Graywolf Annual Five Multicultural Literacy:

The Graywolf Annual Five Rick Simonson, Scott Walker, 1988-11-01 The issue of cultural literacy has been the subject of intense debate in the past two years Several bestselling books about the deficiencies of our educational system as well as changes in basic curriculum at more than one major university have contributed to the fervor of this debate Fueling the national controversy is the question of what body of knowledge constitutes cultural literacy While many argue for a return to a back to basics curriculum equally energetic voices call for a revised curriculum one which embraces both traditional western classics and the classics of non European cultures among them African Asian and Latin American This volume brings together thirteen essays which suggest the range of knowledge truly literate individuals need to possess Essays by such writers as James Baldwin Carlos Fuentes Michelle Cliff Paula Gunn Allen Ishmael Reed and Wendell Berry enlarge our perspective to include a variety of voices and heritages which contribute to the vibrant culture of the United States Also included is a beginning list of names places dates and concepts which are part and parcel of a multi cultural fabric

Multicultural and Ethnic Children's Literature in the United States Donna L. Gilton, 2007 This book describes the history and characteristics of ethnic and multicultural children's literature in the U S as well as related materials published elsewhere It relates in great detail the people businesses organizations and institutions that create disseminate promote critique and collect these materials Author Donna Gilton gives a detailed history of U S multicultural and ethnic children's literature throughout several historic periods relating these developments to general social and political U S history Chapters illustrate characteristics of U S multicultural children's books the major issues in the field and multicultural initiatives and mainstream responses while also providing outlines of research possibilities in the field and suggesting other groups of people who should be emphasized more in the future In doing all this Multicultural and Ethnic Children's Literature in the United States brings together valuable and scattered information for the busy and involved librarians teachers parents publishers distributors and community leaders who wish to use and promote this material with children Multicultural Literature and Literacies Suzanne Miale Miller, Suzanne M. Miller, Barbara McCaskill, 1993-01-01 Does literature serve a humanizing function Can it achieve social transformation What roles does literature play for defining self creating community and achieving global perspective This is the first book to thoroughly explore the methods by which educators creative writers and policymakers have constructed workable models of teaching literature in multicultural classrooms The authors provide an interdisciplinary dialogue on the setbacks solutions silences and successes that often occur in classes of multicultural literature They all take the stance that definitions of literacy and literature originate as much outside the classroom as within it With the inclusion of essays by writers themselves a feature provided by no other book on this subject the authors offer a unique vocalization of the nationalistic economic empowering and moral purposes that reading and writing serve The book also includes a current guide to selected resources in multicultural literature in hopes of encouraging and facilitating instructors in the transformation of their own literature courses into multicultural ones Changing Woman Karen Anderson, 1997-07-24 While great strides have been made in documenting discrimination against women in America our awareness of discrimination is due in large part to the efforts of a feminist movement dominated by middle class white women and is skewed to their experiences Yet discrimination against racial ethnic women is in fact dramatically different more complex and more widespread and without a window into the lives of racial ethnic women our understanding of the full extent of discrimination against all women in America will be woefully inadequate Now in this illuminating volume Karen Anderson offers the first book to examine the lives of women in the three main ethnic groups in the United States Native American Mexican American and African American women revealing the many ways in which these groups have suffered oppression and the profound effects it has had on their lives Here is a thought provoking examination of the history of racial ethnic women one which provides not only insight into their lives but also a broader perception of the history politics and culture of the United States For instance Anderson examines the clash between Native American tribes and the U S government particularly in the plains and in the West and shows how the forced acculturation of Indian women caused the abandonment of traditional cultural values and roles in many tribes women held positions of power which they had to relinquish subordination to and economic dependence on their husbands and the loss of meaningful authority over their children Ultimately Indian women were forced into the labor market the extended family was destroyed and tribes were dispersed from the reservation and into the mainstream all of which dramatically altered the woman's place in white society and within their own tribes The book examines Mexican American women revealing that since U S job recruiters in Mexico have historically focused mostly on low wage male workers Mexicans have constituted a disproportionate number of the illegals entering the states placing them in a highly vulnerable position And even though Mexican American women have in many instances achieved a measure of economic success in their families they are still subject to constraints on their social and political autonomy at the hands of their husbands And finally Anderson cites a wealth of evidence to demonstrate that in the years since World War II African American women have experienced dramatic changes in their social positions and political roles and that the migration to large urban areas in the North simply heightened the conflict between homemaker and breadwinner already thrust upon them Changing Woman provides the first history of women within each racial ethnic group tracing the meager progress they have made right up to the present Indeed Anderson concludes that while white middle class women have made strides toward liberation from male domination women of color have not yet found in feminism any political remedy to their problems The Biopolitics of Disability David T. Mitchell, 2015-07-21 In the neoliberal era when human worth is measured by its relative utility within global consumer culture selected disabled people have been able to gain entrance into late capitalist culture The Biopolitics of Disability terms this phenomenon ablenationalism and asserts that inclusion becomes meaningful only if disability is recognized as providing modes of living that are alternatives to governing norms of productivity and independence. Thus the book pushes beyond questions of impairment to explore how disability subjectivities create new forms of embodied knowledge and collective consciousness. The focus is on the emergence of new crip queer subjectivities at work in disability arts, disability studies pedagogy, independent and mainstream disability cinema, e.g. Midnight Cowboy, internet-based medical user groups, anti-normative novels of embodiment, e.g. Richard Powers's The Echo Maker, and finally the labor of living in non-productive bodies within late capitalism.

