International Migration Douglas S. Massey, J. Edward Taylor, 2004-03-25

International Migration Prospects and Policies offers a comprehensive up to date survey of global patterns of international migration and the policies employed to manage the flows It shows that international migration is not rooted in poverty or rapid population growth but in the expansion and consolidation of global markets As nations are structurally transformed by their incorporation into global markets people are displaced from traditional livelihoods and become international migrants In seeking to work abroad they do not necessarily move to the closest or richest destination but to places already connected to their countries of origin socially economically and politically When they move migrants rely heavily on social networks created by earlier waves of immigrants and in recent years professional migration brokers have become increasingly common Developing countries generally benefit from international migration because migrant savings and remittances provide foreign earnings to finance balance of payments deficits and make productive investments Some developing nations have gone so far as to establish programs or ministries dedicated to the export of workers Developed nations in contrast focus more on the social and economic costs of immigrants and seek to reduce their numbers regulate their characteristics and limit their access to social services Over time receiving nations have gravitated toward a similar set of restrictive policies yielding undocumented migration as a worldwide phenomenon Globalization also creates infrastructures of transportation communication and social networks to put developed societies within reach In the latter ageing populations and segmenting markets create a persistent demand for immigrant workers All these trends are likely to intensify in the coming years to make immigration policy a key political issue in the twenty first century

Recent Social Trends in Greece, 1960-2000

Dimitris Charalambis, Laura Maratou-Alipranti, Andromachi Hadjiyanni, 2004-02-25 The newest volume in the Comparative Charting of Social Change series highlights the main elements of demographic social political and economic development in Greece during the period 1960 2000 Based on a systematic analysis of available information and data this volume provides an overview of Greece s socio economic profile which changed significantly during the studied period The collapse of the dictatorship in 1974 and Greece s entry into the European Union EU in 1980 have led to a consolidation of democratic institutions and the improvement of living standards During the 1960s and 1970s the country experienced high rates of economic development and relatively low unemployment rates However this increase in economic development has slowed since the early 1980s and the unemployment rate has risen particularly among young people Consistent with recent social trends in other Western societies Greek society has become more tolerant and permissive with more diverse and flexible moral norms However the prevailing family model remains traditional and the Greek Orthodox Church continues to have a strong influence on many aspects of Greek society including social political and cultural life The organization of work also follows traditional patterns despite the introduction of new and flexible forms of employment Female participation in the labour market remains relatively low despite legislation and regulations that promote equality of opportunities between the sexes Consistent with recent social trends in other Western societies Greece's population is aging and the birth rate has stabilized at a relatively low level Contributors include Ioannis Antonopoulos Dimitri Economou University of Thessalia Evi Fagadaki Thomas Maloutas University of Thessalia Alberto Martinelli Ioannis Myrizakis Theodore Papadogonas Apostolos Papadopoulos University of Ioannina Roy Panagiotopoulou Apostolis Rafailidis economist Paris Tsartas University of Aegean Kostas Yannakopoulos Elisabeth Allison Dionisis Balourdos Nikos Bouzas Kaliroi Daskalaki Amalia Frangiskou Emmy Fronimou Panayiotis Kafetzis Roxanne Kaftantzoglou John Kallas Chrysa Kappi Maria Ketsetzopoulou Helene Kovani Evdokia Manologlou Joannis Micheloyiannakis Aliko Mouriki Panagiota Papadopoulou Ioanna Papathanassiou Christos Papatheodorou Marina Petronoti Nikos Sarris Theoni Stathopoulou Hara Stratoudaki Haris Symeonidou Maria Thanopoulou Olga Tsakirides Joanna Tsiganou Christina Varouxli Efi Venizelou and Ersi Zacoboulou are all researchers at the National Centre for Social Research EKKE

