of the most devastating diseases in industrialized countries Recanalization of the occluded arterial vessel using thrombolysis is the only causal therapy available However thrombolysis is limited due to severe side effects and a limited time window As such only a minority of patients receives this kind of therapy showing a need for new and innovative treatment strategies Although neuroprotective drugs have been shown to be beneficial in a variety of experimental stroke models they ultimately failed in clinical trials Consequently recent scientific focus has been put on modulation of post ischemic neuroregeneration either via stimulation of endogenous neurogenesis or via application of exogenous stem cells or progenitor cells Neurogenesis persists within the adult brain of both rodents and primates As such neural progenitor cells NPCs are found within distinct niches like the subventricular zone SVZ of the lateral ventricles and the subgranular zone of the dentate gyrus Cerebral ischemia stimulates these astrocyte like progenitor cells upon which NPCs proliferate and migrate towards the site of lesion There NPCs partly differentiate into mature neurons without significantly being integrated into the residing neural network Rather the majority of new born cells dies within the first weeks post stroke leaving post ischemic neurogenesis a phenomenon of unknown biological significance Since NPCs do not replace lost brain tissue beneficial effects observed in some studies after either stimulated or protected neurogenesis are generally contributed to indirect effects of these new born cells The precise identification of appropriated cellular mediators however is still elusive How do these mediators work Are they soluble factors or maybe even vesicular structures emanating from NPCs What are the cues that guide NPCs towards the ischemic lesion site How can post ischemic neurogenesis be stimulated How can the poor survival of NPCs be increased In order to support post ischemic neurogenesis a variety of research groups have focused on application of exogenous stem progenitor cells from various tissue sources Among these cultivated NPCs from the SVZ and mesenchymal stem cells MSCs from the bone marrow are frequently administered after induction of stroke Although neuroprotection after delivery of stem progenitor cells has been shown in various experimental stroke models transplanted cells are usually not integrated in the neural network Again the vast amount of grafted cells dies or does not reach its target despite profound neuroprotection also suggesting indirect paracrine effects as the cause of neuroprotection Yet the factors being responsible for these observations are under debate and still have to be addressed Is there any optimal cell type for transplantation How can the resistance of grafted cells against a non favorable extracellular milieu be increased What are the molecules that are vital for interaction between grafted cells and endogenous NPCs The present research topic seeks to answer at least in part some of the aforementioned questions Although the research topic predominantly focuses on experimental studies and reviews alike a current outlook towards clinical relevance is given as well

Lidsky,2025-03-26 Hepatic Arterial Infusion HAI chemotherapy most commonly entails the surgical implantation of a subcutaneous pump with a catheter that is inserted into the hepatic arterial system allowing for the delivery of high dose chemotherapy directly to the liver typically given concurrently with systemic chemotherapy The primary agent delivered via HAI is floxuridine FUDR which has the ideal properties of a short half life 10 minutes and near complete hepatic clearance such that drug concentrations in the liver reach up to 400 times that which could be achieved with intravenous delivery but without systemic exposure toxicity This text is the gold standard comprehensive resource encompassing much more than the essentials of hepatic arterial infusion therapy Written by experts in the field sections include a historical perspective of transarterial therapies and how implantable devices were developed as well as the therapeutic optimization that has taken place over many decades Subsequent chapters address key components of the preoperative evaluation and patient selection criteria and surgeons will benefit from the thorough review of the conduct and nuances of pump implantation inclusive of how to overcome commonly encountered intraoperative obstacles The reader regardless of their role on the HAI team will have access to a toolkit to aid in diagnosis and management of commonly encountered complications allowing insight into perioperative management of these complex patients Furthermore medical oncologists will benefit from exhaustive details pertaining to pump and systemic chemotherapy dosing and delivery with specific attention to modifications that will facilitate improvements in HAI safety and therapeutic efficacy This all inclusive text also includes a thorough review of the existing body of literature which will provide all readers with evidence based context and justification for using HAI for specific patient populations The book concludes with sections focused on essential steps for new HAI program implementation and sustainability as well as the future of HAI including device and drug development and alternative transarterial chemotherapy delivery strategies This HAI reference includes extensive illustrations and figures for visual clarity Accompanying this book is a video atlas demonstrating technical maneuvers for open and robotic HAI pump implantation management of aberrant anatomy and intraoperative troubleshooting as well as instructional videos for how to prime access bolus and refill the pump all of which are key components of maintaining a functional device It is the only reference that provides a comprehensive review of all aspects of HAI for all specialists and providers of a multidisciplinary HAI team
