French for Catering Students John Grishbrooke, 1982 Restaurant French for Hoteliers, Restaurateurs and Catering Students. (2nd Ed.). Steve Combes, 1974 Restaurant French Steve Combes, 1961 This book does what the usual French specialist cannot do it explains the particular form of French that has become the tradition of the catering trade Catering French has a logic of its own and in addition to clear explanation of grammar and form written for students who are by no means linguists nearly half the book consists of a vocabulary giving pronunciation of words and phrases in current use in the public rooms of the restaurant BOOKJACKET New Technologies in Language Learning and Teaching Ann-Karin Korsvold, Bernd Rüschoff, Council of Europe. Council of Cultural Co-operation. Education Committee, 1997-01-01 On cover Education Modern languages Hotel and Catering French David Atkinson, 1980 Task-Based Language Learning in a Real-World Digital Environment Paul Seedhouse, 2017-02-09 How can you use the latest digital technology to create an environment in which people can learn European languages while performing a meaningful real world task and experiencing the cultural aspect of learning to cook European dishes This book explains how to do this from A to Z covering how a real world digital environment for language learning was designed built and researched The project makes language learning motivational and fun by tapping into people's interest in both cooking and technology you can learn a language while cooking and interacting with a speaking digital kitchen The kitchens provide spoken instructions in the foreign language on how to prepare European cuisine Digital sensors are inserted in or attached to all the kitchen equipment and ingredients so the digital kitchen detects what learners are doing and gives them feedback Learners are also able to communicate with the kitchens and can ask for help via photos and videos if they don't understand any foreign language words Based on two research grants the book provides five research studies showing the learning experiences of users in five European countries The book explains the principles and procedures involved in the project enabling others to design and implement a real world digital learning environment in the same way It includes numerous photographs of the system in use and evidence of how and what 250 users actually learnt Fishes with Funny French Names Debra Kelly, 2021-12-02 This book tells the story of what happens when an essentially Parisian institution travels and establishes itself in its neighbour's capital city bringing with it French food culture and culinary practices The arrival and evolution of the French restaurant in the British capital is a tale of culinary and cultural exchange and of continuity and change in the development of London's dining out culture Although the main character of this story is the French restaurant this cultural history also necessarily engages with the people who produce purvey purchase and consume that food culture in many different ways and in many different settings in London over a period of some one hundred and fifty years British references to France and to the French are littered with associations with food whether it is desired rejected admired loathed envied disdained from the status of haute cuisine and the restaurants and chefs associated with it to contemporary concerns about food poverty and food waste to dietary habits and the politicisation of food and at every level in between However thinking about the place of the French restaurant in London restaurant and food culture over a long time span in many and varied places and spaces in the capital creates a more nuanced picture than that which may at first seem obvious

French Women and the Empire Marie-Paule Ha, 2014-05-08

French Women and the Empire is the first book length investigation of colonial gender politics in Third Republic France using Indochina as a case study Its departure point is the interrogation of the dramatic change in the French colonialist view of the empire as an exclusively male preserve where women feared to tread At the turn of the century a reverse discourse emerged in the metropole forcefully arguing that colonial female emigration was essential to true colonisation The study begins by analysing the highly complex web of interconnected factors underlying this radical transformation in the representation of the empire from being a no woman s land into a woman s haven Then drawing on a large body of hitherto little examined sources the study continues by reconstructing the experiences and activities of French women in Indochina from the fin de si cle to the interwar era The most significant finding from this study is that contrary to the image propagated by promotional literature of the colonial woman as essentially a bourgeois homemaker the class and ethnic make up of the French female population in the Asian colony was in fact remarkably heterogeneous with a sizeable contingent of them married or single actively engaging in a variety of paid employment outside the home By thus foregrounding the diversity and complexity of colonial female experiences French Women and the Empire seeks to move the story of French women and the empire beyond the narrow confines of the imperial family romance to the wider arena of the colonial public sphere
