Folk Narratives about Water Bodies in the Southern Baltic Lowland: From Geomythological Interpretations to Examples of Symbolic Eco-Symbiosis

Robert Piotrowski  & Włodzimierz Juśkiewicz

Abstract

This article examines human–aquatic environment relationships in the form of symbolic interactions, utilizing ethnographic materials collected in the southern Baltic region during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries by Polish and German scholars. The article covers four topics: motifs related to the creation of water bodies; perceptions of water bodies as malevolent entities; the practice of offering tributes to water bodies; and the phenomenon of symbolic eco-symbiosis between humans and aquatic habitats. The narratives presented offer folk interpretations of hydrological features, including their ontological classification and cultural significance, which elucidate the profound local spiritual connection with aquatic landscapes.

Introduction

It is easy for us to dismiss such descriptions of supernatural beings as worthless superstition. Yet to do so would mean denying the beliefs that structured people's lives and governed their thoughts, actions and movements. The spectres have their own time ... (Symonds 1999, 121)

This article aims to explore the relationship between humans and aquatic environments through the lens of symbolic interactions, with examples drawn from ethnographic source materials collected in the southern Baltic lowland area during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries by Polish and German ethnographers and folklorists. The article is divided into four main parts. The first part analyses motifs related to the creation of water bodies. The second part focuses on water bodies perceived as demonic. The third part addresses apparent offerings made to water bodies and the motif of water-horses. The fourth part deals with the supernatural interpretation of phenomena and events related to the water environment.

The concept of 'symbolic eco-symbiosis', which appears in the title, refers to the relationship between humans and the natural environment at the level of symbolic culture—interpreting hydrological phenomena and valuing water ecosystems through the prism of beliefs about the supernatural world. We assume that the network of relations between humans and the aquatic environment (or, more broadly, the

The Peoples of the Middle Niger This book provides the first comprehensive history of the peoples of the Middle Niger written by an English speaking scholar The Island of Gold was the medieval Muslim and later European name for a fabled source of gold and other tropical riches Although the floodplain of the Niger river lies far from the goldfields the mosaic of peoples along the Middle Niger created a wealth of grain fish and livestock that supported some of Africa s oldest cities including Timbuktu These ancient cities of the region that came to be known as Western Sudan were founded without outside stimulation and their inhabitants long resisted the coercive centralized state that characterized the origins of earliest towns elsewhere In this book Roderick James McIntosh uses the latest archaeological and anthropological research to provide a bold overview of the distant origins of life for the inhabitants of the Middle Niger and an explanation for their social evolution He shows for instance the difficulties the peoples faced in adapting to an unpredictable climate and how their particular social organization determined the unusual nature of their responses to that change Throughout the book oral traditions are integrated into the story providing vivid insights into the inhabitants complex culture and belief systems      Excavations at Jenné-Jeno, Hambarketolo, and Kaniana (Inland Niger Delta, Mali), the 1981 Season Susan Keech McIntosh,Professor Susan Keech McIntosh,1995-01-01 Since the first scientific excavations were conducted at Jenn jeno in 1977 this huge Iron Age occupation mound located in the floodplain of the Inland Niger Delta has produced a classic archaeological sequence spanning 1500 years Jenn jeno is widely recognized as one of the most carefully documented cases demonstrating the rise of indigenous urbanism in Africa and its archaeology has contributed significantly to a major paradigm shift in explanations for the rise of complex societies in sub Saharan Africa This monograph presents the results of the excavations conducted in 1980 81 at this site and at two others within the extensive mound complex of which Jenn jeno is a part Since the first scientific excavations were conducted at Jenn jeno in 1977 this huge Iron Age occupation mound located in the floodplain of the Inland Niger Delta has produced a classic archaeological sequence spanning 1500 years Jenn jeno is widely recognized as one of the most carefully documented cases demonstrating the rise of indigenous urbanism in Africa and its archaeology has contributed significantly to a major paradigm shift in explanations for the rise of complex societies in sub Saharan Africa This monograph presents the results of the excavations conducted in 1980 81 at this site and at two others within the extensive mound complex of which Jenn jeno is a part      Ancient Middle Niger Roderick J. case studies from the Amazon and the Zambesi Certain types of traditional management strategies are examined and assessed for their future utility The current ineffectiveness of many existing government river fisheries management policies is noted either as a result of lack of resources or because they are inappropriate often rooted in outdated colonial legislation The lack of both limited access measures and of participation by local fishing communities are highlighted as major deficiencies The paper concludes by linking these two features as crucial components of durable river management strategies for the future although other possibilities for management are also reviewed and assessed The paper contains a comprehensive bibliography for further reading

Archaeology and Language: Correlating archaeological and linguistic hypotheses Roger Blench, Matthew Spriggs, 1998 Using language to date the origin and spread of food production Archaeology and Language II represents groundbreaking work in synthesizing two disciplines that are now seen as interlinked linguistics and archaeology This volume is the second part of a three part survey of innovative results emerging from their combination Archaeology and historical linguistics have largely pursued separate tracks until recently although their goals can be very similar While there is a new awareness that these disciplines can be used to complement one another both rigorous methodological awareness and detailed case studies are still lacking in the literature This three part survey is the first study to address this Archaeology and Language II examines in some detail how archaeological data can be interpreted through linguistic hypotheses This collection demonstrates the possibility that where archaeological sequences are reasonably well known they might be tied into evidence of language diversification and thus produce absolute chronologies Where there is evidence for migrations and expansions these can be explored through both disciplines to produce a richer interpretation of prehistory An important part of this is the origin and spread of food production which can be modelled through the spread of both plants and words for them Archaeology and Language II will be of interest to researchers in linguistics archaeologists and anthropologists
