French Romantics:

The French Romantics' Knowledge of English Literature (1820-1848) Eric Partridge, 1974 Dante and the French Romantics Michael Pitwood, 1985 French Romantic Travel Writing Christopher W. Thompson, 2012 A pioneering overview of the travel books produced by fourteen French Romantic writers including Chateaubriand, Stendhal, Hugo, Nerval, Sand, Mérimée, Dumas, and Tristan whose journeys ranged from Peru to Russia and from North America to North Africa and the Near East Popular French Romanticism James Smith Allen, 1981-01-01 Focusing on the Paris book world of this period Allen reveals how the rise of a new popular literature jolly chansonniers the roman feuilletons or serial novels melodramas gothic and sentimental novels dramatic nationalistic histories by such authors as Dumas, Sand, Lamennais, Ancelot, Desnoyer, and de Kock coincided with remarkable developments in the production, distribution, and consumption of books. Allen's research ranges from a survey of the then popular romantic titles and authors and the trade catalogs of booksellers and lending libraries to the police records of their activities, diaries, and journals of working people and military conscript records and ministerial literacy statistics. The result is a remarkable picture of the exchange between elite and popular culture, the interaction between ideas and their material reality, and the relationship between the literature and the history of France in the romantic period The Taming of Romanticism Virgil Nemoianu, 1984 Looking at a broad spectrum of writers English, French, German, Italian, Russian, and other East Europeans, Virgil Nemoianu offers here a coherent characterization of the period 1815-1848. This, he calls, the era of the domestication of romanticism. The explosive, visionary core of romanticism is seen to give way after the defeat of Napoleon to an expanded and softer version reflecting middle class values. This later form of romanticism is characterized by moralizing efforts to reform society, a sentimental yearning for the tranquility of home and hearth, and persistent faith in the individual alongside a new skepticism, shattered ideals, and consequent irony. Expanding the application of the term Biedermeier, which has been useful in describing this period in German literature, Nemoianu provides a new framework for understanding these years in a wider European context Loss in French Romantic Art, Literature, and Politics Jonathan P. Ribner, 2021-09-30 An interdisciplinary examination of nineteenth century French art pertaining to religion, exile, and the nation's demise as a world power, this study concerns the consequences for visual culture of a series of national crises: from the assault on Catholicism and the flight of migrants during the Revolution of 1789 to the collapse of the Empire and the dashing of hope raised by the Revolution of 1830. The central claim is that imaginative response to these politically charged experiences of loss constitutes a major shaping force in French Romantic art, and that pursuit of this theme in light of parallel developments in literature and political debate reveals a pattern of disenchantment transmuted into cultural capital. Focusing on imagery that spoke to loss through visual and verbal idioms particular to France in the aftermath of the Revolution and Empire, the book illuminates canonical works by major figures such as Eugène Delacroix, Théodore Chassériau, and Camille Corot, as well as long forgotten images freighted with significance for nineteenth century viewers A study in national bereavement an urgent theme in the present moment the book provides a new lens through which to view the coincidence of imagination and strife at the heart of French Romanticism The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history French literature French history French politics and religious studies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Nonfictional Romantic Prose Steven P. Sondrup, Virgil Nemoianu, Gerald Gillespie, 2004. Nonfictional Romantic Prose: Expanding Borders surveys a broad range of expository, polemical, and analytical literary forms that came into prominence during the last two decades of the eighteenth century and the first half of the nineteenth. They stand in contrast to better known romantic fiction in that they endeavor to address the world of daily empirical experience rather than that of more explicitly self-referential fanciful creation. Among them are genres that have since the nineteenth century come to characterize many aspects of modern life like the periodical or the psychological case study; others flourished and enjoyed wide spread popularity during the nineteenth century but are much less well known today like the almanac and the diary. Travel narratives, pamphlets, religious and theological texts, familiar essays, autobiographies, literary critical and philosophical studies, and discussions of the visual arts and music all had deep historical roots when appropriated by romantic writers but prospered in their hands and assumed distinctive contours indicative of the breadth of romantic thought.

The Sense of Decadence in Nineteenth-Century France Koenraad W. Swart, 2013-11-11 It was the best of times It was the worst of times The famous opening sentence of Charles Dickens Tale of Two Cities can serve as a motto to characterize the mixture of optimism and pessimism with which a large number of nineteenth century intellectuals viewed the condition of their age It is nowadays hardly necessary to accentuate the optimistic elements in the nineteenth century view of history many recent historians have sharply contrasted the complacency and the great expectations of the past century with the fears and anxieties rampant in our own age It is often too readily assumed that a hundred years ago all leading thinkers as well as the educated public were addicted to the cult of progress and ignored or minimized those trends of their times that paved the way for the catastrophes of the twentieth century In the nineteenth century the intoxicating triumphs of modern science undeniably induced the general public to believe that progress was not an accident but a necessity and that evil and immorality would gradually disappear Yet fears misgivings and anxieties were not as exceptional in the nineteenth century as is often imagined Such feelings were not restricted to a few dissenting philosophers and poets like Schopenhauer Kierkegaard Dostoevsky Baudelaire and Nietzsche
