Indian Cinema and Human Rights: An Intersectional Tale Adam Dubin, Ruchira Goswami, Ishita Sharma, 2024-11-26 This book examines the intersection between Indian cinema across geographic regions, languages and formats and human rights. It analyzes Indian cinema from multiple human rights perspectives such as freedom of expression and censorship, socio-economic rights, caste rights, women's and children's rights and LGBTQIA equality. The book bridges human rights law and cinema studies and opens up new research areas within sociocultural and socio-legal academic contexts. It also contributes to academic disciplines beyond Law and Cinema including Media, Cultural, Gender, Socio-economic and Sociology studies and is relevant for Liberal Arts curricula, Law Schools and as a reference book in university libraries in India and internationally, especially in film institutes. Finally, the book offers practical implications for human rights activists and policymakers by exploring how rights can be advanced through cinema and pop culture.

Authorship and Film David A. Gerstner, Janet Staiger, 2013-09-13 Authorship in film has been a persistent theme in the field of cinema studies. This volume of new work revitalizes the question of authorship by connecting it to larger issues of identity in film in the marketplace in society in culture. Essays range from the auteur theory and Casablanca to Oscar Micheaux from the American avant-garde to community video, all illuminating how authorship is a complex idea with far-reaching implications. This ambitious and wide-ranging book will be essential reading for anyone concerned with film studies and the concept of the author.

Motion Picture Paradise David Morton, 2025-09-16 Highlighting Florida's essential, often overlooked role in shaping American film and television, Motion Picture Paradise is a sweeping story of filmmaking in Florida featuring the activities of studios and filmmakers across the peninsula by looking at the many iconic films and television shows shot in the state. In the early years of the American film industry, Florida was a favorite location for pioneer movie makers and David Morton chronicles the state's importance to producers throughout the next 125 years. Often overshadowed by the well-known entertainment industries of Hollywood and New York, Florida has over time had several major film production centers. Morton follows the rise and fall of filmmaking destinations across the state including Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Tampa Bay, Orlando and Miami as well as pioneering underwater and location-based films shot at Florida's unique natural springs. He argues that conflicting policies set by Florida politicians have at various times enticed or pushed away movie and television companies, a pattern that has hampered serious investment. Using a wealth of source materials, Morton offers a comprehensive history that demonstrates how films and television shows made in Florida have influenced the state's sense of identity, drawing attention to Florida's underacknowledged role as the third coast in American
