Grassroots Charisma In China:

Grassroots Charisma Stephan Feuchtwang, Wang Mingming, 2013-12-16 This book relates the stories of four leaders under very different political regimes Colonial Nationalist and Communist The authors compare Chinese notions of respect and inspiration with their equivalents in other religious and political histories of colonial and post colonial modernity thereby producing a thorough re working of the idea of charisma The result is an intriguing study of the relationship between religious and political authority in a changing world

China's Scientific Elite Cong Cao, 2004-07-31 China's Scientific Elite is a study of those scientists holding China's highest academic honour membership of the Chinese Academy of Sciences Having carried out extensive systematic data collection of CAS members Cao examines the social stratification system of the Chinese science community and the way in which politics and political interference has effected the stratification The book then goes on to compare the Chinese system to the stratification of the US scientific elite The conclusions are fascinating not least because one national elite resides in a democratic liberal social system and the other in an authoritarian social system

Choosing China's Leaders Chien-wen Kou, Xiaowei Zang, 2013-10-08 Political elites are a key topic in contemporary China studies and have been investigated in relation to factional politics generation politics technocracy and crucially institutionalization The institutionalization of elite replacement began in China in the 1980s and quickly accelerated after the early 1990s as mechanisms emerged to regulate political elites entry and exit including age limits term limits and step by step promotion By examining the various processes of elite selection this book explores the role played by institutionalization in elite recruitment promotion and turnover in China While existing studies have developed our understanding of Chinese elite politics two key puzzles regarding institutionalisation remain Although institutionalisation is recognised as an important trend in Chinese politics there is as yet no theoretical framework to explain the forces that have brought about and sustained this Further it is unclear how the process of institutionalisation has impacted on factional politics and how factions would continue to operate within the parameters of formal politics Drawing on a wide range of studies this book looks at Politburo members senior People's Liberation Army officers provincial leaders heads of major central state owned enterprises and Youth League affiliates to provide a comprehensive understanding of elite recruitment and mobility in contemporary China This book will be of great interests to students and scholars of Chinese politics and government Chinese studies and Asian politics more broadly

State and Laid-Off Workers in Reform China Yongshun Cai, 2006-01-31 In the 1990s the Chinese government launched an unprecedented reform of state enterprises putting tens of millions of people out of work This empirically rich study calls on comprehensive surveys and interviews combining quantitative data with qualitative in its examination of the variation in workers collective action Cai investigates the difference in interests of and options available to workers that reduce their solidarity as well as the obstacles that prevent their coordination In addition and perhaps more importantly this book explores the Chinese Government's policies and how their feedback shaped workers incentives and capacity of action Manager Empowerment in China Ray Yep, 2003-12-08 Institutional changes in rural China caused by the economic reforms of the post Mao era have led to a new pattern of state society interaction in the rural polity Central to this is the spectacular rise of a group of managerial elites Contrary to economic predictors this has been accompanied by the development of an interdependence between these managers and the state This book provides an analysis of the new state society relationship and demonstrates the complexity and fluidity involved in institutional development and market transformation Religion in Contemporary China Adam Yuet Chau, 2010-12-21 This book provides a wide ranging and in depth survey of contemporary religious practices in China It explains how recent economic reforms and concurrent relaxation of religious polices have created fertile ground for the revitalization of a wide range of religious practices and relates this to larger issues of social and cultural continuity and change Marketization and Democracy in China Jianjun Zhang, 2008-02-25 Pt 1 Development patterns and the evolution of property rights pt 2 Class structure and elite relations pt 3 Political consequences Rural Policy Implementation in Contemporary China Anna Ahlers, 2014-01-10 At the turn of the millennium the disparities between rural and urban livelihoods underdevelopment and administrative shortcomings in the Chinese countryside were increasingly seen as posing a manifest threat to social harmony and economic and political stability At that time the term three rural problems sannong wenti was coined which defined the main issues of rural life that needed to be targeted by government action agriculture nongye villages nongcun and farmers nongmin In turn with the launch of the 11th Five Year Plan in 2006 a pledge was made to shift the focus of developmental efforts to the long neglected countryside which is still home to half of the Chinese population This book presents an analysis of adaptive local policy implementation in China in the context of the Building of a New Socialist Countryside BNSC policy framework Based on intensive field work in four counties in Fujian Jiangxi Shaanxi and Zhejiang Provinces between 2008 and 2011 it offers detailed analyses of the form and impact of county governments strategic agency at certain stages and within certain fields of the implementation process for example the design of local BNSC programs the steering of project funding implementation and evaluation the establishment of model villages and the management of public participation Further this study illustrates that BNSC is far more than the empty slogan described by many observers when it was launched in 2005 2006 Instead it has already brought about considerable shifts in terms of the process and outcomes of rural policy implementation Altogether the results of this research challenge existing paradigms by showing how against the background of contemporary approaches to rural development and recent reforms initiated by the central state local bureaucracies strategic agency can actually push forward effective albeit not necessarily optimal policy implementation to some extent which serves the interests of central authorities local implementors and rural residents By tying into the larger debates on China s state capacity and authoritarian adaptability this book enriches our understanding of the inner workings of the Chinese political system As such it will prove invaluable to students and scholars of Chinese politics public policy and development studies more generally

