Connection on the Ice Patti H. Clayton, 1998 On Friday October 7 1988 Roy Ahmaogak of Barrow Alaska discovered three young gray whales trapped in ice off the Arctic coast The three week rescue operation that followed cost more than a million dollars and grew to include the White House the Soviet Union the environmental community Eskimo whalers Alaskan oil companies school children and journalists from around the world the Alaska National Guard and a host of other corporate governmental scientific and individual participants Some called it a non event a fiasco an absurd waste of money while others considered it the most extraordinary animal rescue effort ever undertaken In any case it is a story not likely to be forgotten Both complex and moving this story grounds Patti Clayton's overview of environmental ethics theory. Using the story as a touchstone for critical comparison, Clayton explores three major traditions of environmental philosophy: extensionism, ecofeminism's care ethic, and Heideggerian Phenomenology. In doing so, she guides readers through the evolution and central concepts of each tradition, moving intriguingly between theory and the well-known rescue story as an apt illustration of the complexities of ethical deliberation. Clayton's critical thinking leads to a deeper appreciation of the ways in which different sets of assumptions yield unique interpretations of such issues. Readers have the opportunity to consider the implications of this environmental ethics issue as a microcosm of human/nonhuman interaction. The unifying narrative of the whale story, which is based on the commentary of participants and observers, provides both an engaging vehicle for the study of environmental ethics and a real-world testament to the multifaceted nature of human/nonhuman relationships, encouraging readers to reflect on the connection of such incidents in their own lives.

Author note: Patti H. Clayton is Visiting Lecturer in the Division of Multidisciplinary Studies at North Carolina State University.

Theory and Practice Ian Shapiro, Judith Wagner Decew, 1996-10. What are the relations between philosophical theories and everyday life? This question as old as it is profound is the central focus of Theory and Practice. The authors include some of the most influential thinkers of our generation among them Cass Sunstein, Jean Bethke Elshtain, Martha Nussbaum, Jeremy Waldron, and Kent Greenawalt. In sixteen chapters, all published here for the first time, the authors examine major attempts to reconcile theory with practice in the Western tradition from Herodotus, Plato, and Aristotle to Kant and Heidegger, and examine contemporary efforts to grapple with this problem.

Martin Heidegger's Being and Time Richard M. McDonough, 2006. The ideas of Martin Heidegger, one of the most important philosophers of the twentieth century, have had a profound influence on work in literary theory and aesthetics as well as on mainstream philosophy. This book offers a clear and concise guide to Heidegger's notoriously complex writings while giving special attention to his major work Being and Time. Richard McDonough adds historical context by exploring Heidegger's intellectual roots in German idealism and ancient Greek philosophy and introduces readers to the key themes in Heidegger's work, including Dasein, Existenz, time, conscience, death, and phenomenology. This book, which also considers Heidegger's controversial ethics or anti-ethics and politics, would make an excellent text for both introductory and advanced undergraduate courses on existentialism, phenomenology, continental philosophy, and Heidegger himself.

The Question of Peace in Modern Political Thought Toivo Koivukoski, David Edward Tabachnick, 2015-04-08. The essays in The Question of Peace in Modern Political Thought address the contribution that political theories of modern political philosophers have made to our understandings of peace. The discipline of peace research has reached a critical impasse where the ideas of both realist peace and democratic peace are challenged by contemporary world events. Can we stand by while dictators violate the human rights of citizens? Can we impose a democratic peace through the projection of war? By looking back at the great works of political philosophy, this collection hopes to revive peace as an active question for political philosophy while making an