Teaching Art Laura Hetrick, 2018-11-15. A student's personal identity constantly changes as part of the lifelong human process to become someone who matters. Art educators in grades K-16 have a singular opportunity to guide important phases of this development. How can educators create a supportive space for young people to work through the personal and cultural factors influencing their journey? Laura Hetrick draws on articles from the archives of Visual Arts Research to approach the question. Juxtaposing the scholarship in new ways, she illuminates methods that allow educators to help students explore identity through artmaking to reinforce identity in positive ways and to enhance marginalized identities. A final section offers suggestions on how educators can use each essay to engage with students who are imagining and reimagining their identities in the classroom and beyond.

Life History and Narrative J. Amos Hatch, Richard Wisniewski, 2002-11. Narrative inquiry refers to a subset of qualitative research design in which stories are used to describe human action. This book contains current ideas in this field of research and will be of interest to qualitative researchers Crossing Over to Canaan Gloria Ladson-Billings, 2004-03-15 Gloria Ladson Billings provides a perceptive and interesting account of what is needed to prepare novice teachers to be successful with all students in our multicultural society. This book is a must reading for all those entering the profession of teaching today and for those who prepare them for this important work. Ken Zeichner, associate dean and professor of curriculum and instruction, School of Education, University of Wisconsin-Madison. The multiple voices in Gloria Ladson Billings's book are compelling, provocative, and insightful; they provide a powerful insider perspective on what it really means to learn to teach all children well. Marilyn Cochran-Smith, professor of education and editor, Journal of Teacher Education, Boston College School of Education. Ladson Billings, one of the stellar researchers and most passionate advocates for social justice, has written yet another masterpiece. By weaving the novice teachers' voices, her personal teaching journey, and language rich in compelling research and inspiring metaphors, Ladson Billings has documented how new teachers transform schools and teach poor children of color. Jacqueline Jordan Irvine Candler, Professor of Urban Education, Emory University Division of Educational Studies. Masterful teacher and teacher educator, Gloria Ladson Billings has given us in highly readable form a brilliant vision of what teacher education might become. In Crossing Over to Canaan, we get a glimpse of how a carefully constructed teacher education program focused on teaching for social justice can produce excellent teaching even by young middle class teachers in training in diverse educational settings. Lisa D. Delpit, Benjamin E. Mays Professor of Educational Leadership, Georgia State University. The author of the best-selling book The Dreamkeepers shows how teachers can succeed in diverse classrooms. Educating teachers to work well in multicultural classrooms has become an all-important educational priority in today's schools. In Crossing Over to Canaan, Gloria Ladson Billings details the real-life stories of eight novice teachers participating in an innovative teacher education program called Teach for Diversity. She details their struggles and triumphs as they confront challenges in the classroom and respond with innovative strategies that turn cultural strengths into academic assets. Through their experiences, Ladson Billings illustrates how good teachers can meet the challenges of teaching students from highly diverse backgrounds and find a way to crossover to Canaan. She offers a model of teaching that focuses on academic achievement, cultural competence, and socio-political consciousness. Drawing from her own experiences as a young African American teacher working in Philadelphia, she successfully weaves together narrative, observation, and scholarship to create an inspirational and practical book that will help teachers everywhere as they work to transcend labels and categories to support excellence among all students.

