European Iron Age:

The Oxford Handbook of the European Iron Age Colin Haselgrove, Katharina Rebay-Salisbury, Peter S. Wells, 2023 The Oxford Handbook of the European Iron Age presents to students scholars and interested general readers a broad overview of current understanding of the archaeology of Europe from 1000 BC through to the early historic periods

The European Iron Age John Collis, 2003-09-16 This ambitious study documents the underlying features which link the civilizations of the Mediterranean Phoenician Greek Etruscan and Roman and the Iron Age cultures of central Europe traditionally associated with the Celts It deals with the social economic and cultural interaction in the first millennium BC which culminated in the Roman Empire The book has three principle themes the spread of iron working from its origins in Anatolia to its adoption over most of Europe the development of a trading system throughout the Mediterrean world after the collapse of Mycenaean Greece and its spread into temperate Europe and the rise of ever more complex societies including states and cities and eventually empires Dr Collis takes a new look at such key concepts as population movement diffusion trade social structure and spatial organization with some challenging new views on the Celts in particular

Fingerprinting the Iron Age: Approaches to identity in the European Iron Age Cătălin Nicolae Popa, Simon Stoddart, 2014-09-30 Archaeology has long dealt with issues of identity and especially with ethnicity with modern approaches emphasising dynamic and fluid social construction The archaeology of the Iron Age in particular has engendered much debate on the topic of ethnicity fuelled by the first availability of written sources alongside the archaeological evidence which has led many researchers to associate the features they excavate with populations named by Greek or Latin writers Some archaeological traditions have had their entire structure built around notions of ethnicity around the relationships existing between large groups of people conceived together as forming unitary ethnic units On the other hand partly influenced by anthropological studies other scholars have written forcefully against Iron Age ethnic constructions such as the Celts The 24 contributions to this volume focus on the south east Europe where the Iron Age has until recently been populated with numerous ethnic groups with which specific material culture forms have been associated The first section is devoted to the core geographical area of south east Europe Bulgaria Croatia Romania Serbia and Slovenia as well as Albania and the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia The following three sections allow comparison with regions further to the west and the south west with contributions on central and western Europe the British Isles and the Italian peninsula The volume concludes with four papers which provide more synthetic statements that cut across geographical boundaries the final contributions bringing together some of the key themes of the volume The wide array of approaches to identity presented here reflects the continuing debate on how to integrate material culture protohistoric evidence largely classical authors looking in on first millennium BC societies and the impact of recent nationalistic agendas

Atlantic Europe in the First Millennium BC Thomas Hugh Moore, Xosê-Lois Armada, 2011 This volume of 33 papers on the Atlantic region of Western Europe in the first millennium BC reflects a diverse range of theoretical approaches techniques and methodologies across current research and is an opportunity to compare approaches to the first millennium BC from different national and theoretical perspectives Fingerprinting the Iron Age Cătălin Nicolae Popa, Simon Stoddart, 2014 Challenging Preconceptions of the European Iron Age Wendy Morrison, 2022-06-20 This collection of essays by leading researchers in the archaeology of the European Iron Age pays tribute to Professor John Collis who since the 1960s has been involved in investigating and enriching our understanding of Iron Age society and crucially questioning the status quo of our narratives about the past Enclosing Space, Opening New Ground Tanja Romankiewicz, Manuel Fernández-Götz, Gary Lock, Olivier Büchsenschütz, 2019-03-31 Enclosures are among the most widely distributed features of the European Iron Age From fortifications to field systems they demarcate territories and settlements sanctuaries and central places burials and ancestral grounds This dividing of the physical and the mental landscape between an inside and an outside is investigated anew in a series of essays by some of the leading scholars on the topic The contributions cover new ground from Scotland to Spain between France and the Eurasian steppe on how concepts and communities were created as well as exploring specific aspects and broader notions of how humans marked bounded and guarded landscapes in order to connect across space and time A recurring theme considers how Iron Age enclosures created curated formed or deconstructed memory and identity and how by enclosing space these communities opened links to an earlier past in order to understand or express their Iron Age presence In this way the contributions examine perspectives that are of wider relevance for related themes in different periods The Bronze Age-Iron Age Transition in Europe Marie Louise Stig Sørensen, Roger Thomas, 1989 This volume is part of a two volume set ISBN 9781407390192 Volume I ISBN 9781407390208 Volume II ISBN 9780860546207 Volume set European Prehistory Sarunas Milisauskas, 2012-12-06 Sarunas Milisauskas 1 1 INTRODUCTION The purpose of this book is four fold to introduce English speaking students and scholars to some of the outstanding archaeological research that has been done in Europe in recent years to integrate this research into an anthropological frame of reference to address episodes of culture change such as the transition to farming the origin of complex societies and the origin of urbanism and to provide an overview of European prehistory from the earliest appearance of humans to the rise of the Roman empire In 1978 the Academic Press published my book European Prehistory which typically for that period emphasized cultural evolution culture process technology environment and economy To produce a new version and an up to date prehistory of Europe I have invited contributions from specialists in the Palaeolithic Mesolithic Bronze and Iron Ages Thus while this version of European Prehistory is a new book however it still incorporates some data from the 1978 version particularly in The Present Environment and Neolithic chapters Like its predecessor this edition is structured around selected general topics such as technology trade settlement warfare and ritual Alternative Iron Ages Brais X. Currás, Inés Sastre, 2019-09-09 Alternative Iron Ages examines Iron Age social formations that sit outside traditional paradigms developing methods for archaeological characterisation of alternative models of society

