The Development of the Concept of SMELL in American English Daniela Pettersson-Traba, 2022-10-24 The last decades have witnessed a renewed interest in near synonymy. In particular, recent distributional corpus based approaches used for semantic analysis have successfully uncovered subtle distinctions in meaning between near synonyms. However, most studies have dealt with the semantic structure of sets of near synonyms from a synchronic perspective while their diachronic evolution generally has been neglected. Against this backdrop, the aim of this book is to examine five adjectival near synonyms in the history of American English from the understudied semantic domain of SMELL: fragrant, perfumed, scented, sweet-scented, and sweet-smelling. Their distribution is analyzed across a wide range of contexts including semantic, morphosyntactic, and stylistic ones, since distributional patterns of this type serve as a proxy for semantic dissimilarity. The data is submitted to various univariate and multivariate statistical techniques, making it possible to uncover fine-grained dissimilarities among the near synonyms as well as possible changes in their prototypical structures. The book sheds valuable light on the diachronic development of lexical near synonyms, a dimension that has up to now been relatively disregarded.

Aspects of Language Development in an Intensive English Program Alan Juffs, 2020-03-02 While there is much in the literature on ESL development, this book is the first of its kind to track the development of specific language abilities in an Intensive English Program (IEP) longitudinally and highlights the implications of this particular study's findings for future IEP implementation and practice and ESL and SLA research. The volume draws on many years' worth of data from learners at an IEP at the University of Pittsburgh to explore selected aspects of language development, including lexical, grammatical, speaking, and writing abilities, in addition to placement assessment practices and student learning outcomes. A concluding chapter points to the ways in which these findings can be applied to decision making around IEP curriculum development and the future role of IEPs in higher education more broadly. With its focus on students in IEP settings and the concentration on data from students evaluated over multiple semesters, this volume offers a unique opportunity in which to examine longitudinal developmental patterns of different L1 groups on a variety of measures from the same learners and will be key reading for students and researchers in second language acquisition, English for Academic Purposes, language education, and applied linguistics.
