Heeresgeschichtliches Museum In Vienna:

Museums of the Mind: German Modernity and the Dynamics of Collecting , Iron and Blood Peter H. Wilson,2023-02-14 From the author of the acclaimed The Thirty Years War and Heart of Europe a masterful landmark reappraisal of German military history and of the preconceptions about German militarism since before the rise of Prussia and the world wars German military history is typically viewed as an inexorable march to the rise of Prussia and the two world wars the road paved by militarism and the result a specifically German way of war Peter Wilson challenges this narrative Looking beyond Prussia to German speaking Europe across the last five centuries Wilson finds little unique or preordained in German militarism or warfighting Iron and Blood takes as its starting point the consolidation of the Holy Roman Empire which created new mechanisms for raising troops but also for resolving disputes diplomatically Both the empire and the Swiss Confederation were largely defensive in orientation while German participation in foreign wars was most often in partnership with allies The primary aggressor in Central Europe was not Prussia but the Austrian Habsburg monarchy yet Austria s strength owed much to its ability to secure allies Prussia meanwhile invested in militarization but maintained a part time army well into the nineteenth century Alongside Switzerland which relied on traditional militia both states exemplify the longstanding civilian element within German military power Only after Prussia s unexpected victory over France in 1871 did Germans and outsiders come to believe in a German gift for warfare a special capacity for high speed high intensity combat that could overcome numerical disadvantage It took two world wars to expose the fallacy of German military genius Yet even today Wilson argues Germany s strategic position is misunderstood The country now seen as a bastion of peace spends heavily on defense in comparison to its peers and is deeply invested in less kinetic contemporary forms of coercive power

Jaeger, 2019-01-02 Twenty first century views of historical violence have been immeasurably influenced by cultural representations of the Second World War Within Europe one of the key sites for such representation has been the vast array of museums and memorials that reflect contemporary ideas of war the roles of soldiers and civilians and the self perception of those who remember This volume takes a historical perspective on museums covering the Second World War and explores how these institutions came to define political contexts and cultures of public memory in Germany across Europe and throughout the world Museums and the Act of Witnessing Ross J. Wilson, 2021-10-20 Museums and the Act of Witnessing examines how representations of traumatic histories and the legacies of the twentieth century in museums and heritage sites across the world shape political social and cultural identities Drawing on an interdisciplinary analysis of a variety of museum exhibitions around the globe the book demonstrates how the narrative of witnessing has shaped representation of war genocide repression and violence Revealing that this form of presentation is inherently Western in its origins and nature

Wilson goes on to argue that witnessing the past is to colonise the future as we project a certain view of the events of the past onto the present. Detailing the character content and meanings of representation that focus on the traumatic events of the twentieth century, the book demonstrates the way in which visitors are cast as witnesses and questions what the true purpose of witnessing really is. Museums and the Act of Witnessing draws attention to the fact that we have inherited a distinct and often limited mode of seeing the past and considers how we can more effectively engage with the past in the present. The book will be of interest to academics and students engaged in the study of museums history sociology conflict politics and memory.

Peace Museums Peter van den Dungen, 2024-12-31 This book is the first comprehensive study of the history nature and purposes of peace museums comprising twenty one essays by a leading authority in the field. It presents a powerful argument for the need for this new kind of museum that informs and inspires visitors that a world of peace and nonviolence is both necessary and possible. Whereas there are numerous museums about war and the armed forces museums about peacemaking and peacemakers are rare indeed the very concept of peace museums is still largely unknown. This is a reflection of the traditional writing and teaching of history which is dominated by narratives of war and warriors with little or no attention being paid to the history of efforts to prevent and abolish war. Peace museums are ideal instruments to bring the long fascinating and vitally important history of peace to life for a large public. Among the essays included are histories of two forgotten and unknown yet heroic efforts to prevent World War I and then World War II through museums that educated and alerted visitors about the disasters ahead if war was not avoided and ways to steer a different course following the catastrophe that was the Great War. At a time when a barbaric war in Europe continuing wars in Africa and ominous threats of war in Asia are raising the specter of nuclear war and World War III the need for anti nuclear bomb and anti war museums is greater than ever. Such museums are essential for the development of a global culture of peace and nonviolence. The book provides inspiration and hope for everyone interested in efforts to overcome an existential threat to civilization that is wholly man made.

National Museums and Nation-building in Europe 1750-2010 Peter Aronsson, Gabriella Elgenius, 2014-12-05 Europe's national museums have since their creation been at the centre of on going nation making processes. National museums negotiate conflicts and contradictions and entrain the community sufficiently to obtain the support of scientists and art connoisseurs citizens and taxpayers policy makers domestic and foreign visitors alike. National Museums and Nation building in Europe 1750 2010 assess the national museum as a manifestation of cultural and political desires rather than that a straightforward representation of the historical facts of a nation. National Museums and Nation building in Europe 1750 2010 examines the degree to which national museums have created models and representations of nations their past present and future and proceeds to assess the consequences of such attempts. Revealing how different types of nations and states former empires monarchies republics pre modern modern or post imperial entities deploy and prioritise different types of museums based on art archaeology culture and ethnography in their making this book constitutes the first comprehensive and comparative perspective on national museums in Europe and their intricate relationship to the making of nations and states Does War Belong in Museums? Wolfgang Muchitsch,2014-04-15

Presentations of war and violence in museums generally oscillate between the fascination of terror and its instruments and the didactic urge to explain violence and by analysing it make it easier to handle and prevent The museums concerned also have to face up to these basic issues about the social and institutional handling of war and violence Does war really belong in museums And if it does what objectives and means are involved Can museums avoid trivializing and aestheticising war transforming violence injury death and trauma into tourist sights What images of shock or identification does one generate and what images would be desirable Austria 1867-1955 John W. Boyer,2022-09-15 Austria 1867 1955 connects the political history of German speaking provinces of the Habsburg Empire before 1914 Vienna and the Alpine Lands with the history of the Austrian Republic that emerged in 1918 John W Boyer presents the case of modern Austria as a fascinating example of democratic nation building The construction of an Austrian political nation began in 1867 under Habsburg Imperial auspices with the German speaking bourgeois Liberals defining the concept of a political people Volk and giving that Volk a constitution and a liberal legal and parliamentary order to protect their rights against the Crown The decades that followed saw the administrative and judicial institutions of the Liberal state solidified but in the 1880s and 1890s the membership of the Volk exploded to include new social and economic strata from the lower bourgeoisie and the working classes Ethnic identity was not the final structuring principle of everyday politics as it was in the Czech lands Rather social class occupational culture and religion became more prominent variables in the sortition of civic interests exemplified by the emergence of two great ideological parties Christian Socialism and Social Democracy in Vienna in the 1890s The war crisis of 1914 1918 exploded the Empire with the Crown self destructing in the face of military defeat chronic domestic unrest and bitter national partisanship But this crisis also accelerated the emergence of new structures of democratic self governance in the German speaking Austrian lands enshrined in the republican Constitution of 1920 Initial attempts to make this new project of democratic nation building work failed in the 1920s and 1930s culminating in the catastrophe of the 1938 Nazi occupation After 1945 the surviving legatees of the Revolution of 1918 reassembled under the four power Allied occupation which fashioned a shared political culture which proved sufficiently flexible to accommodate intense partisanship resulting by the 1970s in a successful republican system organized under the aegis of elite democratic and corporatist negotiating structures in which the Catholics and Socialists learned to embrace the skills of collective but shared self governance The Thirty Years War Peter H.
