Fighting for Darfur Rebecca Hamilton, 2024-09-04 Around the world millions of people have added their voices to protest marches and demonstrations because they believe that together they can make a difference When we failed to stop the genocide in Rwanda in 1994 we promised to never let such a thing happen again But nine years later as news began to trickle out of killings in western Sudan an area known as Darfur the international community again faced the problem of how the United Nations and the United States government could respond to mass atrocity Rebecca Hamilton passionately narrates the six year grassroots campaign to draw global attention to the plight of Darfur s people From college students who galvanized entire university campuses in the belief that their outcry could save millions of Darfuris still at risk to celebrities such as Mia Farrow who spurred politicians to act to Steven Spielberg who boycotted the 2008 Summer Olympics in Beijing Hamilton details how advocacy for Darfur was an exuberant multibillion dollar effort She then does what no one has done to date she takes us into the corridors of power and the camps of Darfur and reveals the impact of ordinary people s fierce determination to uphold the mantra of never again Fighting for Darfur weaves a gripping story that both dramatizes our moral dilemma and shows the promise and perils of citizen engagement in a new era of global compassion Llewellyn's

Burnett, 2016-12-19 Challenging the prevailing notion among cinephiles that the auteur is an isolated genius interested primarily in individualism Colin Burnett positions Robert Bresson as one whose life s work confronts the cultural forces that helped shape it Regarded as one of film history s most elusive figures Bresson 1901 1999 carried himself as an auteur long before cultural magazines like the famed Cahiers du cin ma advanced the term to describe such directors as Jacques Tati Alfred Hitchcock and Jean Luc Godard In this groundbreaking study Burnett combines biography with cultural history to uncover the roots of the auteur in the alternative cultural marketplace of midcentury France The Ashgate Research

Companion to the Politics of Democratization in Europe Tuija Pulkkinen, 2016-03-23 Democratization is a concept often used in academic book titles yet not many of them deal with the initial breakthrough of democratization This research companion presents an alternative view to the widespread assumption that Western democracies should be the normative reference for the study of democratization elsewhere Rather it questions the universal validity of such an assumption by searching the history of European politics and by paying specific attention to the struggles of democratization accomplished outside Western Europe The authors apply a comparative approach to analyzing debates in the primary sources in a number of countries and languages and situate the results into a broader European context Focusing on European democratization from different historical and analytical perspectives they discuss the politics concepts and histories involved in democratization as a complex of changes that has altered the conditions of political action and debate in the continent for the past two centuries

Je T'Aime... Moi Non Plus Lucy Mazdon, Catherine Wheatley, 2010-11-01 A series of limiting definitions have tended to delineate the Franco British cinematic relationship As this collection of essays reveals there is much more to it than simple oppositions between British critical esteem for the films of France and French dismissal of le cin ma British or the success of Ken Loach et al at the French box office and the relative dearth of French movies on British screens In fact there has long been a rich and productive dialogue between these two cultures in which both their clear differences and their shared concerns have played a vital role This book provides an overview of the history of these relations from the early days of sound cinema to the present day The chapters written by leading experts in the history of French British and European cinema provide insights into relations between French and British cinematic cultures at the level of production exhibition and distribution reception representation and personnel The book features a diverse range of studies including the exhibition of French cinema in Britain in the 1930s contemporary extreme French cinema stars such as Annabella David Niven and Jane Birkin and the French Resistance on British screens

Comfort in the Eighteenth-Century Country House Jon Stobart, 2021-09-21 Country houses were grand statements of power and status but they were also places where people lived This book traces the changes in layout the new technologies and the innovations in furniture that made them more convenient and comfortable It argues that these material changes were just one aspect of comfort in the country house feeling comfortable was just as important as being comfortable Achieving this involved the comfort and solace to be found in daily routines religious faith and above all relationships with family and friends Such emotional comforts and the attachment to things and places that embodied and memorialized them made country houses into homes

What's France got to do with it? Juliana de Nooy, 2020-07-30 While only one book length memoir recounting the sojourn of an Australian in France was published in the 1990s well over 40 have been published since 2000 overwhelmingly written by women Although we might expect a focus on travel intercultural adjustment and communication in these texts this is the case only in a minority of accounts More frequently France serves as a backdrop to a project of self renovation in which transplantation to another country is incidental hence the question What s France got to do with it The book delves into what France represents in the various narratives its role in the self transformation and the reasons for the seemingly insatiable demand among readers and publishers for these stories It asks why these memoirs have gained such traction among Australian women at the dawn of the twenty first century and what is at stake in the fascination with France

Fathers on the Frontier Michael Pasquier,2010-01-29 In the late eighteenth century French migr priests fled the religious turmoil of the French Revolution and found themselves leading a new wave of Roman Catholic missionaries in the United States Fathers on the Frontier explores the diverse ways these missionary priests guided the development of the early American church in Maryland Kentucky Louisiana and other pockets of Catholic settlement throughout much of the trans Appalachian West Over the course of their evangelistic endeavor this relatively small group of priests introduced Gallican ultramontane and missionary principles to a nascent institutional church prior to the immigration of millions of European Catholics in the nineteenth century As author Michael Pasquier shows this transformation of American Catholicism did not come easily Several generations of French priests struggled to reconcile their romantic expectations of missionary life with their actual experiences as servants of a foreign church scattered throughout a frontier region with limited access to friends and family members still in France As they became more accustomed to the lifeways of the American South and West French missionaries expressed anxiety about apparent discrepancies between how they were taught to practice the priesthood in French seminaries and what the Holy See expected them to achieve as representatives of a universal missionary church At no point did French missionaries engage more directly in distinctively American affairs than in the religious debates surrounding slavery secession and civil war These issues Pasquier argues compelled even the most politically aloof missionaries to step out of the shadow of Rome and stake their church on the side of the Confederacy In so doing they set in motion a strain of Catholicism more amenable to Southern concepts of social conservatism paternalism and white supremacy and strikingly different from the liberal progressive strain that historians have usually highlighted Focusing on the collective thoughts feelings and actions of priests who found themselves caught between the formal canonical standards of the church and the informal experiences of missionaries in American culture Fathers on the Frontier illuminates the historical intersection of American French and Roman interests in the United States

Neal, 2009 In Unburdened by Conscience Anthony W Neal forcefully argues that influential historians have been unable to offer a complete account of ante bellum era American slavery because of their preoccupation with humanizing the slaveholders He charges them with concealing the full horrors of slavery in order to present the slaveholders in a more positive light By skillfully weaving together candid first hand accounts of courageous ex slaves Neal then permits us to see slavery in the United States from their point of view Former slaves talk openly about the break up of their marital unions and families and about matters rarely examined in most American slavery history books Those issues include the slaveholders legally sanctioned acts of violence their practice of slave breeding and their rape of black women Through this work Neal gives a voice to black people who endured American slavery and they present a sobering record of it that is not found in most books on the topic BOOK JACKET