Crossing Borderlands Andrea Lunsford, Lahoucine Ouzgane, 2012-01-12 On the surface, postcolonial studies and composition studies appear to have little in common. However, they share a strikingly similar goal: to provide power to the words and actions of those who have been marginalized or oppressed. Postcolonial studies accomplishes this goal by opening a space for the voices of others in traditional views of history and literature. Composition studies strives to empower students by providing equal access to higher education and validation for their writing. For two fields that have so much in common very little dialogue exists between them Crossing Borderlands attempts to establish such an exchange in the hopes of creating a productive borderland where they can work together to realize common goals Writing Outside the Nation Azade Seyhan, 2012-01-06 Some of the most innovative writers of contemporary literature are writing in diaspora in their second or third language Here Azade Seyhan describes the domain of transnational poetics they inhabit She begins by examining the works of selected bilingual and bicultural writers of the United States including Oscar Hijuelos Maxine Hong Kingston and Eva Hoffman and Germany Libuse Mon kov Rafik Schami and E S zdamar among others developing a new framework for understanding the relationship between displacement memory and language Considering themes of loss witness translation identity and exclusion Seyhan interprets diasporic literatures as condensed archives of cultural and linguistic memory that give integrity and coherence to pasts ruptured by migration The book next compares works by contemporary Chicana and Turkish German women writers as innovative and sovereign literary voices within the larger national cultures of the United States and Germany Seyhan identifies in American multiculturalism critical clues for analyzing new cultural formations in Europe and maintains that Germany s cultural transformation suggests new ways of reading the American literary mosaic Her approach however extends well beyond these two literatures She creates a critical map of a third geography where a transnational multilingual literary movement is gathering momentum Writing Outside the Nation both contributes to and departs from postcolonial studies in that it focuses specifically on transnational writers working outside of their mother tongue and compares American and German diasporic literatures within a sophisticated conceptual framework It illustrates how literature s symbolic economy can reclaim lost personal and national histories as well as connect disparate and distant cultural traditions The Good Citizen David Batstone, Eduardo

Mendieta, 2014-02-04 In The Good Citizen some of the most eminent contemporary thinkers take up the question of the future of American democracy in an age of globalization growing civic apathy corporate unaccountability and purported fragmentation of the American common identity by identity politics The Writer's Book of Memory Janine

Rider, 2013-11-05 Memory has long been ignored by rhetoricians because the written word has made memorization virtually obsolete Recently however as part of a revival of interest in classical rhetoric scholars have begun to realize that memory offers vast possibilities for today s writers Synthesizing research from rhetoric psychology philosophy and literary and composition studies this volume brings together many historical and contemporary theories of memory Yet its focus is clear memory is a generator of knowledge and a creative force which deserves attention at the beginning of and throughout the writing process This volume emphasizes the importance of recognizing memory s powers in an age in which mass media influence us all and electronic communication changes the way we think and write It also addresses the importance of the individual memory and voice in an age which promotes conformity Written in a strong lively personal manner the book covers a great deal of scholarly material It is never overbearing and the extensive bibliography offers rich vistas for further study

Border Identifications Pablo Vila, 2009-06-03 From poets to sociologists many people who write about life on the U S Mexico border use terms such as border crossing and hybridity which suggest that a unified culture neither Mexican nor American but an amalgamation of both has arisen in the borderlands But talking to people who actually live on either side of the border reveals no single commonly shared sense of identity as Pablo Vila demonstrated in his book Crossing Borders Reinforcing Borders Social Categories Metaphors and Narrative Identities on the U S Mexico Frontier Instead people living near the border like people everywhere base their sense of identity on a constellation of interacting factors that includes regional identity but also nationality ethnicity and race In this book Vila continues the exploration of identities he began in Crossing Borders Reinforcing Borders by looking at how religion gender and class also affect people s identifications of self and others among Mexican nationals Mexican immigrants Mexican Americans Anglos and African Americans in the Ciudad Ju rez El Paso area Among the many fascinating issues he raises are how the perception that all Mexicans are Catholic affects Mexican Protestants and Pentecostals how the discourse about proper gender roles may feed the violence against women that has made Ju rez the women s murder capital of the world and why class consciousness is paradoxically absent in a region with great disparities of wealth His research underscores the complexity of the process of social identification and confirms that the idealized notion of hybridity is only partially adequate to define people s identity on the U S Mexico border
