James Alexander, 2001 Focusing on specific texts by Jamaica Kincaid Maryse Conde and Paule Marshall this study explores the intricate trichotomous relationship between the mother biological or surrogate the motherlands Africa and the Caribbean and the mothercountry represented by England France and or North America The mother daughter relationships in the works discussed address the complex conflicting notions of motherhood that exist within this trichotomy Although mothering is usually socialized as a welcoming nurturing notion Alexander argues that alongside this nurturing notion there exists much conflict Specifically she argues that the mother daughter relationship plagued with ambivalence is often further conflicted by colonialism or colonial intervention from the other the colonial

Fatal Denial Annie Menzel, 2024-05-28 Fatal Denial argues that over the past 150 years US health authorities explanations of and interventions into Black infant mortality have been characterized by the biopolitics of racial innocence a term describing the institutionalized mechanisms in health care and policy that have at once obscured enabled and perpetuated systemic infanticide by blaming Black mothers and communities themselves Following Black feminist scholarship demonstrating that the commodification and theft of Black women's reproductive bodies labors and care is foundational to US racial capitalism Annie Menzel posits that the polity has made Black infants vulnerable to preventable death Drawing on key Black political thought and praxis around infant mortality from W E B Du Bois and Mary Church Terrell to Black midwives and birth workers this work also tracks continued refusals to acknowledge this routinized reproductive violence illuminating both a rich history of care and the possibility of more transformative futures

Japanese American Midwives Susan L. Smith, 2010-10-01 In the late nineteenth century Japan's modernizing quest for empire transformed midwifery into a new woman's profession With the rise of Japanese immigration to the United States Japanese midwives sanba served as cultural brokers as well as birth attendants for Issei women They actively participated in the creation of Japanese American community and culture as preservers of Japanese birthing customs and agents of cultural change Japanese American Midwives reveals the dynamic relationship between this welfare state and the history of women and health Susan L Smith blends midwives individual stories with astute analysis to demonstrate the impossibility of clearly separating domestic policy from foreign policy public health from racial politics medical care from women's caregiving and the history of women and health from national and international politics By setting the history of Japanese American midwives in this larger context Smith reveals little known ethnic racial and regional aspects of women's history and the history of medicine

The Chosen We Rachelle Winkle-Wagner, 2023-12-01 The Chosen We elevates the oral histories of 105 accomplished college educated Black women who earned success despite experiencing reprehensible racist and sexist barriers The central argument is that these women succeeded in and beyond college by developing a Chosen We a community with one another The book builds on their words and insights to offer a powerful rethinking of educational success that moves away from individualistic and competitive models and instead imagines success as a result of recognizing what people owe to one another It also uncovers the importance of the type of institutions that students attend for higher education comparing Black women's experiences not only by region and era but also by whether they attended a predominantly White institution PWI or a historically Black college or university HBCU The Chosen We features theoretical and methodological exemplars for how to conduct research across lines of difference The Black women's oral histories shared here manifest the wisdom from which many groups in the United States might benefit that liberation is only found through community Brought to Bed Judith Walzer Leavitt, 2016-11-01 This classic work reveals how childbirth has changed from colonial times to the present including a new preface that discusses writings on the subject over the past three decades Can You Hear My Pain Now? Michael G. Lewis, 2024-03-18 Telling Narratives analyzes key texts from nineteenth and early twentieth century African American literature to demonstrate how secrets and their many tellings have become slavery's legacy By focusing on the ways secrets are told in texts by Jessie Fauset Charles W Chesnutt Pauline Hopkins Frederick Douglass and others Leslie W Lewis suggests an alternative model to the feminist dichotomy of breaking silence in response to sexual violence This fascinating study also suggests that masculine bias problematically ignores female experience in order to equate slavery with social death In calling attention to the sexual behavior of slave masters in African American literature Lewis highlights its importance to slavery's legacy and offers a new understanding of the origins of self consciousness within African American experience Journey to Birth Sakina O'uhuru, 2013-09-05 This book is about my life journey as a home birth midwife It includes the many home births I attended during my sixteen years as a practitioner with particular attention to the last ten years During this journey I have learned a myriad of life lessons Most of them strengthened me and my ability to continue on this path There were incredible challenges both joyful and painful The most challenging lessons happened to be the most life changing and transformative Those lessons impacted my life tremendously first as a woman second as a mother and grandmother and most assertively as a basic human being Otherworldly Mothering Marika Ceschia, 2024-08-09 Otherworldly Mothering argues that literary works by Toni Morrison Gloria Naylor Paule Marshall Audre Lorde and Toni Cade Bambara reimagine subjectivity in processual and relational terms through a rewriting of maternal praxis a technique that unveils the historical continuities between antebellum and neoliberal America By refiguring materials drawn from the tradition of slave narratives Black women's literature of the 1970s and 1980s often conjures maternal otherworlds where it is possible to engage alternative modes of being In conversation with the work of Hortense Spillers Sylvia Wynter and Saidiya Hartman Marika Ceschia analyzes how Black women writers find in the maternal a means of creatively reenvisioning the figure of the human Morrison's Song of Solomon Naylor's Linden Hills Marshall's Praisesong for the Widow Lorde's Zami and Bambara's The Salt Eaters each change the strictures that dictate how the human is performed As these texts show maternal praxis can have a transformative ontological effect confronting the toll exerted by centuries of racial violence these writers reclaim the maternal as a site of subject formation Otherworldly Mothering reassesses canonical works of twentieth century Black women's literature alongside theoretical debates around the ontology of the human antiblackness and Black motherhood Ceschia proposes a reappraisal of maternal praxis that challenges neoliberal discourse and questions recent critical turns toward Afropessimism and posthumanism Diasporic (dis)locations Brinda J. Mehta, 2004 Indo Caribbean women writers are virtually invisible in the literary landscape because of cultural and social inhibitions and literary chauvinism Until recently the richness and particularities of the experiences of these writers in the field of literature and literary studies were compromised by stereotypical representations of the Indo Caribbean women that were narrated from a purely masculine or an Afrocentric point of view This book fills an important gap in an important but underestimated emergent field The book explores how cultural traditions and female modes of opposition to patriarchal control were transplanted from India and rearticulated in the Indo Caribbean diaspora to determine whether the idea of cultural continuity is in fact a postcolonial reality or a fictionalized myth kala pani to Trinidad and Guyana provided courage determination self reliance and sexual independence to their literary granddaughters who in turn used the kala pani as the necessary language and frame of reference to position Indo Caribbean female subjectivity with equating writing as a public declaration of one's identity and right to claim creative agency The book is of critical interest to those interested in twentieth century literary
