I think too much modern criticism of my father is that a building is a masonry building: masonry, static design. I wanted a building that was right to want the skyscraper to stand firm on the ground and not be comprehended as a building in a building. Preservation, Third Edition: An Introduction to Its History, Principles, and Practice (Third Edition) Norman Tyler, Ilene R. Tyler, Ted J. Ligibel, 2018-10-16 This classic text covers the gamut of preservation issues in layman's language. Historic preservation which started as a grassroots movement now represents the cutting edge in a cultural revolution focused on green architecture and sustainability. This book provides comprehensive coverage of the many facets of historic preservation: the philosophy and history of the movement, the role of government, the documentation and designation of historic properties, sensitive architectural designs and planning, preservation technology and heritage tourism, plus a survey of architectural styles. An ideal introduction to the field for students, historians, preservationists, property owners, local officials, and community leaders, this thoroughly revised edition addresses new subjects including heritage tourism and partnering with the environmental community. It also includes updated case studies to reflect the most important historic preservation issues of today and brings the conversation into the twenty-first century. Constructing Building Enclosures Clifton Fordham, 2020-07-21 Constructing Building Enclosures investigates and interrogates tensions that arose between the disciplines of architecture and engineering as they wrestled with technology and building cultures that evolved to deliver structures in the modern era. At the center of this history are inventive architects, engineers, and projects that did not settle for conventional solutions, technologies, and methods. Comprised of thirteen original essays by interdisciplinary scholars, this collection offers a critical look at the development and the purpose of building technology within a design framework. Through two distinct sections, the contributions first challenge notions of the boundaries between architecture, engineering, and construction. The authors then investigate twentieth-century building projects exploring technological and aesthetic boundaries of postwar modernism and uncovering lessons relevant to enclosure design that are typically overlooked. Projects include Louis Kahn's Weiss House, Minoru Yamasaki's Science Center, Sigurd Lewerentz's Chapel of Hope, and more. An important read for students, educators, and researchers within architectural history, construction history, building technology, and design, this volume sets out to disrupt common assumptions of how we understand this history. Eero Saarinen on His Work: a Selection of Buildings Dated from 1947 to 1964, with Statements by the Architect Eero SAARINEN, 1962 The Gateway Arch W. Arthur Mehrhoff, 1992 Muses on the many dimensions of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial in downtown St. Louis. Sullivan,2022-03-01 A new look at the interrelationship of architecture and sculpture during one of the richest periods of American modern design Alloys looks at a unique period of synergy and exchange in the postwar United States when sculpture profoundly shaped architecture and vice versa Leading architects such as Gordon Bunshaft and Eero Saarinen turned to sculptors including Harry Bertoia Alexander Calder Richard Lippold and Isamu Noguchi to produce site determined large scale sculptures tailored for their buildings highly visible and well traversed threshold spaces The parameters of these spaces atriums lobbies plazas and entryways led to various designs like sculptural walls ceilings and screens that not only embraced new industrial materials and processes but also demonstrated art s ability to merge with lived architectural spaces Marin Sullivan argues that these sculptural commissions represent an alternate history of midcentury American art Rather than singular masterworks by lone geniuses some of the era s most notable spaces Philip Johnson s Four Seasons Restaurant in Mies van der Rohe s Seagram Building Max Abramovitz s Philharmonic Hall at Lincoln Center and Pietro Belluschi and Walter Gropius s Pan Am Building would be diminished without the collaborative efforts of architects and artists At the same time the artistic creations within these spaces could not exist anywhere else Sullivan shows that the principle of synergy provides an ideal framework to assess this pronounced relationship between sculpture and architecture She also explores the afterlives of these postwar commissions in the decades since their construction A fresh consideration of sculpture s relationship to architectural design and functionality following World War II Alloys highlights the affinities between the two fields and the ways their connections remain with us today Art Index Retrospective Alice Maria Dougan,Margaret Furlong,1966 Design in the Fifties George H.
