The Ideologies of Class : Social Relations in Britain 1880-1950 Ross McKibbin, 1990-04-05 This is a study of the social character of the British working class in the period from the 1880s to the early 1950s when about seventy five per cent of the population were manual workers or their dependents It has three central themes the nature of working class culture and working class organization the relationships between the working class and other classes and the role of both World Wars and the state in shaping class relations Ross McKibbin examines different aspects of British political social and economic history to give an integrated explanation of the development of modern British society and the ideological assumptions on which it is based Attitudes to work and leisure are also explored to build a coherent picture of the ideological world of Britain s social classes

England and the Aeroplane David Edgerton, 2013-04-04 The story of the strange mixture of romanticism militarism and technology that has made planes so important to England from the brilliant author of Britain s War Machine The history of England and the aeroplane is one tangled with myths of the Few and the Blitz of boffins flying machines amateur inventors and muddling through In England and the Aeroplane David Edgerton reverses received wisdom showing that the aeroplane is a central and revealing aspect of an unfamiliar English nation a warfare state dedicated to technology industry empire and military power England had the strongest air force in the Great War the largest industry in the world in the 1920s outproduced Germany by 50% at the time of the Battle of Britain and was the third largest producers of aeroplanes well after this time In a revelatory recounting of the story of aeronautical England from its politics to its industry and culture David Edgerton reconfigures some of the most important chapters of our history Reviews A brilliant polemic Guardian Full of good stories an illuminating read Spectator A tour de force after which the history of the aircraft industry will never be quite the same again Business History David Edgerton's sure footed essay sees Britain from an unusual perspective His arguments provide sound backing for the idea that modern Britain is as much a warfare state as a welfare one Economist About the author David Edgerton is Hans Rausing Professor at Imperial College London where he was the founding director of the Centre for the History of Science Technology and Medicine He is the author of a sequence of groundbreaking books on 20th century Britain Science Technology and the British Industrial Decline 1870 1970 Warfare State Britain 1920 1970 and Britain's War Machine published by Penguin He is also the author of the iconoclastic and brilliant The Shock of the Old Technology and Global History Since 1900

The Cambridge Social History of Britain, 1750-1950 F. M. L. Thompson, 1990 Whilst in certain quarters it may be fashionable to suppose that there is no such thing as society historians they have had no difficulty in finding their subject The difficulty rather is that an outpouring of research and writing is hard for anyone but the specialist to keep up with the literature or grasp the overall picture In these three volumes as is the tradition in Cambridge Histories a team of specialists has assembled the jigsaw of topical monographic research and presented an interpretation of the development of modern British society since 1750 from three perspectives those of regional communities the working and living environment and social institutions Each volume is self contained and each contribution thematically defined contains its own chronology of the period under review Taken as a whole they offer an authoritative and comprehensive view of the manner and method of the shaping of society in the two centuries of unprecedented demographic and economic change

British Politics, 1910-1935 David Powell, 2004 This accessible new study provides a much needed guide to the pivotal period of British history between 1910 and 1935 Combines an up to date synthesis of previous work with a re appraisal of the main personalities themes and events of the period
