From These Roots:

From These Roots Jeff Deel, 2024-02-20 Part memoir part inspirational Jeff Deel's From These Roots tells of his sometimes mischievous childhood as the son of a holiness preacher and the change of heart and events that led him as an adult to work alongside his brother ministering to the lost and forgotten people of Atlanta's inner city. Through Jeff's stories from his own past along with those of the countless transformations he has witnessed at City of Refuge readers will see how being a follower can be just as important as being a leader. Jeff Deel has lived in the shadow of his older brother Bruce for his entire life. He wouldn't have had it any other way. While being the sons of a holiness preacher they still found ways to get into their fair share of mischief with older brother Bruce taking on the role of leader for better or worse. Yet Jeff never questioned his place as his brother's follower and supporter for better or worse. Then came adulthood and Jeff's turbulent search to find himself. Through a series of failed occupations and the desire to avoid ministry at all costs Jeff was predictably led right back to his brother's side. This time instead of finding mischief Jeff and Bruce worked together building the City of Refuge in Atlanta. Through their work COR has welcomed thousands upon thousands of individuals who have found themselves in dire straits whether as victims of abuse and sex trafficking or as people whose own choices have thrust them to rock bottom. Jeff and Bruce have found their experience watching their parents minister to the least of these and teaching them what it means to offer a person dignity, love, and hope prepared them more than they ever could have realized. From These Roots

Tamara Lanier, 2025-01-28 One woman's unrelenting mission to reclaim her ancestors' history and honor their lineage pits her against one of the country's most powerful institutions, Harvard University. Tamara Lanier grew up listening to her mother's stories about her ancestors. As Black Americans descended from enslaved people brought to America, they knew all too well how fragile the tapestry of a lineage could be. As her mother's health declined, she pushed her daughter to dig into those stories. Tell them about Papa Renty, she would say. It was her mother's last wish. Thus begins one woman's remarkable commitment to document that story. Her discovery of a nineteenth-century daguerreotype at Harvard University's Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology, one of the first ever photos of enslaved people from Africa, reveals a dark-skinned man with short-cropped silver hair and chiseled cheekbones. The information read: Renty, Congo, All at once. Lanier knew she was staring at the ancestor her mother told her so much about. Papa Renty. In a compelling account covering more than a decade of her own research, Lanier takes us on her quest to prove her genealogical bloodline to Papa Renty's, that pits her in a legal battle against Harvard and its army of lawyers. The question is: who has claim to the stories, artifacts, and remnants of America's stained history: the institutions who acquired and housed them for generations, or the descendants who have survived? From These Roots is not only a historical record of one woman's lineage but a call to justice that fights for all those demanding to reclaim honor and lay to rest the remains of mishandled lives and memories. From These Roots, 1984
