European Family:

The History of the European Family: Family life in the long nineteenth century (1789-1913) David I. Kertzer, Marzio Barbagli, 2001-01-01 The penultimate volume in this series explores the effect that industrialisation new technology the growth of cities and the revolutions in transport and in communication had on the family between 1789 and 1913 The European Family J. Commaille, F. de Singly, 2013-03-14 Will the European Union have its single family a European family as it will have a single currency This is the question at the origin of this book Studies of family behavior and the organization of private life among European citizens as well as of family member social status children in relation to adults parents women in relation to men and of social functions of the family for example social reproduction reveal so much convergence among European families that the reality of a European family seems inevitable and more so if one looks at foreign studies done in Australia the United States or Japan of the family in Europe However studies of the different judicial and public policy laws in the different European Union member countries lead one to refine this first impression The family does not have the same legal meaning in all places and the ways in which it is defined by law and public policy continue to differ strongly due in particular to historical factors cultural traditions and conceptions of the role of the State In order for the family to be part of the construction of a European citizenship the pluralistic nature of its political definitions will have to be recognized Putting the family into the context of evolving European integration has never been done before It was made possible in this study thanks to the joint efforts of two editors with long experience in social science studies of the family and as expert advisors to the European Commission and by the work of the best international specialists in the field This is a book intended for specialists working in the social sciences for social and government policy makers in the fields of family and social policy and for all those interested in European integration The Present and Future of European Family Law Jens M. Scherpe, 2016-01-29 The Present and Future of European Family Law explores the essence of European family law and what its future may be It compares and analyses existing laws and court decisions identifies trends in legislation and jurisprudence and also forecasts and in some cases proposes future developments It establishes that while there is at present no comprehensive European family law elements of an institutional European family law have been created through decisions by the European Court on Human Rights and by the Court of Justice of the European Union as well as other EU instruments At the same time an organic European family law is beginning to emerge The laws in many European jurisdictions have developed similarly and have grown together not only as a result of the aforementioned institutional pressures but also as a result of societal developments and comparable reactions to medical and societal advances and changes Hence there already is a body of institutional and organic European family law and it will continue to grow This book and the others in the set will serve as an invaluable resource for anyone interested in family law It will be of particular use to students and scholars of comparative and international family law as well as family law practitioners European Family Law Volume I Jens M.

Scherpe, 2016-01-29 The Impact of Institutions and Organisations on European Family Law looks at the impact that institutions and organisations have had and continue to have on European family law. In many ways the chapters in this volume provide the easiest explanation for the existence of a European family law. While there is no European body that could actually legislate definitively on family law even the European Union has no such mandate there are still some obvious institutions that have a very direct impact on European family law. These can be divided into two groups namely those that have a direct impact such as the European Court of Human Rights and the European Union and those that have an indirect impact such as the Commission on European Family Law (CEFL), the Council of Europe and the International Commission on Civil Status (ICCL/CIEC) as well as the private international law instruments of the Hague Conference (HCCH) and the EU. Together with religion all of these institutions are contributing to the creation of a European family law. This book and the others in the set will serve as an invaluable resource for anyone interested in family law. It will be of particular use to students and scholars of comparative and international family law as well as family law practitioners.

Principles of European Family Law Regarding Divorce and Maintenance Between Former Spouses Katharina Boele-Woelki, 2004. A book series dedicated to the harmonisation and unification of family and succession law in Europe. The European Family Law series includes comparative legal studies and materials as well as studies on the effects of international and European Law making within the national legal systems in Europe. The books are published in English, French or German under the auspices of the Organising Committee of the Commission on European Family Law (CEFL). Three years after its establishment the CEFL presents its first Principles of European Family Law in the field of divorce and maintenance between former spouses. The Principles aim to bestow the most suitable means for the harmonisation of family laws in Europe. In this respect they may serve as a frame of reference for national, European and international legislatures alike. The Principles could considerably facilitate their task not only by virtue of the fact that the CEFL's in-depth and comprehensive comparative research is easily accessible but also because most of the rules have been drafted in a way which Legislatures normally consider to be appropriate.

Book jacket: The History of the European Family: Family life in early modern times (1500-1789) David I. Kertzer, Marzio Barbagli, 2001-01-01. This opening volume of a three-part history of the family in Europe examines the material conditions of family life: housing, diet and domestic organisation and the economic and social factors that influenced its development.

Common Core and Better Law in European Family Law Katharina Boele-Woelki, 2005. This volume contains twenty-three contributions delivered at the CEFL's second international conference which took place in Utrecht in December 2004. The interventions written by both experienced family experts as well as young researchers cover those fields of family law that are closely related to the activities of the CEFL: 1 divorce and maintenance between former spouses, 2 parental responsibilities, 3 informal long-term relationships and 4 the revised Brussels II Regulation. Furthermore the opening two contributions deal not only with essential aspects of the harmonisation process of family law in Europe but also with the

CEFL s working method Changing Patterns of European Family Life Katja Boh,Maren Bak,Cristine Clason,Maja Pankratova,Jens Qvortrup,Giovanni B. Sgritta,Kari Waerness,2023-08-09 Originally published in 1989 this cross national study investigates the role and pattern of family life in fourteen countries in contemporary Europe Providing a wealth of information on European families it is a key source for anyone wishing to understand the changes in the family at that time The contributors argue that far from withering away the family remained a very important social unit which continued to have considerable influence on other social institutions such as the state and the labour market The central theme is the interrelation between changes in production and working life on one hand and changes in family life and reproduction on the other The contributors focus on the pressures and contradictions produced by the division of functions between family and work and on problems which have arisen as a consequence of the sometimes incompatible and even conflicting demands of the two institutions They show that the evolution of the nuclear family model in Europe had led to a great diversity of family patterns and conclude that the family in modern European societies still had a contribution to make which no other institution could provide European Family Law in Action Katharina Boele-Woelki,B. Braat,Ian Sumner,2003 This volume contains twenty three contributions related to 1 divorce and maintenance between former spouses 2 parental responsibilities 3 informal long term relationships and 4 the revised Brussels II Regulation The Encyclopædia Britannica Hugh Chisholm,James Louis Garvin,1926 Annual Report of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution Smithsonian Institution. Board of Regents,1872 Higher-grade English [by W.S. Dalgleish]. By W.S. Dalgleish Walter Scott Dalgleish,1896 The Elements of English Grammar with a Chapter on Essay-writing Alfred Slater West,1913 The Beginnings of English Literature Charlton Miner Lewis,1900 Johnson's Universal Cyclopædia Charles Kendall Adams,1899 The Coinage of the European Continent William Carew Hazlitt,1893 Outlines of European History: From the opening of the eighteenth century to the present day James Harvey Robinson,James Henry Breasted,Charles Austin Beard,1912 History of Europe since the 18th century in the growth of empires conflicts and wars in Europe social and economic development revolutions and growth of the nation state The Journal of the Anthropological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland ,1888 Correct English ,1899 Science John Michels (Journalist),1889 Since Jan 1901 the official proceedings and most of the papers of the American Association for the Advancement of Science have been included in Science
