Graphic Masters Highlights From The Smithsonian American Art Museum Art:

Graphic Masters Joann Moser, 2003 Graphic Masters celebrates the extraordinary variety and accomplishment of American artists' works on paper. Exceptional watercolors, pastels, and drawings from the 1860s through the 1990s reveal the central importance of works on paper for American artists both as studies for creations in other media and as finished works of art. Traditionally a more intimate form of expression than painting or sculpture, drawings often reveal greater spontaneity and experimentation. Even as works on paper become larger and more finished, competing in scale with easel paintings, they retain a sense of the artist's hand, the immediacy of a thought made visible. Ranging from Thomas Moran's Yellowstone and Childe Hassam's Appledore to Edward Hopper's river landscape and Charles Burchfield's intense abstractions, the watercolors express a breadth of experience from observation to hallucinatory imagination. Thomas Wilmer Dewing's meticulous portrait of Walt Whitman records not only physical appearance but gives insight into the sitter's personality as well. Vivid images in glowing color by Stuart Davis and William H. Johnson, as well as confident black and white images by William de Kooning and Mel Bochner, show the diversity of approaches our most accomplished artists have taken in their works on paper from front flap.

Of Dogs and Other People Susan Landauer, 2017-04-15 Roy De Forest's brightly colored, crazy quilted jungles, dotted with nipples of paint and inhabited by a cast of characters uniquely his own, a perennial favorite, being his wild-eyed, pointy-eared dogs, appeal to a broad spectrum of viewers from young to old, from the casual visitor to the most sophisticated art aficionado. OMCA's project aims to reassess De Forest's art, historical position, placing him in a national rather than solely regional West Coast context. Landauer positions De Forest as part of a bicoastal alternative current of American art that has been poorly documented and deliberately ran counter to better publicized tendencies of the 1960s and 1970s, notably Pop, Minimalism, and post-painterly abstraction. Despite the playfulness of his work, close study of De Forest's art reveals deep layers of meaning. He was a fan of popular science fiction and adventure stories, but he was also well-versed in Australian aboriginal art, ukiyo-e prints, poetry, literature, and the history of philosophy. He enjoyed secreting obscure art historical references into his work: animals might assume postures found in Medieval or Renaissance art, or a drawing that appears to depict a comic book character may in fact refer to Titian's triple-headed allegory of Prudence. This engaging publication presents gorgeous color reproductions of 150 of De Forest's finest artworks, plus a variety of figure illustrations that illuminate the artist's diverse sources and freewheeling social and creative milieu in Northern California. Provided by publisher.

Smithsonian American Art Museum, Andy Grundberg, 2003 During the summer of 1923, Edward Hopper fled the summer heat of New York City with thousands of others. His destination was the resort town of Gloucester. It was there, perhaps inspired by the particular light and quality of the place, that he took up the medium of watercolor. It was also there that he met his future wife fellow painter and constant companion Jo Nivison Together that summer Hopper and Jo turned their backs on Gloucester Harbor and the forest of easels set up to depict that most popular of scenes Instead they explored the back streets and outlying areas discovering and painting the homes of sea captains and immigrant laborers Coast Guard stations and lighthouses Virginia Mecklenburg senior curator at the National Museum of American Art and Margaret Lynne Ausfeld curator at the Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts offer us in this volume the unique treatment of this aspect of Hopper's work as a coherent whole In the watercolors we see a different facet of Hopper than the one we are accustomed to from his oils for which he is better known today Includes index Michelin Must Sees Washington D.