The Religious Question in Modern China Vincent Goossaert, David A. Palmer, 2011-04-15 Recent events from strife in Tibet and the rapid growth of Christianity in China to the spectacular expansion of Chinese Buddhist organizations around the globe vividly demonstrate that one cannot understand the modern Chinese world without attending closely to the question of religion. The Religious Question in Modern China highlights parallels and contrasts between historical events, political regimes and cultural movements to explore how religion has challenged and responded to secular Chinese modernity from 1898 to the present. Vincent Goossaert and David A. Palmer piece together the puzzle of religion in China not by looking separately at different religions in different contexts but by writing a unified story of how religion has shaped and in turn been shaped by modern Chinese society. From Chinese medicine and the martial arts to communal temple cults and revivalist redemptive societies, the authors demonstrate that from the nineteenth century onward, as the Chinese state shifted the religious landscape consistently resurfaced in a bewildering variety of old and new forms. The Religious Question in Modern China integrates historical, anthropological and sociological perspectives in a comprehensive overview of China's religious history that is certain to become an indispensable reference for specialists and students alike. The Development of China's Stockmarket, 1984-2002 Stephen Green, 2004-07-31 As China's government manages a transition away from the socialist plan, how does it build the regulatory institutions it needs to manage the new market economy? Without the correct institutions, laws and agencies that implement the laws in place, the remarkable growth witnessed in China over the last two decades will falter. Financial sector reform lies at the heart of China's economic transition, and China's stock market has become critical to the reform of state-owned industry, the supply of fiscal revenues, and in building a modern pension system. The Development of China's Stockmarket takes a close look at the policy-making and regulatory institutions the government has created to manage equity development and shows how, in contrast to neo-institutional and economic theories of regulatory development, public actors have controlled institutional development. Based on extensive field research in Shanghai, Shenzhen and Beijing and over forty interviews with regulators and market players, The Development of China's Stockmarket provides the first detailed academic analysis of the country's stockmarket. With a comprehensive review of Chinese language literature available on the subject, this book is essential reading for all scholars with an interest in Asian Business and China's transition from socialism. China's Cotton Industry Björn

Alpermann, 2010-04-05 The cotton processing industry is a distinct sector of China's rural economy which recently underwent a momentous transition from plan to market. China is the world's largest producer as well as consumer of cotton, and cotton processing links the agricultural production of this important commodity to China's booming textile industry. Alpermann examines the political economy of the cotton processing industry, analyzes the process of cotton policy-making and discusses reform outcomes on a national scale and the central state's response. He then goes on to examine the implementation of economic transformation and institutional change in two traditional cotton-growing regions, looking at how local governments and the former monopolist cope with the changes brought about by marketization Studying the cotton industry provides a lens through which to observe the changes in the way the state governs the economy during China's transition and helps to assess the diverging claims about the nature of the political economy in China As such China's Cotton Industry is an essential read for anyone studying Chinese business economics or politics State and Ethnicity in China's Southwest Xiaolin

