Entertaining Judgment Greg Garrett, 2015 Nowadays references to the afterlife angels strumming harps demons brandishing pitchforks God enthroned on heavenly clouds are more often encountered in New Yorker cartoons than in serious Christian theological reflection Speculation about death and its sequel seems to embarrass many theologians however as Greg Garrett shows in Entertaining Judgment popular culture in the U S has found rich ground for creative expression in the search for answers to the question What lies in store for us after we die The lyrics of Madonna Los Lonely Boys and Sean Combs the plotlines of TV's Lost South Park and The Walking Dead the implied theology in films such as The Dark Knight Ghost and Field of Dreams the heavenly half light of Thomas Kinkadee's popular paintings the ghosts shades and after life way stations in Harry Potter and the characters situations and locations in the Hunger Games saga all speak to our hopes and fears about what comes next In a rich survey of literature and popular media Garrett compares cultural accounts of death and the afterlife with those found in scripture Denizens of the imagined afterlife whether in heaven hell on earth or in purgatory speak to what awaits us at once shaping and reflecting our deeply held if often somewhat nebulous beliefs They show us what rewards and punishments we might expect offer us divine assistance and even diabolically attack us Ultimately we are drawn to these stories of heaven hell and purgatory and to stories about death and the undead not only because they entertain us but because they help us to create meaning and to learn about ourselves our world and perhaps the next world Garrett's deft analysis sheds new light on what popular culture can tell us about the startlingly sharp divide between what modern people profess to believe and what they truly hope and expect to find after death and how they use those stories to help them understand this life and economic speculation and disaster shaped the literary culture of the United States in the early to mid twentieth century. It argues that speculation's risk laden and crisis prone temporalities had major impacts on writing in the period as well as on important aspects of visual representation. The conceptions of time and especially futurity arising from the theory and practice of speculation provided crucial models for writers and other artists. Aesthetic, intellectual and political concerns and strategies. The attractions and dangers of speculation were most spectacularly apparent in the period's pivotal economic event, the Wall Street Crash of 1929. The book offers an innovative account of how the speculative boom and bust of the Roaring Twenties affected literary and cultural production in the United States. It situates the stock market gyrations of the 1920s and 1930s within a wider culture of speculation that was profoundly shaped by but extended well beyond the brokerages and trading floors of Wall Street. The early to mid twentieth century was a speculative time, an age characterized by leaps of economic, political, intellectual and literary speculation, and the notion of speculative time provides a means of understanding the period's characteristic temporal modes and textures as evident in work by figures including F. Scott Fitzgerald, John Dos Passos, Nathan Asch, William Faulkner, Federico Garcia Lorca, James N. Rosenberg, Margaret Bourke White, Archibald MacLeish, Christina Stead, Claude McKay, Richard Wright and Ralph Ellison.