In so doing it contributes to the debates concerning the construction and resistance of inequality taking place in archaeology anthropology and sociology In recent years Iron Age research on Western Europe has moved towards new forms of understanding social structures Yet these alternative social organisations continue to be considered as basic human social formations which frequently imply marginality and primitivism In this context the grand narrative of the European Iron Age continues to be defined by cultural foci which hide the great regional variety in an artificially homogenous area This book challenges the traditional classical evolutionist narratives by exploring concepts such as non triangular societies heterarchy and segmentarity across regional case studies to test and propose alternative social models for Iron Age social formations Constructing new social theory both archaeologically based and supported by sociological and anthropological theory the book is perfect for those looking to examine and understand life in the European Iron Age We are so grateful to the research project titled Paisajes rurales antiguos del Noroeste peninsular formas de dominacion romana y explotacion de recursos Ancient rural landscapes in Northwestern Iberia Roman dominion and resource exploitation HAR2015 64632 P MINECO FEDER directed from the Instituto de Historia CSIC and also to the Funda ao para a Ciencia e a Tecnologia Foundation for Science and Technology postdoctoral project SFRH BPD 102407 2014 Art of the European Iron Age J. V. S. Megaw, 1970

Beyond Celts, Germans and Scythians Peter S. Wells, 2001-07-12 The author uses patterns of identity revealed in archaeology to interpret the commentaries of Greek and Roman authors who conveyed their own perceptions of the non literate groups of the Iron Age Art of the European iron age J. V. S. Megaw, 1967 Celtic Art in Europe Christopher Gosden, Sally Crawford, Katharina Ulmschneider, 2014-08-29 The ancient Celtic world evokes debate discussion romanticism and mythicism On the one hand it represents a specialist area of archaeological interest on the other it has a wide general appeal The Celtic world is accessible through archaeology history linguistics and art history Of these disciplines art history offers the most direct message to a wider audience This volume of 37 papers brings together a truly international group of pre eminent specialists in the field of Celtic art and Celtic studies It is a benchmark volume the like of which has not been seen since the publication of Paul Jacobsthal s Early Celtic Art in 1944 The papers chart the history of attempts to understand Celtic art and argue for novel approaches in discussions spanning the whole of Continental Europe and the British Isles This new body of international scholarship will give the reader a sense of the richness of the material and current debates Artefacts of rich form and decoration which we might call art provide a most sensitive set of indicators of key areas of past societies their power politics and transformations With its broad geographical scope this volume offers a timely opportunity to re assess contacts context transmission and meaning in Celtic art for understanding the development of European cultures identities and economies in pre and proto history Nominated for Current Archaeology Book of the Year 2016 Prehistoric Europe Timothy Champion, 2016-06-16 The study of European prehistory has been revolutionized in recent years by the rapid growth rate of archeological discovery advances in dating methods and the application of scientific techniques to archaeological material and new archaeological aims and frameworks of interpretation Whereas previous work concentrated on the recovery and description of material remains the main focus is now on the reconstruction of prehistoric societies and the explanation of their development This volume provides that elementary and comprehensive synthesis of the new discoveries and the new interpretations of European prehistory After an introductory chapter on the geographical setting and the development of prehistoric studies in Europe the text is divided chronologically into nine chapters Each one describes with numerous maps plans and drawings the relevant archaeological data and proceeds to a discussion of the societies they represent Particular attention is paid to the major themes of recent prehistoric research especially subsistence economy trade settlement technology and social organization