Guo, 2008-06-30 Twentieth century China has seen local societies undergo unprecedented transformations accompanied by a remarkable continuity in state practice In this path breaking study of two ethnically different communities the matrilineal Mosuo and the patrilineal Han in northwest Yunnan province the author traces cultural change from a historical perspective in relation to the ecological environment and political systems The treatment of state penetration into local society challenges the conventional binary narratives of state society and Han non Han relations With its interdisciplinary approach the book enriches the anthropology of China by framing ethnicity issues in terms of local politics and inter relationships between levels of government and at the same time extends the analytical perimeter of the study of the Chinese state to the national periphery Elite Dualism and Leadership Selection in China Xiaowei Zang, 2004-03-01 Who are the top political leaders in China What are the major criteria in elite recruitment How is job promotion in high politics determined By studying over one and a half thousand top political Chinese leaders this book seeks to answer these questions and as a result defines how Chinese leadership is stratified Unlike existing research on Chinese leaders Elite Dualism and Leadership Selection in China draws on extensive statistical information and data analysis It evidences how political development in the reform era has led to the division of labour between the Chinese Communist Party CCP and the government in governance leading to two distinctive career paths in the two political systems respectively Key issues examined include the different criteria the CCP and the government demand the requirements for promotion the effect of university education on the rate of mobility the different affiliations of the two groups the role of cooptation in leadership selection Many of the elites discussed are still leading figures in China making this book the most up to date and extensive biographical data set in elite studies This allows for a meaningful analysis of elite behaviour in China for the first time in Chinese Studies This book will be useful to both students of Chinese studies and comparative politics and will also interest researchers political commentators statesmen and China watchers NGO Governance and Management in China Reza Hasmath, Jennifer Y. J.

Hsu, 2015-07-16 As China becomes increasingly integrated into the global system there will be continuing pressure to acknowledge and engage with non governmental organizations NGOs Suffice to say without a clear understanding of the state's interaction with NGOs and vice versa any political economic and social analysis of China will be incomplete This book provides an urgent insight into contemporary state NGO relations It brings together the most recent research covering three broad themes namely the conceptualizations and subsequent functions of NGOs state NGO engagement and NGOs as a mediator between state and society in contemporary China The book provides a future glimpse into the challenges of state

NGO interactions in China's rapidly developing regions which will aid NGOs strategic planning in both the short and long term. In addition, it allows a measure of predictability in our assessment of Chinese NGOs' behaviour, notably when they eventually move their areas of operation from the domestic sphere to an international one. The salient themes, concepts, theories and practice discussed in this book will be of acute interest to students, scholars and practitioners in development studies, public administration and Chinese and Asian politics.

Reza Hasmath is a Lecturer in Chinese Politics at the University of Oxford, UK, and an Associate Professor in Political Science at the University of Alberta, Canada. His research looks at state-society relationships, the labour market, experiences of ethnic minorities and development theories and practices.

Jennifer Y J Hsu is an Assistant Professor in Political Science at the University of Alberta, Canada. Her recent publications include a co-authored book HIV/AIDS in China: The Economic and Social Determinants (Routledge, 2011) and a co-edited book The Chinese Corporatist State: Adaption, Survival and Resistance (Routledge, 2012).

Ethnicity and Urban Life in China Xiaowei Zang, 2007-04-13. This much-needed work on ethnicity in Asia offers a major sociological analysis of Hui Muslims in contemporary China. Using both qualitative and quantitative data derived from fieldwork in Lanzhou between March 2001 and July 2004, it looks at the contrast between the urban life of the Han people, the ethnic majority in the city of Lanzhou, and the Hui people, the largest ethnic minority in the city, and assesses the link between minority ethnicity and traditional behaviour in urban sociology and research on ethnic groups of China. In-depth interviews and survey data provide a fresh perspective to the study of ethnic behaviour in China and offers a rich account of Hui behaviour in seven aspects of urban life: neighbouring, interaction, friendship, formation, network, behaviour, mate selection, methods, spouse choice, marital homogamy, and household structure. Contributing to the global discourse on Islam, religious fundamentalism and modernity, this book will be invaluable to anyone interested in Chinese society, Islam, religion, development, urban studies, anthropology and ethnicity.

