Farmers And The State In Colonial Kano Land Tenure And The Legal Imagination:

Farmers and the State in Colonial Kano Steven Pierce, 2005-10-26 In Farmers and the State in Colonial Kano Steven Pierce examines issues surrounding the colonial state and the distribution of state power in northern Nigeria. Here Pierce deconstructs the colonial state and offers a unique reading of land tenure that challenges earlier views of the role of indirect rule. According to Pierce, land tenure was the means the colonial government used to rule the local population and extract taxes from them, but it was also a political logic with a fundamental flaw and a Western bias. In Pierce's view, colonial representations of land tenure claimed to reflect precolonial systems of rule but instead fundamentally misrepresented farmers' experience. He maintains that this misrepresentation created a paradox at the core of the colonial state which persists into the present and helps to explain contemporary problems in African states. In this sweeping and eloquent account of African history, readers will find an extended genealogy of land law and taxation as well as rich material on the power of indigenous knowledge and the persistence of colonial systems of rule.

Plantation Slavery in the Sokoto Caliphate Mohammed Bashir Salau, 2018 A work of synthesis on plantation slavery in nineteenth century Sokoto caliphate, engaging with major debates on internal African slavery, on the meaning of the term plantation and on comparative slavery.

The State and the Legacies of British Colonial Development in Malawi Gift Wasambo Kayira, 2023-01-09 What were the origins of British ideas on rural poverty and how did they shape development practice in Malawi? How did the international development narrative influence the poverty discourse in postcolonial Malawi from the 1960s onwards? In The State and the Legacies of British Colonial Development in Malawi: Confronting Poverty 1939-1983, Gift Wasambo Kayira addresses these questions. Although by no means rehabilitating colonialism, the book argues that the intentions of officials and agencies charged with delivering economic development programs were never as ill informed or wicked as some theorists have contended. Raising rural populations from poverty was on the agenda before and after independence. How to reconcile the pressing demand of stabilizing the country's economy and alleviating rural poverty within the context of limited resources proved an impossible task to achieve. Also difficult was how to reconcile the interests of outside experts influenced by international geopolitics and theories of economic development and those of local personnel and politicians. As a result, development efforts always fell short of their goals. Through a meticulous search of the archive on rural and industrial development projects, Kayira presents a development history that displays the shortfalls of existing works on development inadequately grounded in historical study.

The Acquisition of Africa (1870-1914) Mieke van der Linden, 2016-10-05 Over recent decades, the responsibility for the past actions of the European colonial powers in relation to their former colonies has been subject to a lively debate. In this book, the question of the responsibility under international law of former colonial States is addressed. Such a legal responsibility would presuppose the violation of the international law that was applicable at the time of colonization. In the Scramble for Africa during the Age of New Imperialism, 1870-1914, European States and non-State actors mainly used cession and protectorate treaties to acquire territorial sovereignty imperium and property rights over land dominium The question is raised whether Europeans did or did not on a systematic scale breach these treaties in the context of the acquisition of territory and the expansion of empire mainly through extending sovereignty rights and subsequently intervening in the internal affairs of African political entities Essays in African Land Law Robert Home (College teacher),2011 Slavery, Diplomacy and Empire Keith Hamilton,2013-03-04 Throughout the nineteenth century British governments engaged in a global campaign against the slave trade They sought through coercion and diplomacy to suppress the trade on the high seas and in Africa and Asia This collection of essays examines the role played by individuals and institutions in the diplomacy of suppression Colonial Survey and Native Landscapes in Rural South Africa, 1850 - 1913 Lindsay F. Braun,2014-10-16 In Colonial Survey and Native Landscapes in Rural South Africa 1850 1913 Lindsay Frederick Braun explores the technical processes and struggles surrounding the creation and maintenance of boundaries and spaces in South Africa in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The precision of surveyors and other colonial technicians lent these enterprises an illusion of irreproachable objectivity and authority even though the reality was far messier Using a wide range of archival and printed materials from survey departments repositories and libraries the author presents two distinct episodes of struggle over lands and livelihoods one from the Eastern Cape and one from the former northern Transvaal These cases expose the contingencies contests and negotiations that fundamentally shaped these changing South African landscapes The West African Slave Plantation M. Salau,2011-09-12 Mohammed Bashir Salau addresses the neglected literature on Atlantic Slavery in West Africa by looking at the plantation operations at Fanisau in Hausaland and in the process provides an innovative look at one piece of the historically significant Sokoto Caliphate

