Moss, 2024-06-14 Many historians have examined the French labor movement but few have gone beyond chronicling unions strikes and personalities to undertake a concrete analysis of workers aims in their historical context Searching for what Marx called the real movement of the working class Bernard H Moss presents a sophisticated revisionist interpretation that uncovers a core ideology of social vision underlying the many changes and variations in French socialism To define this ideology and delineate its social base Moss cuts through conventional distinctions between artisans and proletarians and between anarchism and socialism to derive an intermediate category the federalist trade socialism of skilled workers Originally manifested in the trade movement for producers associations and cooperatives this socialism eventually found revolutionary expression in Bakuninism possibilism Allemanism and revolutionary syndicalism The social base of this movement was the skilled craftsmen undergoing a process of proletarianization In The Origins of the French Labor Movement Moss rehabilitates ideology both as a vital force in history and as a serious subject for scientific history He proposes important revisions in our understanding of French politics and society in the nineteenth century and suggests a new approach to socialist ideology not as abstract theory but as the result of historical experience and process This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1976 The Birth of a New Europe Theodore S. innovations that challenged nineteenth century Europe using a perspective that transcends events that occurred within national boundaries He brings together political social diplomatic and national developments to demonstrate how they relate to the profound transformations brought about by the industrial revolution Using a wealth of statistics and other documentation to buttress insightful generalizations Hamerow broadly appraises the implications of the shift in Europe from an agricultural to an industrial society Among the subjects he considers are the rise of the middle and working classes the spread of literacy and the enfranchisement of the masses the growth of urban centers of manufacture and trade the acquisition of colonies the spread of military technologies and the changes in the functions of governments

Women Workers And Technological Change In Europe In The Nineteenth And twentieth century Gertjan De Groot, Marlou Schrover, 2005-08-05 From the traditional stereotyped viewpoint femininity and technology clash This negative association between women and technology is one of the features of the sex typing of jobs Men are seen as technically competent and creative women are seen as incompetent suited only to work with machines that have been made and maintained by men Men identify themselves with technology and technology is identified with masculinity The relationship between technology technological change and women s work is however very complex Through studies examining technological change and the sexual division of labour this book traces the origins of the segregation between women s work and men s work and sheds light on the complicated relationship between work and technology Drawing on research from a number of European countries England Sweden Denmark and the Netherlands international contributors present detailed studies on women s work spanning two centuries The chapters deal with a variety of work environments office work textiles and pottery food production civil service and cotton and wool industries This work rejects the idea that women were mainly employed as unskilled labour in the industrial revolutions asserting that skill was required from the women but that both the historical record about women s work and the social construction of the concept of skill have denied this

Rural Capitalists in Asia Mario Rutten, 2005-08-18 This is a comparative study of small capitalists and rural industrialists in three Asian countries Studies on the entrepreneurial class in South Asia tend to focus on the structural aspects of entrepreneurial behaviour while studies on this class in Southeast Asia tend to focus on cultural aspects of their behaviour In fact this book points to striking similarities between Indian overseas Chinese and Muslim businessmen in Asia similarities usually hidden under variations in analytical approaches Although this study emphasizes similarities within Asia it does not support the view of a specific Asian business pattern different to the rise of non Asian especially European entrepreneurs The findings are of major interest not just within the fields of anthropology and entrepreneurship but to all scholars working on South or Southeast Asia who will find much of interest in the author's observations of variable research results between the two regions