Cross-National Research Methodology and Practice Linda Hantrais,Steen Mangel,2013-09-13 Cross National Research Methodology and Practice offers practical guidance for relative newcomers to cross national research by analysing and evaluating the research process by focusing strongly on best practice in terms of methods and management It raises a number of important issues for cross national research which have been given insufficient attention in discussions of methods and practice The volume contains reflexive and theoretically based pieces on the development of contextualization as an approach to cross national comparative research on qualitative and quantitative methods extending to the integration of different methodological approaches The volume includes practical examples of cross national research projects which illustrate different methods ranging from biographical and documentary approaches the collection and analysis of socio demographic and attitudinal survey data either carried out by lone researchers or teams of researchers the exploration of internet sources and application of computer analysis to quantitative and qualitative data This collection provides a firm emphasis on methodological issues relating to context values and discourse Refugees, Citizenship and Social Policy in Europe A. Bloch,C. Levy,1999-04-30 Recently global and European migration in the post Cold War world have received much attention This edited collection is a comprehensive up to date account of the social policies of European welfare states towards refugees and asylum seekers It also examines the contested boundaries between refugees and asylum seekers and citizenship within European nation states and the European Union European Populations Van der Kaa,2012-12-06 The changing demographic landscape which Europe is facing today and in the next decades reflects the past These changes constitute important challenges to European populations and societies Shifts in fertility and family formation in health morbidity and mortality in internal and international migration as well as changes in age structures in households in labour forces and in population growth and decline will influence the living conditions and well being of Europe s population directly or indirectly The demographic challenge also concerns the environment local regional and national developments education production and consumption patterns economic competitiveness social security housing employment and transport and health and social care provisions These issues their mechanisms determinants and consequences also challenge the scientific study of population As a major forum and market place for scientific demographic debate the 1999 European Population Conference EPC99 was organized to take up this challenge On the threshold of the third millennium European populations are united in diversity and face major demographic issues

Europe: One Continent, Different Worlds De

Beer, 2013-03-13 On the threshold of a new century the organisers of the European Population Conference 1999 EPC99 in The Hague decided not only to highlight the population trends that Europe is facing today but also the changes in the 21st century that are set to shape the future of Europe They decided to focus on comparative issues both in time and in space In order to trace the degree of homogeneity and heterogeneity of European populations over time converging and diverging population trends that are specific to contemporary and future Europe need to be explored This is reflected in EPC99's motto European Populations on the threshold of the new millennium unity in diversity Future demographic developments will be caused by specific economic social and cultural conditions in Europe and will in turn have a major influence on future economic and social conditions To the extent that demographic trends differ across countries separate countries may face different social and economic problems As demographic trends tend to have long lasting effects it is important to assess the possible consequences of future demographic developments at an early stage On the occasion of EPC99 two of the organisers Statistics Netherlands SN and the Netherlands Interdisciplinary Demographic Institute NIDI decided to produce a set of two population scenarios showing the possible impact of converging and diverging population trends in the next century Into the Margins Floya Anthias, Gabriella Lazaridis, 2018-12-21 First published in 1999 this insightful volume thoroughly explores the issue of migration and social exclusion in Southern Europe It has a number of distinct approaches including balancing academic research by including the South reflecting on migration related policies and a perceptive exploration of the new challenges which face the South This accessible book will help readers to identify anomalies that lie at the heart of the European Union On the one hand unhindered movement of labour is allowed yet on the other hand external frontiers are protected Borders with Southern Europe allow entry by specific groups of migrants fleeing from their countries such as the Polish and Albanians who live in Greece and other illegal migrants The rationale behind these processes is analysed while keeping in mind societal procedures such as policy developments the growth of new forms of xenophobia exclusion and racialisation of different migrants Coming at a time when interior ministry officials of the EU member states are pursuing a policy to cut down on third country migrants this much needed research sheds light on current political events

