Everyday Architecture Manning Robertson, 1923 The Architecture of Home in Cairo Mohamed Gamal Abdelmonem, 2016-03-03 The hawari of Cairo narrow non straight alleyways are the basic urban units that have formed the medieval city since its foundation back in 969 AD Until early in the 20th they made up the primary urban divisions of the city and were residential in nature Contemporary hawari by contrast are increasingly dominated by commercial and industrial activity This medieval urban maze of extremely short broken zigzag streets and dead ends are defensible territories powerful institutions and important social systems While the hawari have been studied as an exemplar for urban structure of medieval Islamic urbanism and as individual building typologies this book is the first to examine in detail the socio spatial practice of the architecture of home in the city It investigates how people live communicate and relate to each other within their houses or shared spaces of the alleys and in doing so to uncover several new socio spatial dimensions and meanings in this architectural form In an attempt to re establish the link between architecture past and present and to understand the changing social needs of communities this book uncovers the notion of home as central to understand architecture in such a city with long history as Cairo It firstly describes the historical development of the domestic spaces indoor and outdoor and provides an inclusive analysis of spaces of everyday activities in the hawari of old Cairo It then broadens its analysis to other parts of the city highlighting different customs and representations of home in the city at large Cairo in the context of this book is represented as the most sophisticated urban centre in the Middle East with different and sometimes contrasting approaches to the architecture of home as a practice and spatial system In order to analyse the complexity and interconnectedness of the components and elements of the hawari as a collective home it layers its narratives of architectural and social developments as a domestic environment over the past two hundred years and in doing so explores the in depth social meaning and performance of spaces both private and public

Style-Architecture and Building-Art Hermann Muthesius, 1994-12-15 Style Architecture and Building Art is Hermann Muthesius's classic criticism of nineteenth century architecture Now published for the first time in English this pivotal text represents the first serious effort by Muthesius to define the elements of early modernist architecture according to notions of realism and simplicity Although Muthesius is known best in Anglo American architectural literature for his studies of the English house his scholarship constituted a wide ranging modernist polemic emanating from the German realist movement of the late 1890s Notions that were introduced in Style Architecture and Building Art became common in later modernist historiography disdain for the nineteenth century's artistic eclecticism and lack of originality appreciation of the material and industrial aspects of building technology and above all a simpler approach to design Muthesius critique of stylistic architecture is not only linked to the development of the Deutsche Werkbund movement but also can be viewed more broadly as a cornerstone of the modern movement In his introduction Stanford Anderson situates Muthesius and his work in turn of the century architectural discourse and analyzes his vision of a new form of architecture Anderson also discusses the rationale underlying the call for cultural renewal the role of English architectural models in Muthesius's thought critical differences between the first and second editions of Style Architecture and Building Art the influence of the Jugendstil and Art Nouveau movements on Muthesius and in turn the influence of Muthesius on the Deutsche Werkbund movement This is Not Architecture Kester Rattenbury, 2005-08-04 This is Not Architecture assembles architectural writers of different kinds historians theorists journalists computer game designers technologists film makers and architects to discuss the characteristics cultures limitations and bias of the different kinds of media and to build up an argument as to how this complex culture of representations is constructed Everyday Housekeeping, 1901 The Future of Modular Architecture David Wallance, 2021-04-07 The Future of Modular Architecture presents an unprecedented proposal for mass customized mid and high rise modular housing that can be manufactured and distributed on a global scale Advocating for the adoption of open source design based on a new modular standard the book shows how the construction industry and architectural practice may soon be radically reshaped By leveraging the existing intermodal freight transport system global supply chains can be harnessed to realize the long held promise that housing will be a well designed and affordable industrial product We are on the cusp of a transformative change in the way we design and build our cities Author David Wallance argues that modular architecture is profoundly intertwined with globalization equitable urbanism and sustainable development His book addresses these timely issues through a specific approach grounded in fundamental concepts Going beyond the individual modular building Wallance forecasts the emergence of a new type of design manufacturing and construction enterprise Written in an approachable style with illustrated examples the book is a must read for professionals in architecture and design city planning construction real estate as well as the general reader with an interest in these topics Architecture and Civilization Michael H. Mitias, 1999 Innovation in Architecture Alan J. experiments and for their extensive cultural activism They founded literary magazines and writers groups wrote newspaper columns and created a new forum for intellectual debate on public radio At the same time they led busy lives as wives and mothers social workers and teachers editors and critics and competed successfully with their male contemporaries in the public arena in an era when women were not generally encouraged to hold professional positions or pursue public careers The acknowledgement of these writers formidable contribution to the development of modernism in Canada and along with it wider boundaries of daring for women and other people previously disadvantaged by racial ethnic or religious identifications has profound implications for the way we read and understand Canadian literary and cultural history and for the shape of both national and international modernisms

Architecture, Crisis and Resuscitation Tahl Kaminer, 2011-01-20 Studying the relation of architecture to society this book explains the manner in which the discipline of architecture adjusted itself in order to satisfy new pressures by society Consequently it offers an understanding of contemporary conditions and phenomena ranging from the ubiquity of landmark buildings to the celebrity status of architects It concerns the period spanning from 1966 to the first years of the current century a period which saw radical change in economy politics and culture and a period in which architecture radically transformed substituting the alleged dreariness of modernism with spectacle

The Everyday Life of Memorials Andrew M. Shanken, 2022-10-04 A timely study erudite and exciting about the ordinary and oftentimes unseen lives of memorials Memorials are commonly studied as part of the commemorative infrastructure of modern society Just as often they are understood as sites of political contestation where people battle over the meaning of events But most of the time they are neither Instead they take their rest as ordinary objects part of the street furniture of urban life Most memorials are turned on only on special days such as Memorial Day or at heated moments as in August 2017 when the Robert E Lee monument in Charlottesville was overtaken by a political maelstrom The rest of the time they are turned off This book is about the everyday life of memorials It explores their relationship to the pulses of daily life their meaning within this quotidian context and their place within the development of modern cities Through Andrew Shanken's close historical readings of memorials both well known and obscure two distinct strands of scholarship are thus brought together the study of the everyday and memory studies From the introduction of modern memorials in the wake of the French Revolution through the recent destruction of Confederate monuments memorials have oscillated between the everyday and the not everyday In fact memorials have been implicated in the very structure of these categories The Everyday Life of Memorials explores how memorials end up where they are grow invisible fight with traffic get moved are assembled into memorial zones and are drawn anew into commemorations and political maelstroms that their original sponsors never could have imagined Finally exploring how people behave at memorials and what memorials ask of people reveals just how strange the commemorative infrastructure of modernity is
