Pickowicz,2013-02-28 Leading scholar Paul G Pickowicz traces the dynamic history of Chinese filmmaking and discusses its course of development from the early days to the present Moving decade by decade he explores such key themes as the ever shifting definitions of modern marriage in 1920s silent features East West cultural conflict in the movies of the 1930s the strong appeal of the powerful melodramatic mode of the 1930s and 1940s the polarizing political controversies surrounding Chinese filmmaking under the Japanese occupation of Shanghai in the 1940s and the critical role of cinema during the bloody civil war of the late 1940s Pickowicz then considers the challenging Mao years including chapters on legendary screen personalities who tried but failed to adjust to the new socialist order in the 1950s celebrities who made the sort of artistic and political accommodations that would keep them in the spotlight in the post revolutionary era and insider film professionals of the early 1960s who actively resisted the most extreme forms of Maoist cultural production The book concludes with explorations of the highly cathartic films of the early post Mao era edgy postsocialist movies that appeared on the eve of the Tiananmen demonstrations of 1989 the relevance of the Eastern European velvet prison cultural production model and the rise of underground and independent filmmaking beginning in the 1990s Throughout its long history of film production China has been embroiled in a seemingly unending series of wars revolutions and jarring social transformations Despite daunting censorship obstacles Chinese filmmakers have found ingenious ways of taking political stands and weighing in for better or worse on the most explosive social cultural and economic issues of the day Exploring the often gut wrenching controversies generated by their work Pickowicz offers a unique and perceptive window on Chinese culture and society Armed Struggle and Democracy Martin Legassick,2002 The impact of the concept's of armed struggle for the notion's of democracy in South ern Africa is the focus of this paper Originally submitted to a conference on Re Conceptualising Democracy and Liberation in Southern Africa held in Windhoek Namibia during July 2002 it argues from the point of departure of the personal involvement of the author in the issues raised The author was part of a group which criticised the strategy of armed struggle in the ANC With this paper he inspires a debate which can claim relevance for current issues of democracy in South Africa and the Southern African region more generally Given the degree of personal involvement of its author this analysis is contemporary history based on personal insights and provides arguments for a necessary discussion To Govern China Vivienne Shue,Patricia M. Thornton,2017-10-26 How practically speaking is the Chinese polity as immense and fissured as it has now become actually being governed today Some analysts highlight signs of progress in the direction of more liberal open and responsive rule Others dwell instead on the many remaining obstacles to a hoped for democratic transition Drawing together cutting edge research from an international panel of experts this volume argues that both those approaches rest upon too starkly drawn distinctions between democratic and non democratic regime types and concentrate too narrowly on institutions as opposed to practices The prevailing analytical focus on adaptive and resilient authoritarianism a neo institutionalist concept fails to capture what are often cross cutting currents in ongoing processes of political change Illuminating a vibrant repertoire of power practices employed in governing China today these authors advance instead a more fluid open ended conceptual approach that privileges nimbleness mutability and receptivity to institutional and procedural invention and evolution
