European Mosaic:

Europe's Constitutional Mosaic Neil Walker, Josephine Shaw, Stephen Tierney, 2011-06-14 This book emerged from an extended seminar series held in Edinburgh Law School which sought to explore the complex constitutional arrangements of the European legal space as an inter connected mosaic There has been much recent debate concerning the constitutional future of Europe focusing almost exclusively upon the EU in the context of the failed Constitutional Treaty of 2003 5 and the subsequent Treaty of Lisbon The premise of the book is that this focus while indispensable offers only a partial vision of the complex constitutional terrain of contemporary Europe In addition it is essential to explore other threads of normative authority within and across states embracing internal challenges to state level constitutional regimes the growing jurisprudential assertiveness of the Council of Europe regime through the ECHR and various democracy building measures as well as Europe's ever thicker relations both with its border regions and with broader international institutions especially those of the United Nations Together these developments create increasingly dense networks of constitutional authority within the European space This fluid and multi dimensional dynamic is difficult to classify and indeed may seem in many ways impenetrable but that makes the explanatory challenge all the more important and pressing Without this fuller picture it becomes impossible to understand the legal context of Europe today or the prospects of ongoing changes The book brings together a range of experts in law legal theory and political science from across Europe in order to address these complex issues and to supply illustrative case studies in the topical areas of the constitutionalisation of European labour law and European criminal law

A Mosaic of Gendered Power Imbalances Julia Schweiger, 2003-06-20 Inhaltsangabe Summary Over the last decade media and politicians have been praising the great economic and democratic progress of the former state socialist countries in East Central Europe At the same time however there have been occasional news about a growing income gap high female unemployment rates highly restrictive abortion legislation etc in those countries This contradiction caught my attention In my thesis I wanted to get to the bottom of it Thus the main questions at the beginning of my work were the following What changed after the implosion of state socialism in the countries of East Central Europe And how What were the gendered implications of these changes What role have the European Union and the possibility of gaining EU membership been playing in the transformation processes especially regarding the power relations between men and women I decided to restrict my research to seven former state socialist countries in East Central Europe that are currently candidates for membership in the European Union Poland Czechoslovakia respectively the Czech Republic and the Slovak Republic Hungary Slovenia Bulgaria and Romania To approach the questions standing at the beginning of my work I went way back to early socialist theorists protagonists and movements and their ideas and goals I was particularly interested in women and gender issues in these theories and ideas The next step was trying to grasp the state socialist reality From this vantage point I could finally analyse the changes and transformation processes that have been taking place since the implosion of state socialism I decided to use a feminist approach with gender as a central category of analysis This is a very fruitful way to discover and reveal social interconnections causes and outcomes of economic political and social processes as well as crucial patterns that have been influencing and or directing the processes in the East Central European countries under consideration over the last decades Since the topic of my thesis is in the realm of international politics I am taking a look at the encounters of feminist approaches and international relations at the beginning of my work After that I am giving an overview of the main approaches to researching and theorizing the transformation processes in the former state socialist countries of East Central Europe followed by an explanation of the approach I am taking Then I am

The Nation, Europe, and the World Hanna Schissler,Yasemin Nuhoglu Soysal,2005-04-01 Textbooks in history geography and the social sciences provide important insights into the ways in which nation states project themselves Based on case studies of France Germany the Netherlands Spain Greece Turkey Bulgaria Russia and the United States this volume shows the role that concepts of space and time play in the narration of our country and the wider world in which it is located It explores ways in which in western European countries the nation is reinterpreted through European lenses to replace national approaches in the writing of history On the other hand in an effort to overcome Eurocentric views world history has gained prominence in the United States Yet again East European countries coming recently out of a transnational political union have their own issues with the concept of nation to contend with These recent developments in the field of textbooks and curricula open up new and fascinating perspectives on the changing patterns of the re positioning process of nation states in West as well as Eastern Europe and the United States in an age of growing importance of transnational organizations and globalization Religion and European Society Ben Schewel,Erin K. contemporary examination of the role of religion in the European public sphere and beyond Although the role of religion has arguably declined in the societies of Western and Northern Europe religious participation in other parts of the continent and among growing immigrant communities remains an important aspect of daily life. Recent years have seen a resurgence of religion in the public sphere prompting many researchers to view European secularism as an outlier in this global trend.

Religion and European Society: A Primer presents recent academic literature that explores key developments and current debates in the field covering topics such as changing patterns of belief, religion across the political spectrum and development and humanitarian aid. Articles written by leading scholars draw from well established findings to help readers contemplate the role of religion in public life, understand the assumptions and underpinnings of the secular worldview and develop new ways of thinking about global issues relevant to contemporary global affairs. Each theme is addressed by several articles to provide readers with diverse, sometimes competing perspectives. This volume offers concepts and ideas that can be used in various policy practitioner and academic settings, clarifying overarching concepts and trends rather than analyzing specific policy issues that can quickly become outdated.

Addresses issues of contemporary importance such as demographic changes, increased religious observance, increased immigration, the emergence of new religious movements and changes in more established religions. Explores the ethical and philosophical concepts as well as the practical everyday consequences of European post secularism. Challenges widespread assumptions about the secular nature of the modern public sphere. Offers analytical tools as well as practical policy recommendations on a range of issues including media regulation, gender conflict and peacebuilding, immigration and humanitarianism. Designed to move research findings from academic journals to the realm of public discourse.

Religion and European Society: A Primer is a valuable source of information for practitioners within and outside of Europe of religious studies, politics and international affairs.

Cultural Identities and Ethnic Minorities in Europe David Turton, Julia González, 1999-01-01. In the different projects of the Thematic Network on Humanitarian Development Studies there is an underlying note which is both intended and spontaneously recorded after its activities. We refer to the European dimension and the idea of sharing approaches and perspectives into the analysis on a number of working themes. The initial intention is therefore to create common language and shared points of reference where variety could be read and further understood.

The Securitisation of Migration in the EU Gabriella Lazaridis, Khursheed Wadia, 2015-10-15 Since 9 11 Western states have sought to integrate securitisation measures within migration regimes as asylum seekers and other migrant categories come to be seen as agents of social instability or as potential terrorists Treating migration as a security threat has therefore increased insecurity amongst migrant and ethnic minority populations
