studies and contributes to the debate over the nature and history of Orientalism as defined by Edward Said Examining two dozen Hebrew and Judeo Arabic travel accounts from the mid twelfth to the early sixteenth centuries Martin Jacobs asks whether Jewish travelers shared Western perceptions of the Islamic world with their Christian counterparts Most Jews who detailed their journeys during this period hailed from Christian lands and many sailed to the Eastern Mediterranean aboard Christian owned vessels Yet Jacobs finds that their descriptions of the Near East subvert or reorient a decidedly Christian vision of the region The accounts from the crusader era in particular are often critical of the Christian church and present glowing portraits of Muslim Jewish relations By contrast some of the later travelers discussed in the book express condescending attitudes toward Islam Muslims and Near Eastern Jews Placing shifting perspectives on the Muslim world in their historical social and literary contexts Jacobs interprets these texts as mirrors of changing Jewish self perceptions As he argues the travel accounts echo the various ways in which premodern Jews negotiated their mingled identities which were neither exclusively Western nor entirely Eastern

Traveling Through Text Elka Weber,2014-02-04 Traveling through Text compares religious travel writing by Muslims Christians and Jews in later Middle Ages This comparative approach allows us to see that writers in all three religious communities used travel writing in the same way to shape the perceptions of their readers by asserting the author's authority The central paradox of religious travel writing is that the travel writer reads about a place usually in a sacred text decide to supplement the reading with the empirical experience of visiting and describing the place and the creates his own descriptive text But in writing this new book and in letting his readers know his authorial authority the travel writer himself is daring the reader to challenge the new text Is a book ever enough For societies that value their sacred texts this question is a challenge But it is a challenge posed by writers who live firmly in the religious tradition Jews and Journeys Joshua Levinson,Orit Bashkin,2021-08-06 What happens when Jewish authors whether by force or of their own free will whether in reality or in the imagination travel from one place to another Jews and Journeys explores what it is about travel writing that enables it to become a central mechanism for exploring the realities and fictions of individual and collective identity Roxy Traveling Light Roxanne Christine Neely,2012-01-10 Travels in Translation Ken Frieden,2016-07-25 For centuries before its rebirth as a spoken language Hebrew writing was like a magical ship in a bottle that gradually changed design but never voyaged out into the world Isolated the ancient Hebrew ship was torpid because the language of the Bible was inadequate to represent modern life in Europe Early modern speakers of Yiddish and German gave Hebrew the breath of life when they translated dialogues descriptions and thought processes from their vernaculars into Hebrew By narrating tales of pilgrimage and adventure Jews pulled the ship out of the bottle and sent modern Hebrew into the world In Travels in Translation Frieden analyzes this emergence of modern Hebrew literature after 1780 a time when Jews were moving beyond their conventional Torah and Zion centered worldview Enlightened authors diverged from pilgrimage narrative traditions and appropriated travel narratives to America the Pacific and the Arctic The effort to translate sea travel stories from European languages with their nautical terms wide horizons and exotic occurrences made particular demands on Hebrew writers They had to overcome their tendency to introduce biblical phrases at every turn in order to develop a new vivid descriptive language As Frieden explains through deft linguistic analysis by 1818 a radically new travel literature in Hebrew had arisen Authors such as Moses Mendelsohn Frankfurt and Mendel Lefin published books that charted a new literary path through the world and in European history Taking a fresh look at the origins of modern Jewish literature Frieden launches a new approach to literary studies one that lies at the intersection of translation studies and travel writing What Really Happened in the Garden of Eden? Ziony Zevit,2013-11-26 A provocative new interpretation of the Adam and Eve story from an expert in Biblical literature The Garden of Eden story one of the most famous narratives in Western history is typically read as an ancient account of original sin and humanity's fall from divine grace In this highly innovative study Ziony Zevit argues that this is not how ancient Israelites understood the early biblical text Drawing on such diverse disciplines as biblical studies geography archaeology mythology anthropology biology poetics law linguistics and literary theory he clarifies the worldview of the ancient Israelite readers during the First Temple period and elucidates what the story likely meant in its original context Most provocatively he contends that our ideas about original sin are based upon misconceptions originating in the Second Temple period under the influence of Hellenism He shows how for ancient Israelites the story was really about how humans achieved ethical discernment He argues further that Adam was not made from dust and that Eve was not made from Adam's rib His study unsettles much of what has been taken for granted about the story for more than two millennia and has far reaching implications for both literary and theological interpreters Classical Hebrew in the hands of Ziony Zevit is like a cello in the hands of a master cellist He knows all the hidden subtleties of the instrument and he makes you hear them in this rendition of the profoundly simple story of Adam Eve the Serpent and their Creator in the Garden of Eden Zevit brings a great deal of other biblical learning to bear in a surprisingly light hearted book Jack Miles author of God A Biography

Maps and Travel in the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Period Ingrid Baumgärtner,Nirit Ben-Aryeh Debby,Katrin Kogman-Appel,2019-03-04 The volume discusses the world as it was known in the Medieval and Early Modern periods focusing on projects concerned with mapping as a conceptual and artistic practice with visual representations of space and with destinations of real and fictive travel Maps were often taken as straightforward objective configurations However they expose deeply subjective frameworks with social political and economic significance Travel narratives whether illustrated or not can address similar frameworks Whereas travelled space is often adventurous and speaking of hardship strange encounters and danger city portraits tell a tale of civilized life and civic pride The book seeks to address the multiple ways in which maps and travel literature conceive of the world communicate a Weltbild depict space and or define knowledge The volume challenges academic boundaries in the study of cartography by exploring the links between mapmaking and artistic practices The contributions discuss individual mapmakers authors of travelogues mapmaking as an artistic practice the relationship between travel literature and mapmaking illustration in travel literature and imagination in depictions of newly explored worlds Routledge Revivals: Medieval Jewish Civilization (2003) Norman Roth,2017-07-05 First published in 2003 this is the first encyclopedic work to focus exclusively on medieval Jewish civilization from the fall of the Roman Empire to about 1492 Based on the research of an international multidisciplinary team of specialist contributors the more than 150 alphabetically organized entries written by scholars from around the world include biographies countries events social history and religious concepts The coverage is international presenting people culture and events from various countries in Europe Africa and the Middle East