Mediterranean Migration and the Labour Markets Salvatore Capasso, Eugenia Ferragina, 2019-07-15 This book focuses on issues that are relevant for the Euro Mediterranean Partnership The depth and the extension of the current political crisis in the area have changed the perspectives of conventional Euro Mediterranean integration policies The book provides the grounds for new patterns of analysis and addresses policy guidelines which are able to respond to the dramatic challenges that Mediterranean regions are facing By implementing a multidisciplinary approach the volume uncovers the structural determinants of migrations in the area territorial and social imbalances climate change unemployment weak institutions poor governance lack of efficient redistributive policies Each chapter proposes innovative and rich analyses of the socio economic conditions of all Mediterranean countries The prevailing evidence suggests that while the North South imbalances still persist inside the basin the recent world economic and financial crises have deepened social intergenerational and gender inequalities These inequalities cross all territories both nationally and internationally and affect the living conditions of large segments of population in Southern and Eastern Mediterranean countries To bridge these gaps it is necessary to strengthen territorial cohesion reduce income differentials and improve the access of marginal areas to basic infrastructure These long term goals can be achieved through an inclusive development model for which young people and women can enjoy the same opportunities of education and work Offering innovative and practical guidelines for future programs and policies this book is essential reading for policy makers researchers at policy think tanks as well as academics and post graduate students of Mediterranean studies and Economic Policy The general policy recipes provided to govern migration flows make useful reading for national and international research centres and major governmental agencies interested in migration issues

Migration Policies and EU Enlargement The Case of Central and Eastern Europe
OECD,2001-01-26 This conference proceedings shows that the migration flows within and from the CEECs are much more complex than a straightforward westward flow towards the European Union and North America New Asylum

Countries? Rosemary Byrne,Gregor Noll,Jens Vedsted-Hansen,2002-01-01 How is access to asylum and other forms of extraterritorial protection regulated in the European Union Is the EU acquis in these areas in conformity with international law Which tools does international law offer to solve collisions between both And finally is law capable of bridging the foundational oppositions embedded in migration and asylum issues This volume is about the transformation of asylum in Europe in the context of the EU enlargement process This transformation involves norms as well as the procedures and resources for their implementation In the candidate countries as in the west the process of transformations is marked by the tension between the interests of protection and migration control Through their comprehensive analysis the authors illuminate the legal and political dynamics which underlie this tension Chapters trace the complex patterns of national sub regional and EU law and policy that are driving the future of asylum in an expanded Europe This allows for reflection on what the transformation process tells us about the current EU asylum acquis and what it tells us about the prospects for refugee protection in the new frontier states and beyond This book is the result of a three year study carried out by academics and practitioners from the candidate countries current Member States and international organizations It explores the evolution of refugee policy and practice in a changing Europe Orthodox Christian Identity in Western Europe

Sebastian Rimestad,2020-11-19 This book analyses the discourses of Orthodox Christianity in Western Europe to demonstrate the emerging discrepancies between the mother Church in the East and its newer Western congregations Showing the genesis and development of these discourses over the twentieth century it examines the challenges the Orthodox Church is facing in the modern world Organised along four different discursive fields the book uses these fields to analyse the Orthodox Church in Western Europe during the twentieth century It explores pastoral ecclesiological institutional and ecumenical discourses in order to present a holistic view of how the Church views itself and how it seeks to interact with other denominations Taken together these four fields reveal a discursive vitality outside of the traditionally Orthodox societies that is however only partly reabsorbed by the church hierarchs in core Orthodox regions like Southeast Europe and Russia The Orthodox Church is a complex and multi faceted global reality Therefore this book will be a vital guide to scholars studying the Orthodox Church ecumenism and religion in Europe as well as those working in religious studies sociology of religion and theology more generally

The British on The Costa Del Sol Karen O'Reilly, 2013-08-06

Brits in Spain first achieved notoriety during the 1980s popularly imagined as a group made up of exiled criminals drunken hooligans and leathery looking pensioners welcome to Little England The British on the Costa Del Sol is the very first book to study this British expatriate community in any great depth and through use of interviews with members of this community paints a far more complex picture of its members In doing so the author explodes the popularly held stereotype of Brits in Spain What emerges is a rich account of who migrates their reasons for migration and the day to day realities of expatriate life