Improvising Planned Development on the Gezira Plain, Sudan, 1900-1980 Maurits W. Ertsen,2015-11-04 The typical image of the Gezira Scheme the large scale irrigation scheme started under British colonial rule in Sudan is of a centrally planned effort by a central colonial power controlling tenants and cotton production However any idea l s of planned irrigation and profit in Gezira had to be realized by African farmers and European officials who both had their own agendas Projects like Gezira are best understood in terms of continuous negotiations This book rewrites Gezira s history in terms of colonial control farmers actions and resistance and the broader development debate African Cities ,2009-05-20 Contemporary Africa is undergoing a period of unprecedented urban expansion which is throwing up new challenges in the provision of essential services and contentious questions about ownership of urban spaces This volume explores the interconnections between these processes whilst avoiding the tendency to forget that cities are also embedded in deeper historical processes that are integral to the framing of entitlements Histories of migrancy and the creation of urban stranger communities are fundamental in deciding who lives where and what this means materially and socially The gated communities that are springing up are often layered across older forms of urban segregation and or segmentation Urban water and food supply the management of urban land claims inequality and popular culture are closely examined The Social History of Agriculture Christopher Isett, Stephen Miller, 2016-11-09 This innovative text provides a compelling narrative world history through the lens of food and farmers Tracing the history of agriculture from earliest times to the present Christopher Isett and Stephen Miller argue that people rather than markets have been the primary agents of agricultural change Exploring the actions taken by individuals and groups over time and analyzing their activities in the wider contexts of markets states wars the environment population increase and similar factors the authors emphasize how larger social and political forces inform decisions and lead to different technological outcomes Both farmers and elites responded in ways that impeded economic development Farmers when able to trade with towns used the revenue to gain more land and security Elites used commercial opportunities to accumulate military power and slaves The book explores these tendencies through rich case studies of ancient China precolonial South America early modern France England and Japan New World slavery colonial Taiwan socialist Cuba and many other periods and places Readers will understand how the promises and problems of contemporary agriculture are not simply technologically derived but are the outcomes of decisions and choices people have made and continue to make The Government of Social Life in Colonial India Rachel Sturman, 2012-06-29 This book analyses religious law in colonial India exploring how it encouraged gender equality and a rethinking of the relationship between state and society Colonialism by Proxy Moses E. Ochonu, 2014-02-14 Moses E. Ochonu explores a rare system of colonialism in Middle Belt Nigeria where the British outsourced the business of the empire to Hausa Fulani subcolonials because they considered the area too uncivilized for Indirect Rule Ochonu reveals that the outsiders ruled with an iron fist and imagined themselves as bearers of Muslim civilization rather than carriers of the white man's burden Stressing that this type of Indirect Rule violated its primary rationale Colonialism by Proxy traces contemporary violent struggles to the legacy of the dynamics of power and the charged atmosphere of religious difference

Cooperation and Empire Tanja Bühner, Flavio Eichmann, Stig Förster, Benedikt Stuchtey, 2017-08-01 While the study of indigenous intermediaries is today the focus of some of the most interesting research in the historiography of colonialism its roots extend back to at least the 1970s The contributions to this volume revisit Ronald E. Robinson's theory of collaboration in a range of historical contexts by melding it with theoretical perspectives derived from postcolonial studies and transnational history In case studies ranging globally over the course of four centuries these essays offer nuanced explorations of the varied complex interactions between imperial and local actors with particular attention to those shifting and ambivalent roles that transcend simple binaries of colonizer and colonized Moral Economies of Corruption Steven Pierce, 2016-02-26 In Moral Economies of Corruption Steven Pierce provides a cultural history of the last 150 years of corruption in Nigeria as a case study for considering corruption's dynamic nature finding it to be a culturally contingent set of political discourses and historically embedded practices The Second Colonial Occupation Bekeh Utietiang Ukelina, 2017-07-28 In this insightful book development historian Bekeh Utietiang Ukelina addresses the crisis of development in Africa by locating it in its colonial historical past Using Nigeria as a case study he argues that the nature and practice of British colonialism in this colony created social and economic deficiencies that have left a legacy of underdevelopment Ukelina outlines the processes that led to the 1945 Nigerian Development Plan and the evolution of colonial agricultural policy and practices in Nigeria He argues that a few key factors led to the failure of development in the late colonial period the imperial and neocolonial imperative to exploit African resources and people poor planning as a result of this imperative and the racial ideologies of the colonial state that resulted in a total rejection of local African experience and knowledge in favor of Western experts The Second Colonial Occupation uncovers and analyzes the short and long term impact of colonialism It reveals that though colonial rule was promoted as a benevolent mission at heart it was a system that guaranteed that Africans continuously paid for their own exploitation Ukelina argues that postcolonial Africa will continue to face development challenges unless it breaks free from the intellectual relics of colonial rule and the economic shackles of neocolonialism

Silent Violence Michael J. Watts,2013-02-01 Why do famines occur and how have their effects changed through time Why are those who produce food so often the casualties of famines Looking at the food crisis that struck the West African Sahel during the 1970s Michael J

Watts examines the relationships between famine climate and political economy Through a longue dur e history and a detailed village study Watts argues that famines are socially produced and that the market is as fickle and incalculable as the weather Droughts are natural occurrences matters of climatic change but famines expose the inner workings of society politics and markets His analysis moves from household and individual farming practices in the face of climatic variability to the incorporation of African peasants into the global circuits of capitalism in the colonial and postcolonial periods Silent Violence powerfully combines a case study of food crises in Africa with an analysis of the way capitalism developed in northern Nigeria and how peasants struggle to maintain rural livelihoods As the West African Sahel confronts another food crisis and continuing food insecurity for millions of peasants Silent Violence speaks in a compelling way to contemporary agrarian dynamics food provisioning systems and the plight of the African poor