Dams, Migration and Authoritarianism in China Sabrina Habich, 2015-12-22. Past studies on the Chinese state point towards the inherent adaptability, effectiveness and overall stability of authoritarian rule in China. The key question addressed here is how this adaptive capacity plays out at the local level in China, clarifying the extent to which local state actors are able to shape local processes of policy implementation. This book studies the evolution of dam-induced resettlement policy in China based on extensive fieldwork conducted in Yunnan province. It shows that local governments at the lowest administrative levels are caught in a double bind, facing strong top-down pressures in the important policy field of hydropower development while simultaneously having to handle growing social pressure from local communities affected by resettlement policies. In doing so, the book questions the widespread assumption that the observed longevity and resilience of China's authoritarian regime is to a large extent due to the high degree of flexibility that has been granted to local governments in the course of the reform period. The research extends beyond previous analyses of policy implementation by focusing on the state, on society and the ways in which they interact, as well as by examining what happens when policy implementation is interrupted Analysing the application of resettlement policies in contemporary China with a focus on the multiple constraints that Chinese local states face this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Political Science Chinese Studies and Sociology Ordinary Ethics in China Charles Stafford,2020-06-07 Drawing on a wide range of anthropological case studies this book focuses on ordinary ethics in contemporary China The book examines the kinds of moral and ethical issues that emerge sometimes almost unnoticed in the flow of everyday life in Chinese communities How are schoolchildren judged to be good or bad by their teachers and their peers and how should a bad student be dealt with What exactly do children owe their parents and how should this debt be repaid Is it morally acceptable to be jealous if one's neighbours suddenly become rich Should the wrongs of the past be forgotten e.g. in the interests of communal harmony or should they be dealt with now In the case of China such questions have obviously been shaped by the historical contexts against which they have been posed and by the weight of various Chinese traditions But this book approaches them on a human scale More specifically it approaches them from an anthropological perspective based on participation in the flow of everyday life during ethnographic fieldwork in Chinese communities Constructing China's Jerusalem Nanlai Cao,2010-11-04 This book depicts the revival of Protestant Christianity among diverse groups of people in the commercially prosperous coastal city of Wenzhou and shows how resurgent and innovated Christian beliefs and practices in the reform era reveal emerging patterns of power formation place making and morality building in the context of a market oriented modernizing China Transforming Rural China Chih-Jou Jay Chen,2012-12-06 It is often assumed that privatization leads to profit and that well delineated property rights and a strong private sector will help boost an economy This book investigates the property rights in Chinese enterprises in the reform era finding that distinction between the public and the private are blurred that national reform policies are implemented unevenly across the country and that enterprises owned by local governments in Shanghai for example are actually extremely profitable Routledge International Handbook of Charisma José Pedro Zúquete,2020-11-29 The Routledge International Handbook of Charisma provides an unprecedented multidimensional and multidisciplinary comparative analysis of the phenomenon of charisma first defined by Max Weber as the irrational bond between deified leader and submissive follower It includes broad overviews of foundational theories and experiences of charisma and of associated key issues and themes Contributors include 45 influential international scholars who approach the topic from different disciplinary perspectives and utilize examples from an array of historical and cultural settings The Handbook presents up to date concise thought provoking innovative and informative perspectives on charisma as it has been expressed in the past and as it continues to be manifested in the contemporary world by leaders ranging from shamans to presidents It is designed to be essential reading for all students researchers and general readers interested in achieving a comprehensive understanding of the power and potential of charismatic authority in all its varieties subtleties dynamics and current and potential directions
