From Tirpitz To Gorbachev Power Politics In The Twentieth Century:

From Tirpitz to Gorbachev Peter Mangold, 2014-01-14 A history of power politics from the construction of the German battlefleet to Gorbachev's new thinking The unwillingness of all the Great Powers to recognise that war in Ivan Bloch's 1899 phrase had become impossible except at the price of suicide resulted in two unprecedentedly great wars These in turn gave impetus to a decline of power politics which gathered pace after 1945 Nuclear weapons imposed a straitjacket which Soviet revisionism was unable to break out of Moral revulsion technological advance and economic growth facilitated the emergence of a norm based accommodatory culture which now offers a basis for a wider post Cold War order War Aims in the Second World War Victor Rothwell, 2019-08-07 No detailed description available for War Aims in the Second World War

Rodger,2016-07-27 It is a century since Mahan and his disciples taught the world that a battlefleet was indispensable to a great power Great and not so great powers still keep powerful navies today but we have no generally accepted principles to explain why In this book historians and naval officers from Britain the United States and other countries study the use of naval power over a century and ask what it is for and what it can do It will be essential reading for modern historians policy makers and strategists