Different Iron Ages J. D. Hill, C. G. Cumberpatch, 1995-01 This volume contains fourteen studies providing new perspectives on and material concerning the Iron Age in temperate Europe Contributors include P S Wells The La Tene Period in Germany T Hjørungdal The Early Iron Age in western Norway E Hamilton Was there ever a Roman Conquest J Hill A contextual study of Iron Age societies and hillforts in southern Britain C Cumberpatch Production and society in the Later Iron Age of Bohemia and Moravia H Parzinger The beginning of La Tene culture in central Europe R Gebhard The Celtic oppidum of Manching and its exchange system P Brun Oppida and social complexity in France G Ferrell New perspectives on the Iron Age of north east England P van den Broeke Iron Age sea salt trade in the Lower Rhine area M Kohler Hillfort settlement in Hallstatt Thuringia J Webster Interpretation and the Celtic gods R Hingley The Iron Age in Atlantic Scotland

Roman Europe Edward Bispham, 2008-10-31 This volume traces the rise of Rome and the extension of Roman power across Europe from the viewpoints of both conquerors and conquered and also Rome's barbarian heirs covering the period from 1000 BC through to AD 400 The book reconstructs as far as possible the indigenous experience of contact with Rome showing how Roman domination impacted upon the already complex world of Iron Age Europe before leaving a new barbarian world in its wake Using both literary and archaeological evidence the eight expert contributors analyse the transformation of Europe and the laying of the foundations of the Middle Ages including chapters on Iron Age Europe Roman society warfare and the army economy and trade religions and the cultural implications of Roman conquest as well as narrative chapters on war and politics

An Imperial Possession David Mattingly, 2008-05-27 Part of the Penguin History of Britain series An Imperial Possession is the first major narrative history of Roman Britain for a generation David Mattingly draws on a wealth of new findings and knowledge to cut through the myths and misunderstandings that so commonly surround our beliefs about this period From the rebellious chiefs and druids who led native British resistance to the experiences of the Roman military leaders in this remote dangerous outpost of Europe this book explores the reality of life in occupied Britain within the context of the shifting fortunes of the Roman Empire

Encyclopedia of Prehistory Peter N. Peregrine, Melvin Ember, 2003-07-31 A comprehensive overview of all of human history from two million years ago to the historic period Prepared under the auspices and with the support of the Human Relations Area Files and an internationally distinguished advisory board and edited by Peter N Peregrine and Melvin Ember the encyclopedia is organised regionally with entries on each major archaeological tradition written by noted experts in the field The entries follow a standard format and employ comparable units of description and analysis making them easy to use and compare Volume 9 contains the Cumulative Index to Volumes 1 8

Megasites in Prehistoric Europe Bissierka Gaydarska, John Chapman, 2022-10-27 This is an Element about some of the largest sites known in prehistoric Europe sites so vast that they often remain undiscussed for lack of the theoretical or methodological tools required for their understanding Here the authors use a relational comparative approach to identify not only what made megasites but also what made megasites so special and so large They have selected a sample of megasites in each major period of prehistory Neolithic Copper Bronze and Iron Ages with a detailed examination of a single representative megasite for each period The relational approach makes explicit comparisons between smaller more normal sites and the megasites using six criteria scale temporality deposition monumentality formal open spaces performance and congregational catchment The authors argue that many of the largest European prehistoric megasites were congregational places
