Thinking Freedom in Africa Michael Neocosmos, 2016-12-01 Thinking Freedom in Africa conceives an emancipatory politics beginning from the axiom that people think Previous ways of conceiving the universal emancipation of humanity have in practice ended in failure Marxism anti colonial nationalism and neo liberalism all understand the achievement of universal emancipation through a form of state politics Marxism which had encapsulated the idea of freedom for most of the twentieth century was found wanting when it came to thinking emancipation because social interests and identities were understood as simply reflected in political subjectivity which could only lead to statist authoritarianism Neo liberalism and anti colonial nationalism have also both assumed that freedom is realizable through the state and have been equally authoritarian in their relations to those they have excluded on the African continent and elsewhere Thinking Freedom in Africa then conceives emancipatory politics beginning from the axiom that people think In other words the idea that anyone is capable of engaging in a collective thought practice which exceeds social place interests and identities and which thus begins to think a politics of universal humanity Using the work of thinkers such as Alain Badiou Jacques Rancière Sylvain Lazarus Frantz Fanon and many others along with the inventive thought of people themselves in their experiences of struggle the author proceeds to analyse how Africans themselves with agency of their own have thought emancipation during various historical political sequences and to show how emancipation may be thought today in a manner appropriate to twenty first century conditions and concerns

The Lesser Good Wendy C. Hamblet, 2009-01-16 Western civilization is founded upon the assumption that there exists a natural order to the world an embedded principle of justice with which human reason is aligned The imagery is seductive However Emil Fackenheim raises a troubling fact in his To Mend the World when he names the Holocaust the rupture that ruptures philosophy The Holocaust and countless other horrors over thousands of years of eager philosophical pursuit could not order the troublesome human soul to that state of justice that the Plato claims to be the most natural and happy state of human beings if they can simply know their best interests The philosopher physician to the human soul has proven impotent in healing the open ethical wound of human inhumanity worse the grand ontological and epistemological structures that philosophers have constructed may be linked to the ethical failures of the planet to colonial and imperial worldviews The work of post Holocaust phenomenologist Emmanuel Levinas is written under the somber backdrop of the Holocaust Levinas by his own admission stages a return to Plato He shares Plato's sense of ethical urgency in the philosophical task but he sets course for a new Platonism that thinks the difference separating rather than the unity gathering being Levinas more than Plato appreciates that the exigencies and labor of everyday life can eclipse the needs of others and waylay the ethical life Levinas too holds out more hope than Plato that the worst human beings can simply forget themselves and their self interested projects and become their brothers keepers Levinas quests for the good beyond being as he challenges the tradition of Western thought and the post Holocaust world to a new ethos we must decide between the starry skies above the ordered ontologies of the Western tradition and the moral law within The Lesser Good represents a timely consideration of the ethical exigencies of human life politics and justice demonstrating that philosophy's faith in progress is a fiction

America and the Black Body Carol E. Henderson, 2009 America and the Black Body is a timely exploration into the creative literary and visual uses of the black body in American print and visual culture More specifically this volume contemplates the social development of American identity and the multifarious ways this identity coalesces in the small gestures of preclusion that establish discernable markers of national belonging Such investigations underscore issues of power and disenfranchisement of race class and gender that mediate the representations of the black male and the black female body in real and imagined ways as it also reveals the invisible social and political ties that connect white men and women's identities to these racial imaginings

Book Jacket The Radicalism of Departure Jeff Spiessens, 2018-11-07 To date the philosophy of Max Stirner 1806-1856 has not attracted much academic attention An early critic of Karl Marx and precursor of existentialist thought he is nevertheless remembered as a radical Young Hegelian engaged in an unsuccessful attempt to move beyond Hegel Arguing that this image of Stirner is based on a faulty interpretation of his relationship to Hegelian philosophy this book proposes an entirely new reading of his philosophical magnum opus Der Einzige und sein Eigentum In this work traditional philosophy epitomized by Hegel is reduced to the property of the unique or single individual This move must not only be seen as a refusal to keep traditional philosophy alive by criticising it but also entails an existentialist inversion of the traditional relation between thinker and idea This exciting new interpretation which is demonstrated here by a detailed analysis of Der Einzige und sein Eigentum clears the way for a philosophical rehabilitation of Stirner's ideas

The Dispute of the New World Antonello Gerbi, 2010-06-20 Translated by Jeremy Moyle When Hegel described the Americas as an inferior continent he was repeating a contention that inspired one of the most passionate debates of modern times Originally formulated by the eminent natural scientist Georges Louis Leclerc Comte de Buffon and expanded by the Prussian encyclopedist Cornelius de Pauw this provocative thesis drew heated responses from politicians philosophers publicists and patriots on both sides of the Atlantic The ensuing polemic reached its apex in the latter decades of the eighteenth century and is far from extinct today Translated into English in 1973 The Dispute of the New World is the definitive study of this debate Antonello Gerbi scrutinizes each contribution to the debate unravels the complex arguments and reveals their inner motivations As the story of the polemic unfolds moving through many disciplines that include biology economics anthropology theology geophysics and poetry it becomes clear that the subject at issue is nothing less than the totality of the Old World versus the New and how each viewed the other at a vital turning point in history Race and the Foundations of Knowledge Joseph A. Young, Jana Evans Braziel, 2006 This anthology demonstrates the longstanding multifarious and major role that race has played in the formation of knowledge The authors demonstrate how race theory intersects with other bodies of knowledge by examining discursive records such as travelogues literature and historiography theoretical structures such as common sense pseudoscientific racism and Eurocentrism social structures of class advancement and identity and politico economic structures of capitalism colonialism and law

Subjugate the Earth Philipp Blom, 2024-11-05 Subjugate the Earth traces the biography of a strange idea the idea that human beings can subdue nature and rule over it Born in Mesopotamia at the dawn of civilization the idea of subjugating the Earth was included in the Bible reached Europe through Christianity and spread to the entire world through colonialism The Enlightenment gave a scientific appearance to the ambition of controlling nature but did not change the ambition itself Yet every birth presages a death Only with the climate crisis has it become apparent that the subjugation of nature must be a self defeating ambition because it alters and deregulates natural systems which humans depend on for their survival precisely because they are part of nature and not separate from it Subjugating the Earth is an idea that is dying around us The polycrisis threatening to engulf humanity is inextricably linked to how humans see themselves and their relationship with nature Based on developments in the natural sciences a new understanding of this relationship looks not at individual phenomena but at systems connections and entanglements between humans and other manifestations of nature Is it possible to build a new understanding of humanity in nature by turning the traditional vision of free rational individuals on its head and seeing humans as fascinating irrational and system dependent beings within the vast system of nature Interlacing historical episodes individual life stories works of art and scientific discoveries Subjugate the Earth tells the story of the rise and fall of an idea that has shaped our world and weaves a rich tapestry that is as surprising as it is enriching

Intersections Iain Borden, Jane Rendell, 2000 Intersections represents a newly emergent approach to the history of architecture that addresses both the relevance of critical theories to an historical understanding of architecture and the development of those theories
